Mr. Fremont Rider, editor of The Publishers' Weekly, furnished the statistics from which the above figures were compiled.

THE DICKENS FELLOWSHIP.

THE Dickens Fellowship is a world-wide league of English-speaking men and women whose purpose is to exemplify the teachings of Charles Dickens and to cultivate and diffuse the spirit which pervades his writings—the spirit of innocent festivity and mirth, of religion without bigotry, of charity without coldness, of universal philanthropy and human kinship. The society began its existence in London in October, 1902. The object and aims of the Fellowship are:

"To knit together in a common bond of friendship lovers of that great master of humor and pathos, Charles Dickens. To spread the love of humanity, which is the keynote of all his work. To take such measures as may be expedient to remedy or ameliorate those existing social evils which would have appealed so strongly to the heart of Charles Dickens, and to help in every possible direction the cause of the poor and the oppressed. To assist in the preservation and purchase of buildings and objects associated with his name and mentioned in his works. To do all such things as are incidental or conducive to the attainment of the above objects or any of them."

The fellowship is open to all, without restriction as to class, creed or nationality. Headquarters, Whitehall House, 30 Charing Cross, London. Secretary, T. W. Hill. Branches of the fellowship have been formed not only throughout Great Britain but in the United States and Canada, India, Australia, and New Zealand. There are probably 24,000,000 copies of Dickens's works extant. The Life Presidents are the two surviving children of Charles Dickens, namely, Henry F. Dickens, K. C., and Mrs. Kate Perugini.

ORDER OF THE BLUE GOOSE.

A National organization of general and special agents of fire insurance companies for social purposes. Each State organization is known as a "State pond" in the United States, and "Provincial pond" in Canada, and the general organization as the "Grand Nest." The following are the National officers: Most Loyal Grand Gander—J. R. Stewart, 15 Wellington Street, E. Toronto, Canada. Grand Supervisor of the Flock—E. G. Carlisle, 124 South La Salle Street, Chicago, Ill. Grand Custodian of the Goslings—Gus M. Wise, 809 Sharp Building, Kansas City, Mo. Grand Guardian of the Nest—W. J. Sonnen, Insurance Exchange, Chicago, Ill. Grand Keeper of the Golden Goose Egg—John A. Hanson, Endicott Building, St. Paul, Minn. Grand Wielder of the Goose Quill—B. A. Lehnberg, 1305 First National Bank Building, Milwaukee, Wis.

NATIONAL MODEL LICENSE LEAGUE.

President—T. M. Gilmore, Louisville, Ky. Vice-President—George G. Brown, Louisville, Ky. Treasurer—J. B. Wathen, Jr., Louisville, Ky. Secretary—G. R. Washburne, Louisville, Ky. Chairman Executive Committee—I. W. Bernheim, Louisville, Ky. Chairman Model Law Committee—A. C. Van Winkle, Louisville, Ky.

The purpose of the organization is to conduct a National educational campaign in favor of legislation intended to take the liquor question out of politics and to put law-breakers out of the liquor business. It advocates limitation of licenses in proportion to population, thus preventing undue competition; mandatory penalties suspending and cancelling licenses of law-breakers; moderate license fees enabling the license holder to make a legitimate profit, and the renewal of a license so long as the holder obeys the law, and so long as the business is not outlawed by vote of the people, thereby relieving the liquor dealer of the domination of politicians.

The league's legislative plan has been adopted as a whole by Indiana and Ohio, and in part by Texas, Arkansas, Michigan, Louisiana, and Connecticut. The league was organized in October, 1907. Its membership includes numerous professional and business men. Office, Commercial Building, Louisville, Ky.

THE HUGUENOT SOCIETY OF AMERICA.

This society was organized April 13, 1883, with an office in New York at 2 West Forty-fifth Street. Descent from Huguenot ancestors is the qualification necessary for membership. President—William Mitchell. Treasurer—T. J. O. Rhinelander. Secretary—Mrs. James M. Lawton.

THE UNIVERSITY OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK.

THE STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION.

The University of the State of New York, governed by the Board of Regents, established and incorporated in 1784, includes in its constituent membership all public schools of the State and, as institutions in the university, all secondary and higher educational institutions incorporated in the State and such libraries, museums, institutions, schools, organizations and agencies for education as may be admitted to or incorporated by the university. The President of the university is also the Commissioner of Education, the chief executive officer of the entire State educational system. The assistant Commissioners are Augustus S. Downing for higher, Charles F. Wheelock for secondary and Thomas E. Finegan for elementary education. The State Library, James I. Wyer, Jr., director, and the State Museum, John M. Clarke, director, are departments of the university.

THE DISCIPLES OF CHRIST.

The Disciples of Christ as a religious movement began to develop early in the nineteenth century. Among the Protestant bodies of America they rank fifth in number, having a membership of 1,375,000, with 9,000 churches and 6,000 ministers. Their strength is greatest in the Ohio and Mississippi Valley States. Their aim is to occupy a catholic position common to all Christian bodies. They seek to unite all followers of Christ by a return to the common faith and practice of the apostolic church. Their local churches are congregational in polity; their organized co-operative work embodies the following organizations:

A General Convention consisting of delegates from the churches meets annually in October. Its object is to promote unity, economy and efficiency among the philanthropic organizations of the Churches of Christ, promote equitable representation and secure closer co-operation. Its powers are advisory. There are also annual conventions in the various States. Dr. W. F. Richardson, Kansas City, Mo., is President, and Rev. Robert Graham Frank, Liberty, Mo., is Secretary.

The American Christian Missionary Society was organized in 1849, has headquarters in Cincinnati, Ohio, and operates in all North America. It has departmental work for Sunday schools, Social Service, Rural Church, Immigrants and Foreign Relations. F. W. Burnham is President, Grant K. Lewis, Secretary, and Robert M. Hopkins, Bible School Secretary.

The Christian Woman's Board of Missions was organized in 1874, and has headquarters in the College of Missions Building, Indianapolis, Ind. This board has charge of the women's work and has missions both in the home and foreign lands. Mrs. Anna R. Atwater is the President and Mrs. Effie L. Cunningham, Mrs. J. McDaniel Stearns and Mrs. Ellie K. Payne are Secretaries.

The Foreign Christian Missionary Society was organized in 1875, and has headquarters in Cincinnati, Ohio. It is engaged exclusively in the work of foreign missions. A. McLean is the President, and F. M. Rains, Stephen J. Corey and R. A. Doan are Secretaries.

The Board of Church Extension was organized in 1888, and has headquarters in the New England Building, Kansas City, Mo. This board is engaged exclusively in the erection of church buildings. G. W. Muckley and John H. Booth are Secretaries.

The National Benevolent Association was organized in St. Louis in 1887, where it has headquarters. It cares for orphans and widows and provides homes for the aged and infirm. It conducts hospitals in Valparaiso, Ind., and at Kansas City, Mo. It manages homes for the aged in Jacksonville, Ill.; East Aurora, N. Y.; Walla Walla, Wash., and Dallas, Tex. It conducts homes and institutions for children at St. Louis, Mo.; Cleveland, Ohio; Dallas, Tex.; Atlanta, Ga.; Denver, Col., and Omaha, Neb. J. W. Perry of Kansas City, Mo., is President; Lee W. Grant of St. Louis, Mo., Treasurer, and James H. Mohorter, St. Louis, Mo., General Secretary.

The Board of Ministerial Relief was organized in 1895, and provides pensions for ministers and missionaries, aged or disabled in the service of God, and for their widows and orphans. Its headquarters is at 120 East Market Street, Indianapolis, Ind. A. L. Orcutt is President, and W. R. Warren, Secretary.

The American Temperance Board was organized in 1910, and has headquarters in Indianapolis, Ind. Its business is to promote the temperance cause, including prohibition. Its President is David H. Shields, Kokomo, Ind., and its Secretary is L. E. Sellers, Box 501, Indianapolis.

The Commission on Christian Union was organized in 1910, and Dr. Peter Ainslie of Baltimore, Md., has been the only President. This organization is for the promotion of Christian union throughout the world. With other similar bodies the commission is helping to plan for a world conference on unity.

The Board of Education was organized in 1914. It has headquarters at Indianapolis, Ind. It consists of the executive head of twenty-six institutions of learning among the Disciples of Christ. Dr. R. H. Crossfield, Lexington, Ky., is President, and Charles E. Underwood, 70 Layman Avenue, Indianapolis, Ind., is Secretary.

All the institutions just referred to, missionary, educational and benevolent, are related to the Men and Millions Movement, a holding corporation for the purpose of promoting a special work of extension among the Disciples of Christ. This Men and Millions Movement has headquarters at 222 West Fourth Street, Cincinnati, Ohio. Its purpose is to raise in five years, over and above the regular income of these societies, $6,300,000 for enlargement, 1,000 new missionaries at home and abroad, and to place the income to the several missionary and philanthropic enterprises upon a regular systematic basis by promoting the budget system and the every-member canvass. This movement is directed by its Secretaries, A. E. Cory and R. H. Miller. The total income of these missionary societies last year was $1,503,716.

ACADEMIC DRESS.

Academic dress, the acknowledged badge of the scholar, is now worn by the majority of universities and colleges in this country. Mr. G. C. Leonard, Director of the Intercollegiate Bureau of Academic Costume at Albany, N. Y., adapted the gowns, hoods, and caps now used in America from the English styles, to a system formulated by an Intercollegiate Commission, whereby the exact degree of each wearer may be determined. This code has been officially recognized by over six hundred institutions and the bureau is now chartered by the University of the State of New York.

There are three distinct types of gowns and hoods—the bachelor's, the master s, and the doctor's. The bachelor's gown is most commonly worn and has long pointed sleeves; the master's gown has long closed sleeves with a slit through which the forearm protrudes; the doctor's gown has velvet bars on round open sleeves and velvet facings down the front. Caps worn with such gowns are the regulation mortar boards with black silk tassels. Doctors may wear gold tassels on caps.

The hoods are separate from the gowns, hanging down the back from colored velvet bands across the throat. They indicate the degrees by the size of the hoods and their velvet trimmings and show the institutions granting the degrees by the college colors in distinctive arrangements in the exposed linings of the hoods. The velvet trimmings are two inches wide on the bachelor hoods, three inches wide on masters' hoods, four and a half inches on doctors' hoods. The doctors' hoods are also widened by panels edged with cording of the college colors. The colored velvet trimmings indicate degrees as follows:

White, Arts and Letters; scarlet, Theology; purple, Laws; gold-yellow, Science; brown, Fine Arts; pink, Music; orange, Engineering; olive, Pharmacy; maize, Agriculture; lilac, Dentistry; gray, Veterinary Science; russet, Forestry; lemon, Library Science; light blue, Pedagogy; silver-gray, Oratory; drab, Commerce and Accountancy; sage-green, Physical Education; crimson, Humanics; copper, Economics.

THE GARY SCHOOL SYSTEM.

THE Gary or Wirt system is so new that it is not mentioned in the latest published encyclopedia, bearing date 1915. It is also known as the "duplicate school system" and as the "work-study-and-play plan." The latter phrase is the one used by Mr. Wirt in his latest written statement, made a few weeks ago, and also in several addresses. Some students of education wonder why, since schools and all other institutions of learning are universally believed to be for study primarily, work is placed first in the combination, and believe that the true order should be "study, play and work." In an official report dated July 30, 1914, Mr. Wirt used the expressions "a study, work and play school," "study, work and play programme," and "a successful study, work and play school."

The system was devised by William Wirt, School Superintendent of Gary, a city in Indiana, about 30 miles from Chicago, where is the main plant of the United States Steel Corporation. Gary has a population of about 30,000, and the number of school children is about 5,000. The central principle is that two schools shall occupy the same building, each a counterpart of the other, using alternately the classrooms, shops, gymnasium, auditorium, library, etc. By making the total capacity of the shops, gymnasium, playground, etc., equal to that of the classrooms, and by lengthening the school day, one school outfit is made to accommodate two duplicate schools. The school day is from 8.30 to 5, and the school buildings are in use on Saturday for children who wish to go, and on Sunday for private organizations engaged in social service. The Wirt idea is to use all the school facilities of the community all the time, by not having all the children doing the same things at the same time. The school auditoriums are used not for assembling the entire school for perhaps 15 minutes a day, but for various activities three hours a day; children also use the public library systematically, under the direction of teachers, and they have the privilege of going one hour a day to their respective churches for religious instruction. Special emphasis is laid on work in shops, and nature study, botany, physics, chemistry, bacteriology, electricity, etc., are taught in laboratories.

Mr. Wirt claims that there is great enrichment of the curriculum through the provision of the laboratories, music and art studios, swimming pools, and the enlarged opportunities for vocational training. He also claims that the quality of instruction is raised by departmentalizing the work throughout all the grades of the elementary school. A teacher having special aptitude for music, drawing, any of the sciences, sewing, shopwork aad industrial arts, or domestic science, is assigned to teach that subject to several classes in rotation.

In New York all books and other school supplies are furnished by the city, but in Gary each child pays a yearly book rental, the amount varying with the grades. There is no sharp line of demarcation between the elementary and the high school, both being in the same building and using the same shops, studios, libraries, laboratories and assembly rooms. There is no graduation from the elementary grades into the high school. Evening schools are conducted on a large scale, the enrolment being about 6,000.

To summarize portions of Mr. Wirt's report of July 30, 1914: Two duplicate schools occupy the same classrooms, auditoriums, shops, library and playground, but neither could make more use of these facilities if the other school were not there. Each has much better facilities than it would have in a separate plant of its own. But there are many other advantages. A student may take all of his regular school subjects either in the morning or afternoon. This enables him to go to school half of the day and work the other half either in school shops or outside the school. Pupils in one school may do additional work in the other. The most experienced teachers of one school may have the inexperienced ones in the other assigned as assistants. A large share of initiative and responsibility can thus be given to strong teachers. Since the schools are exact duplicates, the child may choose either one or a part of both. "Since the church may secure its children for religious instruction every hour of the day, regular religious teachers may be employed by the church for its instruction." Private teachers of music, etc., may secure their pupils at any hour and organize their classes as a part of the school programme. "It should be specially emphasized that there is no desire to double the capacity of school plants as a part-time proposition."

An experienced and fair-minded educator who recently visited Gary reports that educational traditions, text-books and established courses of study are thrown to the winds, because they may not appeal to the boys and girls; that the theory is to give the child what he prefers and not to force upon him methods to which he may object; that the keynote of the Wirt system is to allow the child to study those things which he likes to learn in the manner in which he likes to learn them; that the use of formal text-books is discouraged; that, while the usual conception of the Gary schools is that they are designed primarily for vocational and practical training. Mr. Wirt denies that this is the true aim of his course of study; and that he begins manual training in the lower grades and attempts to give to this course a real practical value in that he expects the pupils in the shops to manufacture the things they actually need in the school.

The Gary system has been introduced in New York in the last year. It is in operation in Public School 45, the Bronx, and to some extent in Public School 89, Brooklyn. The Board of Education has authorized it in twelve other schools in the Bronx. It is still in an experimental stage. It remains to be seen whether a plan which has apparently been successful in a small city in the Middle West, with an unusually homogeneous population, as most of the school children belong to families of those employed in the steel mills, is adapted to a large cosmopolitan city, with very different conditions and a mixed population of all nationalities. In particular, opposition has developed to the religious feature. This, however, is claimed to be wholly voluntary, according to the wishes of the children and especially their parents. The careless freedom of the pupils, so at variance with the traditional ideas of discipline, is also a subject of criticism. Some parents, it is stated on seemingly good authority, are greatly dissatisfied with the progress their children are making in the Garyized schools. On the other side, it is asserted that proper facilities have not yet been provided in these schools, and that the system has not had a fair trial.

Nevertheless the financial authorities of the city manifest a disposition to compel the New York Board of Education to adopt it on a wide scale; the Board of Estimate and Apportionment has appropriated for educational purposes for this year no more than was allowed last year, despite the inevitable increase in school attendance (estimated at 30,000), and Superintendent Wirt, who was employed last year as a "special adviser" to the Board of Education—receiving for his services as an expert $10,000 while giving one week per month to New York—is carried in the 1916 budget, at the same salary, as "educational consultant" for the Board of Estimate.

Conservative educators believe that before a city-wide adoption of the Gary system the present experiments and those authorized by the Board of Education should be thoroughly tried out and scientifically evaluated, so as to secure "a final judgment uncolored by the extravagant promises of ardent admirers and by the dark prophecies of bitter opponents."

HONORARY AND MISCELLANEOUS FRATERNITIES.

United Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa—The Phi Beta Kappa Society was founded at William and Mary College, Williamsburg, Va., December 5, 1776, and now consists of 86 chapters located in as many of the leading colleges and universities in the land. The total living membership is about 30,500—22,500 men and 8,000 women. Until 1883 the growth of the society was comparatively slow, but since the organization of the United Chapters the development has been rapid, many chapters having been organized. Women were first admitted in 1875, and the first charter to a woman's college, Vassar, was granted in 1898. Smith, Wellesley, Mt. Holyoke and Goucher College of Baltimore, and Radcliffe, have since received charters. The first woman to be honored by election to the Senate was President Mary E. Woolley of Mt. Holyoke College. The present officers are: President—Prof. Edwin A. Grosvenor, LL. D., Amherst, Mass. Vice President—Dean Edward A. Birge, Madison, Wis. Secretary—Rev. Oscar M. Voorhees, D. D., 350 East 146th Street, New York City. Treasurer—David Layton, M. S., New York, N. Y. "The Phi Beta Kappa Key" is the official publication of the United Chapters, which was authorized by the tenth National Council. The society is growing rapidly, many new members being received each year. The eleventh National Council of the United Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa was held at the College of the City of New York on September 10, 1913, at which time the revived chapter at the University of Alabama received recognition and eight new chapters were granted. The twelfth triennial Council will be held in September, 1916. President Woodrow Wilson is a Phi Beta Kappa man, as are his predecessors, William H. Taft and Theodore Roosevelt. Presidents Lowell of Harvard, Hadley of Yale, and Hibben of Princeton are members, as is Associate Justice Charles E. Hughes of the United States Supreme Court.

Sigma Xi—An honorary scientific society founded at Cornell University in 1886, and having twenty odd chapters in the principal colleges and universities of the country. It is not secret. The performance of creditable scientific research in the natural and applied sciences, together with a high standard of scholarship, constitutes the basis of membership. Women are admitted as well as men.

Sigma Tau—An honorary engineering fraternity for juniors and seniors with three requirements, viz., scholarship, practicality and sociability. It was founded February 22, 1904, at University of Nebraska and now has 581 members and ten chapters. Prof. F. A. Wirt of Manhattan, Kan., is National Secretary.

Tau Beta Pi—An engineering honorary society founded at Lehigh University in 1885. It now has 30 chapters and about 6,500 members. R. C. Matthews, University of Tennessee, at Knoxville, is the National Secretary and Treasurer.

Alpha Omega Alpha—An honorary medical society in which scholarship is the membership qualification, and which admits women on the same basis as men. It was founded by Dr. William W. Root at the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Chicago, in 1902. It now has 19 chapters and 1,800 members. Dr. William W. Root, Slaterville Springs, N. Y., is the National Secretary.

Acacia Fraternity—An intercollegiate organization and fraternity for Master Masons founded at the University of Michigan in 1904, now has a membership of 3,274 and 24 active chapters. The National Secretary is Harry E. Kilmer, Centerview, Mo.

Phi Mu Sigma National Sunday School Fraternity—This society has 824 members and 32 active chapters. It was founded in Washington, D. C., in 1908. Supreme Master—Clifton P. Clark, M. D.; National Secretary—Willis W. Warren, Washington, D. C.

Theta Nu Epsilon—Is the only national Greek letter inter-fraternal society. It was founded at Wesleyan University in 1870, and was reorganized in 1907. The society is incorporated under New York laws and is represented in fifty-three colleges and universities of the United States, the membership being 18,397. J. W. S. Mass, 2 Rector Street, New York City, is President and the National Secretary is Walter Erlenkotter, New York City.

The professional fraternities now number over 50, with a membership exceeding 40,000. They are located in both technical and professional schools. With the exception of Theta Xi (Engineering-Scientific), members of professional fraternities may also belong to the general college fraternities.

Local or "one-college" fraternities exist in nearly all colleges, and some date back as early as 1825. There are about 75, with a membership approximating 10,000. The women's local fraternities number about 50, with a total membership of about 5,000.

The Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church gave in charities $403,500. Of this $42,000 went to foreign missions and $54,900 to home missions.

Mrs. Willard D. Straight gave $5,000 toward the fund for the erection of a new edifice for St. Bridget's R. C. Church of Westbury, L. I.

Colleges that announced a campaign for funds were: University of Michigan, $1,000,000; Yale Alumni Fund, $104,454; Vassar, $1,000,000; Stevens Institute of Technology, $1,360,000; St. Stephen's, $500,000.

WAR FUNDS.

It was estimated that about $300,000,000 has been contributed to relieve suffering in the warring nations, through various war charities. Of this amount the South African War Fund was $6,600,000; Prince of Wales Fund, over $33,000,000; Belgium Relief Commission, $24,000,000; the Indian Soldiers' and the Queen's Work for Women Funds, $1,200,000 each: Royal Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, $150,000 for wounded horses and strayed dogs; collected in London, $48,000,000; Red Cross Fund of the London Times, $8,000,000; the National Commission for Relief in Belgium, $6,000,000; Y. M. C. A., $1,800,000; the Red Cross and St. John Ambulance Fund, $7,500,000.

Gifts amounting to $3,000,000 went from the people in Canada to benefit the destitute non-combatants of Belgium.

The Aymeric, a chartered ship of the Commission for Relief in Belgium, sailed for Rotterdam with a cargo worth about $250,000, the gift of the people of Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Indiana, Michigan, Montana, Texas, Utah, Delaware, Illinois, Wisconsin, and Washington.

The steamship Babscan sailed February 18 with automobiles, food, etc. The Great City, carrying the most valuable cargo of relief supplies ever shipped from the United States to a foreign people, sailed February 10. The value of the cargo was about $530,000.

The second New York State Belgium relief ship, the Daltonhall, sailed laden with supplies.

Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, raised $1,800; Polish War Victims' Relief, $5,000; Mme. Melba, $200,000, and gave her house, the rent of which is $6,000 a year, for a hospital.

Members of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston, Mass., contributed $127,607 to a fund for the relief of sufferers from the war.

In July the American Red Cross reported that they had spent $1,460,306 for war relief, and had a balance of $174,818. The Jews in America have contributed more than $1,300,000 to the relief of destitute members of the race in the war areas of Palestine.

Nine big missionary societies made public financial reports for their fiscal year ending in April. The reports showed that Americans, through their churches, contributed $55,000,000 a year to home missions and $18,000,000 to foreign missions. It cost to maintain all churches in this country, including the mission funds, $410,000,000.

John H. P. Voorheis, who died in Denver, Col., left that city $250,000 for a park.

Gifts of $109,994 were announced by President Lowell of Harvard University.

A new building to be called the Guggenheim Memorial Hospital, at a cost of $500,000, will be donated by the six Guggenheim brothers in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Guggenheim.

The bulk of the $3,250,000 estate of Elizabeth Thompson of New York was left to religious, charitable, and educational institutions.

Edward Missom Owen of Manchester, England, left $750,000 to the Salvation Army.

Mrs. Henry Watson willed $100,000 to the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Frederick F. Thompson gave a new building costing $150,000 to the Woman's Hospital of the State of New York.

Many poor people in Westchester County, N. Y., received checks for Christmas presents from banks in Yonkers, Mount Vernon, White Plains, Port Chester, New Rochelle, and Peekskill. It is estimated that they will total about $1,000,000.

The executors of the estate of William Douglas Stone gave $50,000 to Sloane Hospital for Women.

As a reward for their faithful service to his father, P. A. B. Widener distributed among the older household and business employés $100,000.

Stuyvesant Fish gave a church to the Episcopalians in Garrison, N. Y.

SIMPLIFIED SPELLING BOARD.

The object of this board is to promote the gradual and progressive simplification of English spelling by omitting silent letters, and following the simpler rather than the more complex of the present analogies. President—Charles H. Grandgent. Secretary—Henry Gallup Paine. Treasurer—Gano Dunn. Number of members: Board, 44; Advisory Council, 236. Headquarters, 1 Madison Avenue, New York City.

ELLEN WILSON MEMORIAL HOMES.

By an act of Congress, approved March 3, 1915, George Foster Peabody, Hugh C. Wallace Arthur Jeffrey Parsons, Walter S. Ufford, Archibald Hopkins, Julia C. Lathrop, Grace V. Bicknell, and Charlotte Everett Hopkins, their associates and successors, were created a body corporate and politic in the District of Columbia, by the name, title, and style of the Ellen Wilson Memorial Homes, to acquire, hold, improve, rent, mortgage, sell, and convey real estate within the District of Columbia for building, in memory of the late Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, one or more blocks of sanitary houses for the working classes, and renting the same at a rental sufficiently low to cause the abandonment of dilapidated and insanitary houses, as an object lesson in the housing of the working classes under good conditions and at reasonable rates: Provided, That the value of any and all property so acquired shall not exceed the sum of $500,000: Provided further, That no land shall be acquired or house built thereon except of the character hereinbefore described.

SEC. 2. That the capital stock of said corporation shall be $25,000, divided into two hundred and fifty shares of the par value of $100 each, and when said amount shall have been subscribed the said corporation shall be fully authorized and empowered to commence business: Provided, That said capital stock may be increased by the sale of additional stock from time to time, but the total issue thereof shall not exceed the sum of $500,000: Provided further, That it shall be unlawful for the officers or directors of said corporation to declare any greater dividend to the stockholders than five per centum per annum upon the capital stock outstanding at the time of such dividend.

SEC. 3. That the affairs of the corporation shall be managed by a board of directors consisting of fifteen persons, who shall for the first year be elected by the incorporators, hereinbefore named, and thereafter said board shall be elected annually in such manner as may be provided by the by-laws of the corporation, and such board of directors shall have power to ordain, establish, and put into execution such rules, regulations, ordinances, and by-laws as they may deem essential for the good government of the corporation, not contrary to the laws and the Constitution of the United States or of this act, and generally to do and perform all acts, matters, and things which a corporation may or can lawfully do.

SEC. 4. That Congress reserves the right to repeal, alter, or amend this act.

UNIVERSITY FORUM OF AMERICA.

An educational institution of travelling professorships of eminent men of action, and original investigators, whose lectures are based on personal experience and observation. The lectures are delivered before the leading universities, colleges and other educational bodies throughout North America, Europe, and in other parts of the world.

The forum acts as a standing committee, a bureau of information, a clearing-house, through which universities and colleges may promptly and readily secure National leaders to speak at first-hand and authoritatively concerning their particular line of life-work and activity.

Headquarters, 550 West 113th Street, New York.

THE DAILY FOOD ALLIANCE OF AMERICA.

The alliance advocates pure food, full weight and measure and sanitation. The officers of the New York organization are: President—Mrs. Charles D. Hirst. Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. Nelson Worden, 704 West End Avenue, New York City. Treasurer—Mrs. Clarence N. Titterington.

NATIONAL AMERICANIZATION COMMITTEE.

The National Americanization Committee is a body of fifty-six American citizens who believe that Americanization—a deeper, broader sense of nationalization—is the need of the hour, and that it should be a nation-wide movement in every hamlet in America. They are dominated solely by the dream of a United America; no other power or motives determine their policies, methods or plans, and they are willing to give their time, thought, effort, and resources—in money, association, and power—to the end that the many races in America may become one nation in spirit and achievement.

They believe that American-born citizens need Americanization in increased respect for the flag, in renewed allegiance to America, in patriotic use of holidays, in the discipline and loyalty of citizens' training camps, in the abolition of race prejudice, and in the full recognition of foreign-born citizens as a civic as well as an industrial factor in American civilization.

They believe that the foreign-born peoples within our land owe to America the duties of learning our national language, of becoming literate, of becoming naturalized, and of becoming thrifty and efficient citizens and of loyally supporting the best ideals and traditions, the government and institutions of America, in exchange for the rights America guarantees to all residents alike in this country

They believe that American and foreign-born alike should join hands to assure to each alien within our borders the opportunity to learn English, become literate, and to provide facilities for preparation for citizenship.

Chairman—Frank Trumbull. First Vice-Chairman—Percy R. Pyne, 2d. Second Vice-Chairman—Mrs. Edward Stotesbury. Third Vice-Chairman—William Sproule. Treasurer—Wm. Fellowes Morgan. Executive Committee—Mrs. Vincent Astor, Frances A. Kellor, Peter Roberts, Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Felix M. Warburg. Headquarters, 18 West Thirty-fourth Street, New York City.

THE PALISADES INTERSTATE PARK.

THE State of New York possesses several forest reservations and also several parks. One, the Niagara Reservation, comprises the land about the great cataract, purchased at a cost of $1,000,000. The State Forest Preserve, on October 1, 1914, contained 1,609,113 acres. There are also Letchworth Park, about the falls of the Genesee River; John Boyd Thacher Park, about the Indian Ladder in Albany County, islands in the St. Lawrence River, and the Saratoga Springs Reservation. The assessed valuation put upon the Forest Preserve lands of the State was $4,532,505.

Lastly, there is the Palisades Interstate Park, partly in the State of New Jersey and partly in the State of New York, extending along the Hudson River in its Palisades region, and extending north so as to include Bear Mountain. The development of this park to its present great dimensions began in 1910, when Mary D. Harriman, widow of the late Edward H. Harriman, informed Governor Hughes of New York that, following the wishes of her husband, she was willing to convey 10,000 acres of land in the counties of Orange and Rockland to be used as a park and also give $1,000,000 toward the park project.

The Palisades Park Commission had the same year collected $1,625,000 for the same purpose. Previously the commission had acquired by gift of land and of money to the amount of $300,000, a contribution of $400,000 from the State of New York, and $50,000 from the State of New Jersey, the face of the Palisades from Piermont to Fort Lee. It was also proposed in 1910 that the State of New York should appropriate $2,500,000 for a further purchase of land for the Palisades Interstate Park. Subsequently, in 1910, this proposal was ratified by the voters, and consequently the Palisades Interstate Park, which will cost nearly $6,000,000, was authorized.

The Commissioners of the Palisades Interstate Park since 1910 have been busily engaged in developing the park. The State of New York is preparing to build the last end of Route 3, north of the New Jersey State line, so that ultimately there will be a State highway from the State boundary line of New Jersey and New York along the west shore of the Hudson River north to Newburgh. The Commissioners have also co-operated with the State of New York and Orange County, New York, in securing the construction of Route 3 of the New York State highway system along the Hudson River through the United States Reservation at West Point and around Storm King Mountain. The park roads, when built, are to connect with the main State highways of New York and New Jersey. There is a "Henry Hudson Drive" under the Palisades and a road from Bear Mountain on the Hudson River to Southfields, both of which are on park properties. The commission is advancing the Englewood approach to the Henry Hudson Drive. The drive, when completed, will be located under the Palisades in the State of New Jersey, with a number of approaches or spurs connecting the drive with the roads on top of the cliff.

A camp has been established at Blauvelt for the use of working girls, which is used by girls of all nationalities and religious denominations. A large number of people in 1915 used the portion of Palisades Park at Bear Mountain, which is located on the west shore of the Hudson River about forty-five miles from New York. This property was originally bought by the State of New York for a prison site and abandoned as such in 1910, and was then transferred to the Palisades Park Commission for park purposes. The commission arranged for a day-boat service to Bear Mountain in the Summer of 1914 and 1915. A large number of excursions visited Bear Mountain and also the picnic groves under the Palisades. The camp privileges granted by the commission in 1914 proved very popular, a large number of people camping near Bear Mountain and at Car Pond in the Harriman lands. At Bear Mountain a playground has been completed, having an area of more than ten acres. There have been placed at Bear Mounty fifty picnic tables, 300 park benches, and 300 chairs. In 1913 the New York College of Forestry at Syracuse University offered to co-operate with the Palisades Interstate Park Commission in making a preliminary study and plan of management for the forest land within the park. This offer was accepted and the work has since been in progress.

By steamboat from New York City, 114,691 persons visited Bear Mountain from June 14 to September 7, 1914. In addition to the regular boat service many excursions were run to Bear Mountain, one company alone transporting 15,445 excursionists during the season. There were also excursions by Sunday-schools, civic associations and societies. A large proportion of the excursions came from New York City. In addition the Palisades Park Commissioners were able to arrange with the West Shore Railroad Company that four north-bound and three south-bound accommodation trains should stop at the park.

The Boy Scouts in 1915 camped on one of the lakes of the park to the number of 5,000, camping in troops of from 300 to 500 every fortnight. In the park about Bear Mountain hundreds of white tents afforded shelter to campers from New York City.

Blauvelt, in 1914, was further used as a Summer camp for working girls, regardless of nationality or religious denomination. A military organization was created of four companies. The Captains were chosen from among the counsellors—college girls who gave their services. A trained nurse was in attendance throughout the season. There were 1,130 girls in the camp, divided as follows: Store girls and saleswomen, 54; factory workers, 198; seamstresses, 65; domestic workers, 44; children's nurses, 21; school girls, 182; teachers, 37; stenographers, bookkeepers, typists, and office workers, 334; Y. W. C. A. secretaries, 10; no occupation given, 185.

The Palisades Park Commission now owns 18,000 acres and have under condemnation 4,390 acres.

Eleven miles of the Palisades are within a few miles of the largest cities of New York and New Jersey.

*A daughter, Mrs. W. C. Rudd, had a daughter, Laura Rudd, born 1882, died 1907. Another son, Frank R. Rockefeller, born 1842, had five children, three of whom are living. They are Mrs. John Porter Brook, Mrs. Walter Scott Bowler and Mrs. M. A. G. Bollivar. Previous ancestors:—John Rockefeller born in Germany in 1634. Johann Peter, his son, born in Germany in 1682. This man emigrated to America with his cousin Diell, and from these two all the Rockefellers in the country are descended. Peter Rockefeller, his son, born in Segendorf, Germany, in 1711. He married Mary Bellis. William, their son, born in Amwell, N. J., in 1756. He married Christina Rockefeller, who was a daughter of Simona, who was a granddaughter of Diell, the other emigrant.

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR CONSTITUTIONAL GOVERNMENT.

This association is a purely patriotic and in no sense a partisan society. It has been formed in the conviction that the opposition recently manifested in so many ways to the institutions of representative government established by the Constitution of the United States is the result in part of ignorance of the significance and value of the constitutional guarantees, and in the equally firm conviction that unlimited experiment in social legislation is a menace not only to these institutions and these guarantees, but to the permanent existence of real self-government. The primary aim of the association is to preserve these institutions and these guarantees, first, by explaining their meaning, and, second, by demanding a sufficiently deliberate consideration of proposals of change in the National Constitution to warrant a reasoned acceptance of them before their adoption. Chairman—David Jayne Hill. Treasurer—John Joy Edson. Secretary—Charles Ray Dean. * The French Academy is one of five academies, and the most eminent, constituting the Institute of France. It was founded in 1635 by Cardinal Richelieu, and reorganized in 1816. It is composed of 40 members, elected for life, after personal application and the submission of their nomination to the head of the state. It meets twice weekly, at the Palace Mazarin, 23 Quai Conti, Paris, and is "the highest authority on everything appertaining to the niceties of the French language, to grammar, rhetoric, and poetry, and the publication of the French classics." The chief officer is the Secretary, who has a life tenure of his position. The office is at present vacant. A chair in the Academy is the highest ambition of most literary Frenchmen.

The other academies of the Institute of France are: The Academy of Inscriptions and Belles-Lettres, with 40 members; Academy of Sciences, with 68 members; Academy of Fine Arts, with 40 members (as follows: Painting, 14; sculpture, 8; architecture, 8; engraving, 4; musical composition, 6), and Academy of Moral and Political Science, with 40 members. All members are elected for life.

NATIONAL SCULPTURE SOCIETY.

The National Sculpture Society, with headquarters at New York, was incorporated in 1896. It is composed of lay and sculptor members, and has for its object the spreading of the knowledge of good sculpture, the fostering of the taste for ideal sculpture and its production, both for the household and museums; the promotion of the decoration of public and other buildings, squares, and parks with sculpture of a high class; the improvement of the quality of the sculptor's art as applied to industries, and the providing, from time to time, for exhibitions of sculpture and objects of industrial art in which sculpture enters. The officers are as follows:

President—Herbert Adams. Vice-Presidents—Lloyd Warren, A. A. Weinman. Secretary—Robert I. Aitken. Treasurer—I. Wyman Drummond. Class expiring May, 1916: William A. Boring, Charles Grafly, John Flanagan, Janet Scudder, John De Witt Warner, Mahonri Young. Class expiring May, 1917: Robert I. Aitken, Albert Jaegers, H. Augustus Lukeman, H. A. MacNeil, Evarts Tracy, and Albert Weinert. Class expiring May, 1918: Herbert Adams, I. Wyman Drummond, A. A. Weinman, Lloyd Warren, Edward McCartan, and Edmond T. Quinn. Headquarters, 212 West Fifty-seventh Street, New York City.

AMERICAN ACADEMY OF ARTS AND LETTERS.

THE first seven members of the American Academy of Arts and Letters were selected by the National Institute of Arts and Letters from its own body in 1904 by ballot. The seven were William Dean Howells, Augustus Saint Gaudens, Edmund Clarence Stedman, John La Farge, Samuel L. Clemens, John Hay and Edward MacDowell. In order to become eligible to the American Academy one must first be a member of the National Institute of Arts and Letters. This society was organized at a meeting of the American Social Science Association in 1898. The qualification for membership is stated in the Constitution, "It shall be notable achievement in art, music or literature." The number in the institute is limited to 250, and the election is by ballot.

The American Academy of Arts and Letters numbers fifty members, and the officers are William Dean Howells, President; William Milligan Sloane, Chancellor and Treasurer; Robert Underwood Johnson, 52 Vanderbilt Avenue, New York City, Permanent Secretary.

The following are the present members of the academy:

William Dean Howells
Henry James
Henry Adams
Theodore Roosevelt
John Singer Sargent
Daniel Chester French
John Burroughs
James Ford Rhodes
Horatio William Parker
William Milligan Sloane
Robert Underwood Johnson
George Washington Cable

ART PROGRESS IN THE UNITED STATES.

BY HENRY TYRRELL.

THE past year's development and progress of art in America, in some respects of marked significance, relate principally to three diverse influences: (1) The Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco, with its corollary at San Diego; (2) the European war, and (3) the growing resources and broadening educational scope of the country's art museums.

The World's Fair takes first place, because of its magnitude and the comprehensiveness of its various representative offerings. Its overshadowing importance is in line with the traditional fact that such commemorations—the Philadelphia Centennial of 1876, the Columbian Exposition of Chicago, 1892, and the Louisiana Purchase celebration at St. Louis, 1904—have taken their places as historic milestones in the National awakening of art appreciation. They have become more and more a manifestation of beauty, a welding together of practical and ideal, achieved by the co-operation of business men with artists. It is in this sense that the San Francisco fair has achieved its greatest triumph—supplemented by San Diego's special presentation of Spanish Colonial architecture in a way to leave its impress for future time. First and foremost, the whole vast exposition was a pageant of American art—an actual demonstration, in the midst of an international assemblage, of the fact that American architecture, painting, sculpture, and the kindred handicrafts possess the vital urge of original creative energy. The Palace of Fine Arts, the most striking and picturesque of all the buildings on the extensive grounds by the harbor of the Golden Gate, gave up to United States exhibits fully two-thirds of its 120 "galleries," or more or less spacious rooms. Japan came next, with 10 rooms, Sweden had 8, France 7, Italy 4, Holland 4, China and Portugal 3 each, while Argentina, Uruguay, Cuba and the Philippines had separate accommodations for their respective exhibits. The United States' exhibit was so large as to seem in places indiscriminate, while those of France and Italy were disappointingly meagre, on account of the stress of the times, yet the net result was an all-American Salon, with a sufficient foil of foreign representation. Following the award of prizes and honors by an international jury, the inevitable storm of protest and discussion arose, which even now has not wholly subsided. The main features of the awards were as follows: Grand prizes to Frederick Carl Frieseke for painting, and Henry Wolf for wood engraving. Medals of honor, likewise in the American section, to John W. Alexander (deceased), Cecilia Beaux, Emil Carlsen, Willard Metcalf, Violet Oakley, Richard E. Miller, W. Elmer Schofield, Walter Griffin, and Lawton Parker, for oil paintings; to Lillian Prescott Hale, Laura Coombs Hills, Charles H. Woodbury, F. Walter Taylor, Frank Mura, and Henry Muhrmann, for water colors and drawings; to Herbert Adams, Karl Bitter (deceased), and Daniel C. French, for sculpture; and to D. A. Wehrschmidt and C. Harry White, for etching and engraving. Then follows a long and notable list of gold, silver, and bronze medals, special mentions, and the like. Analysis of these awards from any academic or political viewpoint is futile. The great essential fact is that the National art exposition at the fair successfully vied with the triumphs of skill and industry as an expression of creative impulse and energy.

War and art being in their respective natures entirely unrelated to one another, the observable effects of the European armed conflict are not so much upon art itself as upon the business of art. In that relation it is immensely to our benefit. Patronage turns to native artists, and these stay at home to produce their works, as well as to devote attention to the students who in former years went abroad. Foreign artists who would sell to rich Americans must come here, too. And at the same time the historic masterpieces which gave to European art schools their crowning advantage over those of the newer Western world, are more than ever gravitating toward the country of boundless wealth, as one by one the hitherto inviolate private collections are sold and dispersed. The scene of many important art sales hitherto the exclusive prerogative of Paris and London now shifts to New York. A significant move foreshadowing this is seen in the leasing for commercial purposes by a prominent firm of international art dealers of the fine and spacious gallery erected by the late Benjamin Altman at the rear of his former residence (originally one of the Vanderbilt mansions), at Fifth Avenue and Fifty-fifth Street. And this is by no means the only palatial private residence in the same neighborhood now undergoing transformation into art exhibition and sales galleries. This is in response to the imperative demands of the art trade interests and markets shifting simultaneously with the transfer of financial centres from England and the Continent of Europe to busy, "booming" America. Of course this migration of art interests began long before the war actually broke out, but the calamity is accelerating it in an unprecedented degree.

The Metropolitan Museum of Art, while not having this year any special accession to show comparable to the Altman collection and the Riggs arms and armor which signalized 1914, is appreciably impressing its influence through the numerous activities organized in its various departments for the extension of its educational work. The Metropolitan just now supremely exemplifies the principle that an art museum today, no matter how well fortified with patronage and endowments, must work for its living. It must co-operate with the public schools, reach out and help designers in the industrial arts, and through lectures, publications, and special exhibitions keep its members as well as the general public in touch with all movements of the modern art world. This is what the Metropolitan is doing, and at the same time setting a practical example to the now nearly 800 lesser art museums and fine arts societies throughout the country. The schools, on their part, have not been slow to realize that there is something vital in the idea for them. The School Art League, under the direction of Miss Florence N. Levy and Dr. J. P. Haney, has organized in practice an association with the museum that already shows advantageous results to members of the league and pupils of the high school classes; and other departments of the city schools, hitherto unrelated to art teaching, have embraced their opportunities. Manufacturers, shut off by the war from the European sources upon which they formerly depended for new ideas and patterns, now look to home designers, and encourage the latter in the school and museum studies making for original, native creative work. The Metropolitan's new Department of the Art of the Far East has for curator Mr. S. C. Bosch Rectz, a Hollander, who, after receiving his education as a painter in Munich and Paris, became interested in Eastern art, in his devotion to which he has won a distinguished reputation.

John W. Alexander, distinguished American artist and public-spirited citizen, long President of the National Academy of Design, of the School Art League, and of the MacDowell Club, an active director of the Metropolitan Museum and of the American Federation of Arts, died at his home in New York City on May 31, 1915. In the month of March preceding he had retired from the Presidency of the academy, which elected as his successor J. Alden Weir. Mr. Weir was born in 1852 at West Point, N. Y., where his father, Robert W. Weir, was art instructor at the United States Military Academy. He was a pupil of Gerôme in Paris, and won an honorable mention at the Salon in 1882. Since then he has won many prizes and honors and he has been an active member of the National Academy of Design for 35 years. Always a liberal in art, Mr. Weir was one of the originators of the Society of American Artists, and with John Twachtman he helped to form The Ten. He was the first choice for President of the Association of American Painters and Sculptors, followed by Arthur B. Davies, who is now succeeded by Henry Fitch Taylor. He is in full sympathy with the modern movement in art, being admired and looked up to by the artists of all the various groups. As an academician, he is counted upon to carry along the work of Mr. Alexander in securing for the organization a comprehensive exhibition building of its own.

The Art Alliance of America, recently formed by a group of influential New York men and women interested in art and in industrial development, sets forth as its objects: To promote co-operation between artists, art students, artisans, publishers, manufacturers, advertisers, and all others engaged in artistic activities; to aid, direct, and advise art students, artisans and artists in their studies and pursuits; to provide a general registry for the aforesaid, and for employers; and to hold exhibitions.

THE ALFRED B. NOBEL PRIZES.

THE Swedish scientist Alfred B. Nobel, the inventor of dynamite, died in 1896, bequeathing his fortune, estimated at $9,000,000, to the founding of a fund the interest of which should yearly be distributed to those who had mostly contributed to "the good of humanity." The interest is divided in five equal shares, given away, "One to the person who in the domain of physics has made the most important discovery or invention, one to the person who has made the most important chemical discovery or invention, one to the person who has made the most important discovery in the domain of medicine or physiology, one to the person who in literature has provided the most excellent work of an idealistic tendency, and one to the person who has worked most or best for the fraternization of nations, and the abolition or reduction of standing armies, and the calling in and propagating of peace congresses."

The prizes for physics and chemistry are awarded by the Swedish Academy of Science, that for physiological or medical work by the Caroline Institute (the faculty of medicine in Stockholm), that for literature by the Swedish Academy in Stockholm, and the peace prize is awarded by a committee of five persons, elected by the Norwegian Storthing.

In accordance with these statutes the awarders of the prizes (the four above named institutions) elect fifteen deputies for two consecutive years, the Academy of Science electing six and the other prize awarders three each. These deputies elect for two consecutive years four members of the Board of Directors of the Nobel Institute, which board, exclusively consisting of Swedes, must reside in Stockholm. A fifth member, the President of the board, is nominated by the Government. The Board of Directors has in its care the funds of the institution, and hands yearly over to the awarders of the prizes the amount to be given away. The value of each prize is on an average $40,000. The distribution of the prizes takes place every year on December 10, the anniversary of Mr. Nobel's death. Full information can be obtained from "Nobelstiftelsens Styrelse" (the Board of Directors of the Nobel Institute), Stockholm, Sweden.

1914—Chemistry was awarded to Prof. Theodore William Richards, of Harvard University; physics to Prof. Max von Labe of Frankfort-on-Main.

1915—Physics, Prof. William Henry Bragg of Leeds and his son, Prof. W. L. Bragg of Cambridge; literature, Romain Rolland, French; Hendrik Pontoppidan and Troels Lund, Danes, and Verner von Heidenstam, Swede; chemistry, Dr. Richard Willstätter, of University of Berlin.

For list of awards prior to 1914 see 1914 ALMANAC.

THE COMMISSION OF FINE ARTS.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That a permanent Commission of Fine Arts is hereby created to be composed of seven well-qualified judges of the fine arts, who shall be appointed by the President, and shall serve for a period of four years each, and until their successors are appointed and qualified. The President shall have authority to fill all vacancies. It shall be the duty of such commission to advise upon the location of statues, fountains, and monuments in the public squares, streets, and parks in the District of Columbia, and upon the selection of models for statues, fountains, and monuments erected under the authority of the United States and upon the selection of artists for the execution of the same. It shall be the duty of the officers charged by law to determine such questions in each case to call for such advice. The foregoing provisions of this act shall not apply to the Capitol building of the United States and the building of the Library of Congress. The commission shall also advise generally upon questions of art when required to do so by the President or by any committee of either House of Congress.

Sec. 2. That to meet the expenses made necessary by this act an expenditure of not exceeding ten thousand dollars a year is hereby authorized. Approved, May 17, 1910. This act has been supplemented by a number of executive orders by the President, broadening the scope of the commission's functions.

Chairman—Charles Moore, Detroit, Mich. Vice-Chairman—Frederick Law Olmsted, Brookline, Mass.; Thomas Hastings, New York City; Cass Gilbert, New York City; Edwin H. Blashfield, New York City; Pierce Anderson, Chicago, Ill.; Herbert Adams, New York City. Secretary and Executive Officer—Col. Wm. W. Harts, U. S. A.

ROCKEFELLER FOUNDATION.

The State of New York granted a charter to the Rockefeller Foundation in 1913. Principal funds $100,048,000. The incorporators are John D. Rockefeller, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Frederick T. Gates, Harry Pratt Judson, Simon Flexner, Starr J. Murphy, Jerome D. Greene, Wickliffe Rose, and Charles O. Heydt. The officers are: President—John D. Rockefeller, Jr. Secretary—Jerome D. Greene. Treasurer—L. G. Myers. Assistant Treasurer—S. M. Dashiell. Members of the Executive Committee are: John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Jerome D. Greene, Simon Flexner, Starr J. Murphy, Wickliffe Rose. Headquarters, 61 Broadway, New York City.

EDUCATIONAL DRAMATIC LEAGUE.

The Educational Dramatic League was organized in 1913 to give assistance to amateur clubs in churches, settlements, schools, and other organizations and to unrelated groups of young people, in order to bring the work of such clubs to a higher standard of literary and entertainment value, to combine education and self-expression with recreation.

The league is doing this by giving the clubs special advice and aid to meet their individual needs in the selection of good plays, prompt-books, costume-plates, and costumes, and by instructing teachers in the best educational method of producing plays or supplying clubs with competent directors. For the younger children classes have been formed in story-telling and story-playing.

A reference library of plays and general dramatic literature is at the disposal of members.

The league considers the public performance of a play but the smallest part of the work, and that the study of plays furnishes an interesting means of teaching literature, English, diction, bearing, and the correct management of a production.

The league's object is national, and every dramatic club of any kind, whether in New York or elsewhere, is eligible to become a member. Annual dues, $2 and $5.

President—Mrs. August Belmont. Vice-President—Miss Kate Oglebay. Secretary—Miss Rachel Crothers. Treasurer—Mr. James S. Cushman. Executive Secretary—Miss Marion A. Turner. Headquarters, the Tilden Building, 105 West Fortieth Street New York City.

ACTORS' EQUITY ASSOCIATION.

The Actors' Equity Association has for its object equitable arrangement of all business matters pertaining to those who follow the art of acting, and especially pertaining to those who are members of the association. It is a voluntary association, formed to advance, promote, and foster the profession of acting and those engaged therein; to protect and secure the rights of actors; to inform them as to their legal rights and remedies; to procure appropriate legislation in matters affecting their profession; to do such things as shall appear advantageous or refrain from doing such things as shall appear disadvantageous to the profession of acting or to the members of the association.

President—Francis Wilson. Vice-President—Bruce McRae. Corresponding Secretary—Howard Kyle. Treasurer—Richard A. Purdy. Headquarters, 608 Longacre Building, New York City.

MUSIC.

BY MAZIE E. CLEMENS.

The Metropolitan Opera House management provided a revival of "Samson et Dalila," in French, with which to open its ninth season under the direction of Gatti-Casazza, November 15. Special interest was added to the occasion by the fact that Caruso made his first appearance on any stage in the role of Samson. Saint-Saens's work had not been heard at the Metropolitan since 1895, when Tamagno, Mantelli, Campanari and Plancon sang the principal parts. In the latest presentation Caruso, Matzenauer and Amato were the principals. The former was in glorious voice and his acting of the strong man was realistic. The music of Dalila was admirably sung, especially the aria, "Mon Coeur s'ouvre a ta Voix." Amato impressively rendered the music of the High Priest. The orchestra, in the capable hands of Polacco, did full justice to the score, and the chorus was excellent.

Giorgio Polacco conducted "Boris Godunoff," November 16. This Moussorgsky work was effectively given with the familiar cast, excepting Max Bloch. It will be remembered that Mr. Polacco conducted this opera once last year and was warmly received by the audience.

Artur Bodanzky, a new conductor who came to this country after winning laurels not only in his own city, Vienna, but in Paris and Petrograd as well, led the season's first German opera, "Goetterdaemmerung," November 17. The performance of the Wagner work was splendid. Mr. Bodanzky happily initiated the reform of shortening the Wagner works. His perfect control of the orchestra and its tonal balance were immediately perceptible. He allowed the voices to be heard clearly, and at no time were the singers deprived of their opportunities.

Another new conductor, Gaetano Bavagnoli, tried his hand with "La Boheme," November 19, and Ida Cajatti, a lyric soprano from Trieste, appeared for the first time here. As Musetta, she displayed an agreeable voice, though it contained too much tremolo, and acted spiritedly. The conductor brought out all the beauties of Puccini's score skilfully. Caruso, as Rodolfo, sang superbly. Others in the cast were Alda, as Mimi; Scotti, as Marcello; Tegani, as Schaunard, and de Segurola, as Colline.

"Der Rosenkavalier," which Mr. Bodanzky reduced in length by half an hour, was given November 20.

"Boris Godunoff" was selected for November 22. Mr. Didur gave his usual strong interpretation of the usurping Czar. Mme. Ober was a beautiful Marina and sang with much charm.

"The Barber of Seville" was revived on the evening of November 25. Rossini's work was well performed, and the three newcomers in leading roles were well received, especially de Luca, as Figaro, and Pompilio Malatesta, as Dr. Bartolo. The former used his rich baritone voice to advantage and found favor, while the latter sang well and gave to his role just enough comedy. Giacomo Damacco, the new tenor, did not come up to expectations as the Count of Almaviva. Frieda Hempel was a pretty Rosina and sang tastefully. Didur, as Basilio, was effective in both his singing and acting. Bavagnoli conducted. In the afternoon "Parsifal" was given, with the same cast as last year, excepting Mr. Weil, who appeared as Amfortas two years ago. Artur Bodanzky skilfully wielded the baton.

The new Bohemian soprano, Erma Zarska, made her bow at the Metropolitan, November 26, in "Lohengrin." Owing to a cold she was unable to sing to advantage. Bodanzky conducted this Wagner work here for the first time. Again there was that refinement of expression shown which marked his other work. Mme. Matzenauer won the honors as Ortrud. She sang with beauty of tone and expression. Mr. Schlegel was the Herald. Urlus appeared as Lohengrin.

On November 27 a newcomer, Mme. Edvina, made her debut in "Tosca." Her voice was disappointing. It is a lyric soprano of substantial timbre. Caruso, as Cavaradossi, sang better than at any previous performance since the opening night. Scotti was Scarpia.

Flotow's "Marta," in Italian, was revived at the matinee of December 11, with Miss Hempel as Lady Harriet, Mme. Ober as Nancy, Caruso as Lionel, de Luca as Plunkett and Malatesta as Sir Tristan.

Wagner's "Tristan und Isolde" was heard December 1, with the familiar cast. The only new performer was the conductor, Mr. Bodanzky. He gave a remarkable demonstration of his ability, and kept the orchestra well under control and suitable to the utterances of the singers.

The standard repertory, presented in French, English, Italian and German, will be increased by interesting novelties. For the first time on a New York stage a Spanish grand opera will be sung in the Spanish language—"Goyescas," the libretto by Fernando Periquet, the music by Enrique Granados. The composer will be present at the premiere of this work. In addition, a new singer, Maria Barrientos, the Spanish coloratura, who arrives in January, will sing in this opera. Because of the interest shown in Russian opera, the management expects to produce Borodine's "Prince Igor," a work of the Slavic school which was scheduled for production last year. Plans also include additional novelties and revivals, among them Bizet's "Les Pecheurs de Perles," "Lucia," and perhaps "Rigoletto," "Marta" and "La Sonnambula." The management arranged for bringing to America Mr. Serge Diaghileff's Ballet Russe Company, which in the last four weeks of the season will give a varied programme. The Metropolitan has also obtained the exclusive rights for "La Chute de la Maison Usher," "Le Diable dans le Beffroi" and "La Legende de Tristan," all by Claude Debussy. The company includes four new sopranos, a baritone, a basso, a stage manager and two conductors. The sopranos are Maria Barrientos, who has sung at La Scala, Covent Garden, Buenos Ayres, Warsaw, Madrid and Paris; Edith Mason, an American lyric soprano who has been a member of the opera at Nice, Marseilles and of the Paris Opera Comique; Helen Warrum, an American lyric soprano formerly with the Chicago Opera Company; Julia Heinrich, who has been singing here in concert and was formerly a member of the Hamburg opera. The baritone is Giuseppe de Luca, first baritone of La Scala and of the leading opera houses in Rome, Naples, Lisbon, Petrograd, Buenos Ayres and Covent Garden.

A large audience applauded the world-premiere of Umberto Giordano's (1863) new opera, "Madame Sans-Gene," on January 25. Its libretto is by Renati Simoni and is founded on the play by Victorien Sardou and E. Moreau, which tells of the progress of the washerwoman, Caterina Huebscher, known in her surroundings in Paris as "Mme. Sans-Gene." She has among her patrons Lieut. Bonaparte, who owes an unpaid bill.

In an attack upon the Tuileries during the Revolution, Count Neipperg, a wounded Royalist, enters her shop and asks for protection. She binds his wounds and hides him in her room.

Mme. Sans-Gene marries her village suitor, Lefebre, and nineteen years later, on the elevation of her husband's rank in station and fortune, she becomes the Duchess of Dantzic and her husband a Marshal of France. It is evident from her conduct at court receptions that Mme. Sans-Gene still retains her laundry atmosphere in spite of the court surroundings. Her husband tells her that her language and manners are laughed at behind her back and that Napoleon has suggested a divorce. An affectionate scene between the couple follows.

Neipperg remains a steadfast friend to the Duchess and her husband, but because of his affection for Empress Marie-Louise he has incurred the displeasure of Napoleon. He is ordered to be banished. Meanwhile the Duchess is summoned before the Emperor because of her conduct at a social function in her own apartment. Mme. Sans-Gene, however, presents the Emperor with his unpaid laundry bill and wins his sympathy by a tale of her service in the armies of France as a vivandiere. Neipperg enters at this time on his way to the apartments of the Empress. Napoleon has him seized. In the last act the Count is condemned to death. Caterina plans his rescue. She tells the Empress that Neipperg is awaiting at the door. Marie-Louise hands out a package of letters which Napoleon takes and finds that they contain an appeal to his wife's father to keep the Count in Vienna and thereby prevent his annoying her. Napoleon, satisfied of Marie-Louise's fidelity, releases the Count and thanks Caterina for her share in the happy outcome of the whole affair.

The music is oftentimes tuneful, the "Carmagnole" and "Ca ira"-ing being especially so.

Geraldine Farrar as the heroine has rarely sung more beautifully, and she did full justice, by her able acting, to the role of Mme. Sans-Gene. Mr. Martinelli did the best work since his arrival in New York, as Lefebre. His voice gains in quality and his acting is expressive. Amato was excellent as Napoleon, both in singing the music and in his characterization of the Emperor. De Segurola was Fouche and Paul Althouse was Neipperg. The entire performance was artistically staged, and Toscanini conducted.

The "Ring" cycle of the season was begun on January 28. Of the new singers who had not been heard before in "Das Rheingold," Mr. Sembach stood out for his admirable interpretation of the difficult part of Loge. Arthur Middleton and Paul Althouse were new in the roles of Donner and Froh respectively, and came up to all expectation. Carl Braun's Wotan and Albert Reiss's Mime were both excellent performances. "Die Walkuere" was heard February 4. Interest centred in the new Brunnhilde of the German soprano, Mme. Kurt. She rendered the Valkyries' cry with perfect ease. "Die Goetterdaemmerung," on February 18 brought the "Nibelungen Ring" cycle to a close. Special mention should be made of the splendid Waltraute of Margarete Ober.

For the first time in two years Emmy Destinn had the role of Elsa in "Lohengrin," January 7. She was in good voice and sang excellently. Basil Ruysdael was the King and Jacques Urlus had the title part.

The management brought out an admirable revival of Beethoven's "Fidelio" on January 30. It first came to New York in English away back in 1839. Several years ago Gustav Mahler, who had previously revived it in Vienna, produced it at the Metropolitan. At that time Berta Morena was Leonora. On the present occasion Mme. Matzenauer was the Leonora. Her singing and acting were beautifully done. In the scene with Florestan she was especially sincere and handled the music exceptionally well. Mr. Urlus was Florestan, Mr. Braun was Rocco, and Mme. Schumann was Marcelline. All were in excellent voice.

The first production in this country of the one-act opera "L'Oracolo," by Franco Leoni, libretto by Camillo Zanoni, took place on February 4. The work is founded on Chester B. Fernald's "The Cat and the Cherub," a story of the Chinese quarter of San Francisco before the fire. The story opens at 5 A. M. on the Chinese New Year's Day and concerns Chim-Fen, proprietor of an opium den in "Hatchet Row," who tries to win Ah-Yoe, niece of his neighbor, Hoo-Tsin, a rich merchant, for his wife. Ah-Yoe loves Win-San Luy, son of the sage, Win-Shee. Chim-Fen kidnaps Hoo-Tsin's baby son, Hop-Chee, and hides him in a cellar. Win-San Luy, who finds out where the child is concealed, tries to rescue it, but Chim-Fen kills him with a hatchet. Win-Shee suspects Chim-Fen of being the kidnapper, and hearing a child's cry dashes into the opium den and succeeds in carrying off the infant to Hoo-Tsin's house. On returning, Win-Shee goes up to the den proprietor and in vengeance kills him with the plunge of a knife into his back and supplements it by strangling him with his queue. As a policeman passes by, Win-Shee, who has propped the dead man up in sitting posture, pretends to be in earnest conversation. When the custodian of the law has passed, Win-Shee departs, followed by the falling of the corpse's body heavily to the ground. The music, though lacking in originality, is melodious and well constructed and contains much Oriental color. The author, Leoni, who is an Italian, living in England, also wrote "La Tsigane" and "Francesca da Rimini." Antonio Scotti gave a skilful characterization of the keeper of the opium den, a part in which he appeared ten years ago in London. Win-Shee was splendidly sung by Adamo Didur. Miss Bori charmingly rendered the music allotted to her as Ah-Yoe, particularly her song from the balcony. Luca Botta displayed effective singing as Win-San Luy. Mr. Polacco tastefully read the score. He also conducted "Pagliacci," which followed, and which, in addition to having Caruso, had a new Tonio in Adamo Didur. This was the first time that this artist gave the "Pagliacci" prologue. Destinn was Nedda and Tegani was Sylvio.

Mme. Melanie Kurt made her American debut February 1 at the Metropolitan as Isolde in the great music drama "Tristan und Isolde." The star made an instantaneous success and received a warm welcome. Her voice, while not the most brilliant, has freshness and purity. This singer received much praise a couple of years ago when she made her first appearance in London as Kundry in "Parsifal." In this role she distinguished herself at the Metropolitan on February 22 by giving a fine performance. Johannes Sembach was Parsifal and Clarence Whitehill was Amfortas.

"Il Trovatore" had its first presentation in three years on the afternoon of February 20. Special interest attached to the production, as it had been announced as "restudied" under Arturo Toscanini, who conducted it for the first time here. Verdi's work was given in New York at the Academy of Music in 1855, just two years after it had been heard in Rome, and one year before it made its appearance in London. When the construction of the Metropolitan was finished in 1883 it was placed in the company's repertoire. In this season's performance Emmy Destinn was Leonora. Her "Miserere" was very effective. Mme. Ober was an excellent Azucena. Amato was splendid as the Count di Luna. His singing, especially in the second act, was finely done. An impressive characterization of the troubadour, Manrico, was given by Martinelli, and he effectively rendered the famous "Di quella pira" aria in the third act. In the evening "Tosca" was the bill, with a new Cavaradossi in the person of Luca Botta, who acquitted himself admirably.

For the last of the new productions of the season Mascagni's "Iris" was revived. This work was first heard at the Metropolitan, October 16, 1902, under the composer's direction, which was about five years after its first production at the Castanzi Theatre in Rome. In 1899 it was heard at La Scala under the conductorship of Toscanini. Mr. Conried brought it forward again on December 6, 1907, with Mme. Eames as Iris, Caruso as Osaka and Scotti as Kyoto. The libretto is by Luigi Illica, who wrote "Germania" for Franchetti. The score of the opera opens at the first break of the sun in a Japanese garden, with Iris singing a beautiful choral hymn to the sun. Her father, who is blind, hears the childlike chatter as she plays with her doll. Osaka, who is wealthy, sees Iris and desires her. He arranges, with the aid of Kyoto, a wretch of the Joshiwara, a puppet show to attract the child from a crowd of girls so that he can abduct her. The trick is successful. Kyoto takes her away, leaving a purse "to make the abduction legal." Her father, Il Cieco, believes that his little girl willingly disgraced him, and he is led to the forbidden part of the city of Tokio to curse her. Iris is in the house of Kyoto in Act II. He demands of Osaka a princely ransom, which the latter agrees to give. Iris, who awakes, finds herself surrounded by gifts, and pays reverence to Osaka as a "Son of Light." But she soon cries for her home. This bores Osaka, and he bids the keeper frighten her. Kyoto shows her a secret vault leading to a sewer basin, and tells her it is for those who disobey. Osaka, remorseful, sings that she shall have her wish. His voice attraacts Il Cieco, who curses Kyoto. The latter shrieks back, "He sold her!" and before Osaka can intervene Iris leaps from a window into the deep abyss. The last act shows a waste space outside the city. Ragpickers at night are searching with hooks for things that may have some value. They see a shining object, which, on further investigation, proves to be the glinting on the dress of Iris. Pulling the body ashore, they strip the ornaments from the gown and, seeing that there is life in the body, become frightened and flee. Iris revives a little. As the morning dawns she stretches out her arms toward the sun. Here again the chorus of the sun is heard. Flowers are brought forth under the power of the sun's rays and form themselves around the body of the dying Iris. The music is mostly made up of short snatches of melodious phrases. It has at times Japanese color. The most effective passages are the orchestra introduction accompanying the "Hymn to the Sun" and Il Cieco's outbreak of despair at the end of the first act. The performance enlisted some of the finest powers that the Metropolitan could summon. Lucrezia Bori gave a touching impersonation of the tragic little Japanese girl, and her singing was charming. As the dissolute young nobleman, Osaka, Luca Botta shows his voice off to best advantage. Scotti gave a remarkable and skilful characterization of Kyoto. The entire production was well staged. Toscanini conducted.

Boston Opera Company.—The first visit of the Boston Grand Opera Company to New York, under the direction of Max Rabinoff, occupied the two weeks beginning October 25 at the Manhattan Opera House, the former home of the Hammerstein operatic ventures. They brought several novelties, both in operas and in ballets, in conjunction with Anna Pavlowa and her Russian dances. The engagement opened with Auber's "La Muta di Portici" ("The Dumb Girl of Portici"), which has not been heard in this country in a quarter of a century and is eighty-seven years old. The story is of the son of the Viceroy of Naples, who, in the absence of a fisherman brother of the dumb girl, had won her love; she discloses, in pantomime, to his aristocratic bride on the eve of their wedding his perfidy. When the fisherman, who is popular with the masses, ripe for insurrection, returns, there is a revolution. The dumb girl saves the lives of both her lover and his wife, and, incidentally, brings about the death of her brother and of herself. The music of this old work contains several attractive airs and duets and two barcarolles. The ballet music made an effective vehicle for the graphic pantomiming and artistic dancing of Mlle. Pavlowa. Mr. Zenatello, the former Hammerstein tenor, as Masaniello, brother of the dumb girl, sang splendidly and received much applause. Felice Lynn, who will be remembered as appearing in "Hans the Flute Player" here and in Hammerstein's London Opera House, was Elvira, the bride. Thomas Chalmers, as Pietro, and Paolo Ananian, as Borella, gave admirable performances. Agide Jacchia, the conductor, tastefully read the score. For their second presentation the company chose "The Love of Three Kings," which brought out a completely different cast. Ferrari-Fontana had not been heard here before in this work. Luisa Villani, who sang the tragic role of Montemezzi's heroine at the world's premiere of the opera at La Scala, in Milan, April 11, 1915, sang the music of that role on this occasion, and displayed a voice fresh and powerful. Edvardo Ferrari-Fontana's singing of Avito was a triumph histrionically and vocally. George Baklanoff, the baritone, and Mardones, the bass, admirably sang the roles of Manfredo and Archibaldo, respectively. Roberto Moranzoni conducted. After the opera the "Elysian Fields" scene from "Orfeo" was given, with Maria Gay singing Orfeo and Mlle. Pavlowa appearing with her ballet and the chorus. Adolph Schmid conducted.

The rendering of "Otello," October 29, aroused much enthusiasm. The presentation as a whole was a meritorious one, and Maranzoni, the conductor, as well as the chorus and singers gave satisfactory performances. George Baklanoff, as Iago, sang brilliantly, especially the "Credo" in the second act. Others in the cast were Zenatello as Otello, Luisa Villani as Desdemona, Elvira Leveroni as Emilia, Ernesto Giaccone as Cassio and Alfred Kaufman as Ludovico.

Principal interest centred, October 28, in the appearance for the first time in this city of the Japanese soprano, Tamaki Miura, in the title role of "Madama Butterfly." Mme. Miura's advent was heralded with previous records of success gained in London with the Beecham company and with the Boston company in Chicago. Being the first Japanese prima donna to appear in opera in America and Europe, and in addition interpreting a Japanese character, naturally aroused much curiosity as to her performance. Mme. Miura, however, showed herself to be an actress of ability, and to possess besides a charming personality a voice European trained, though not strong. It is of good texture, except in the lower ranges, where it lacks warmth. The remainder of the singers in the cast did well. Riccardo Martin was Pinkerton, Thomas Chalmers was Sharpless, and Elvira Leveroni, Suzuki.

The second and final week was conspicuous for the portrayal by Mme. Olive Fremstad of Tosca for the first time in this city since 1913, and for the initial appearance of Zenatello as Cavaradossi, October 31. Mme. Fremstad was warmly received. Zenatello moved his hearers to enthusiastic demonstrations by his artistic and beautiful work in his denunciation of Scarpia after the torture scene. Baklanoff was a splendid Scarpia. On the closing day of the company's engagement, November 6, "Pagliacci," with Maggie Teyte as Nedda, was heard.

HAVANA, CUBA—The new National Opera House, one of the largest in the world, opened April 22 with "Aida," with J. Cappella in the title role, Maria Gay as Amneris, Jose Palet as Rhadames, and Titta Ruffo as Amonasro. The project failed.

CHICAGO—Scriabine's "Prometheus" received its American premiere on March 5 at the concert of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

LOS ANGELES—The National Grand Opera Company, at the Auditorium in January, revived Verdi's "I Lombardi," a rarely sung work, which was first performed February 11, 1843, at Milan. "Fairyland," the $10,000 prize opera by Horatio Parker and Brian Hooker, was heard for the first time at the Temple Auditorium, July 1.

BERLIN—On May 24, at the Royal Opera, Weber's "Freischuetz" was heard. On the 31st Mozart's "Le Nozze di Figaro" was the attraction. Felix von Weingartner's music drama, "Cain and Abel," was heard at the Municipal Opera in Chemnitz. In October, Max von Schilling's "Mona Lisa," libretto by Beatrice Dovsky, was given its first hearing at the Royal Opera.

ROME—Mascagni's "Amico Fritz" opened the Teatre Quirino for a season of opera in April.

BOSTON—Horatio Parker's oratorio, "Morven and the Grail," text by Brian Hooker, was sung for the first time at the centenary of the Handel and Haydn Society, April 13.

PHILADELPHIA — "L'Amore dei Tre Re" opened the Boston Opera Company's season here at the Metropolitan, November 8.

MILAN—During the four months of opera at the Scala, seventy-five performances were given. They included "Das Rheingold," 14; Rigoletto," 21; "Notte di Leggenda," 7; "Loreley," 16; "La Gioconda," 12; "Fedra," 4, and the ballet "La Korrigane." The novelty of the season was the premiere of Franchetti's new work, "Notte di Leggenda," melodrama by G. Forzano. Cecilia Gagliardi was the heroine and de Luca sang the baritone part. On February 5 Catalini's "Loreley," which had not been heard in Milan in ten years, was given, with Eugenia Burzio in the title role. Marenuzzi conducted.

NAPLES—During a four months' season at the San Carlo, ninety-two works were heard. The two novelties were Wolf-Ferrari's "Le Donne Curiose," which had ten performances, and Laccetti's "Il Miracolo," given five times.

TURIN—The first production in Italy of Giordano's "Madame Sans-Gene" was given at the Teatro Regio late in February.

MUSIC—Continued.

DRESDEN—In May a revival of Marschner's opera, "Hans Heiling," under the direction of Fritz Remer, was given, with Friedrich Plaschke in the title role. Presentations were also made of Richard Strauss's "Ariadne," "Rosenkavallier," "Elektra" and "Salome." Frau Gutheil-Schoder had the principal part in "Elektra" and Strauss himself conducted.

MONTE CARLO—On March 11 the special opera season, organized by Raoul Gunsbourg, opened with "Aida." Caruso appeared as Rhadames and Felia Litvinne had the title role.

The Van den Berg-Conger Opera Company began an engagement of several weeks, presenting alternately grand and comic opera, at the Standard. On May 10 they gave "Il Trovatore" in English. Alan Turner, in the role of the Count, displayed a pleasing baritone voice, and Bettina Freeman, formerly of the Century company, sang Leonora. Marie Cressie was Azucena. Oscar Strauss's "Chocolate Soldier" was the offering for the week of June 7. Dorothy Maynard, a young American, sang the soprano role of Nadina delightfully, and Carrie Reynolds sang and acted the role of Mascha with spirit. Planquette's old comic opera, "The Chimes of Normandy," delighted the patrons, May 25. A very good tenor voice was displayed by Paul Hyde Davis in his singing of Jean. Arthur Cunningham, who years ago appeared with the Gilbert and Sullivan organization, sang the charming waltz song of the Marquis tastefully, and Carrie Reynolds, in addition to making an attractive Serpolette, sang the music delightfully. The entire production was well staged.

Mr. Louis Zuro began his fifth Spring season of grand opera at the People's Theatre, April 26, with "Aida." Miss Eversman, who was soprano of the Chicago Opera Company, admirably sang the title role. Mme. Matja Niessen Stone, formerly of the Metropolitan Opera Company, was an excellent Amneris. Guido Cecotti was satisfactory as Rhadames. Per Bettin, of the Royal Opera of Berlin, did well as Amonasro.

The following evening "Rigoletto" was sung. It served to introduce Theodore Kittay, the young tenor, as the Duke. He disclosed a voice of agreeable tone, though he showed a lack of dramatic technique.

An impressive impersonation of Azucena in "Il Trovatore" was given by Matja von Niessen Stone on April 30. Hortense Dourvalle sang the role of Leonora. "Faust" opened the second week of the Zuro season on May 3. Salvatore Giordano had the name part.

The Zuro company completed their season with an ambitious production of "Un Ballo in Maschera" for the first time, May 14. Cecotti handled the role of Riccardo very well. Hortense Dourvalle was Amelia, George Everett sang Silvano, and Ilda Rossi was Ulrica. Special mention should be made of the good work done by Modesti as Renato, his singing of "Eri tu" being especially well done. Miss Hoffman easily delivered the coloratura passages of the music of Edgar.

Mr. Zuro began another season of opera on November 6 at the Thalia with "Carmen." Maude Santley, former member of the Century company, sang the title role, and Luigi Samolli, a dramatic tenor, was Don Jose. "Aida" was given the second week. Miss Lida Errera, an Italian dramatic soprano, made her bow as Aida, and Giocomo Mazuroff, a Russian, was Rhadames. On November 23 Mr. Zuro revived Verdi's "Ernani."

Morris, Louis L. Seaman, John A. Stewart.

CONCERTS.

Over eighty concerts were given by the Philharmonic Society, under the leadership of Josef Stransky, during 1914-15, which was the seventy-third year of its existence. About 200,000 people attended the performances. The personnel of the orchestra was efficient and the programmes furnished were of the highest artistic standard. The society presented for the first time in New York Henry Hadley's tone poem "Lucifer;" Arthur Hinton's suite "Endymion;" Erich Korngold's "Sinfonietta," op. 5; J. Guy Ropartz's Fourth Symphony; Sigismond Stojowski's suite, op. 9; Henry Burck's "Meditation," for strings, and Nicola Laucella's "Prelude and Temple Dance."

Antonin Dvorak's Fourth Symphony, which is seldom presented here, was offered as the principal work on the evening of March 4, with commendable results. Harold Bauer was the soloist and gave an excellent interpretation of Schumann's A minor concerto. Alma Gluck appeared with the society January 14. She rendered the last aria of Donna Anna's from "Don Giovanni" in addition to numbers in Russian by Rachmaninoff and Rimsky-Korsakoff. The orchestra especially distinguished itself in its exhibit of Liszt's symphonic poem "Tasso." Beethoven's music made up the programme January 21. Fritz Kreisler, as the soloist, came in for marked appreciation for his interpretation of the D major concerto. There were two soloists at the concert January 24—Florence Hinkle, soprano, and the Russian violinist, Wasserly Besekirsky. The former sang the aria from Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro" and the "Ave Maria," from Max Bruch's "Cross of Fire." The conductor began with the first symphony of Schumann in B flat major, followed by four character pieces, based on the Rubaiyat, by Foote, and ended with Liszt's Hungarian rhapsody. Mr. Besekirsky rendered Mendelssohn's E minor concerto. His musicianship, while creditable, left much to be desired. The first half of the programme January 28 was devoted to French music. Opening with the overture to Mehul's "La Chasse du jeune Henri," the orchestra gave "L'Apprenti Sorcier," which pleased the audience so much that it was repeated. Miss Lucrezia Bori sang with beauty of tone "Depuis le Jour," from Charpentier's "Louise," and "Naissantes Fleurs," from Gretry's "Cephale et Procris." For the first time in this country a suite by Sigismond Stojowski, the Polish composer and pianist, was played February 5. On February 11 Wagner numbers made up the programme. The Austrian violinist, Fritz Kreisler, again appeared with the society on February 21. He was at his best in his interpretation of the Bruch G minor concerto, which he played with strength and expressiveness.

On February 25 Pasquale Amato was soloist. Beethoven's Third Symphony, the "Eroica," was beautifully rendered. For the first time during the season, Mr. Stransky gave Reger's "Ballet Suite," which was dedicated to him. It proved a popular number.

The German soprano of the Dresden and Berlin Opera Houses, Mme. Elizabeth van Endert, who has a well trained voice of fine texture, appeared February 28 and sang the famous aria from Weber's "Der Freischuetz," "Wie Nahte mir der Schlummer," and three songs which have only recently been orchestrated by their composers and were sung for the first time here with orchestral accompaniment—Reger's "Waldeinsamkeit" and "Maria Wiegenlied," and Richard Strauss's "Staendchen." The Russian pianist, Ossip Gabrilowitsch, played Chopin's E minor concerto at the concert of March 6. He gave a stirring interpretation which delighted his listeners. The musicians of the orchestra deserved the highest praise for the excellent manner in which they supported the pianist. In honor of the memory of Carl Goldmark, who had died over a month previous to this concert, his work, "Rural Wedding" symphony, was among the offerings. For the first time in twenty years Dvorak's Fourth Symphony in G was heard March 4.

The Philharmonic Society opened its seventy-fourth season with a superb presentation of Edward MacDowell's symphonic poem, "Lancelot and Elaine," under the baton of Josef Stransky. The novelty of the evening was Max Reger's "Variations and Fugue on a Theme by Mozart," op. 132. This work, which was first heard in Germany last Winter, was excellently played and warmly received. On November 28 Mme. Melanie Kurt sang two numbers by Richard Strauss and a group of five songs by Brahms and Wolf. The initial hearing in this country of Arnold Schoenberg's symphonic poem, "Pelleas and Melisande," was given. Emmy Destinn, soprano, was the soloist. A fine performance was given on the afternoon of November 26, when Delius's concerto in C minor for piano and orchestra was given for the first time in America with Percy Grainger, the Australian pianist, as soloist. It is the work of an Englishman of German ancestry, and it was written in Florida about ten years ago.

The Catholic Oratorio Society at its tenth annual production sang Coleridge Taylor's oratorio, "The Atonement," at Carnegie Hall, March 26.

John McCormack gave ten recitals in Greater New York. One of them was given before an enormous audience at the Century Opera House, March 21. Beginning with Beethoven's "Adelaide," in an English translation, his selections included three groups of English, Irish and Scottish ballads.

At the first concert of the Russian Symphony Orchestra, March 20, in Carnegie Hall, Modest Altschuler for the first time anywhere caused colored lights to be used in conjunction with the rendering of an orchestral descriptive work. The composition on this occasion was the "Poem of Fire, Prometheus," by Alexander Scriabine. It was performed in darkness, while powerful colored lights were relayed on a curtained background.

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, with Dr. Muck as conductor, during its series of concerts brought out the work of an American composer for its first New York public hearing, "Ormazd," by Frederick S. Converse. It was first given by Max Zach, of the St. Louis Symphony, in January, 1912. Their other new performances were Percy Grainger's British folk dances, Josef Suk's "Scherzo Fantastique," Roger-Ducasse's "Le Joli Jeu de Furet," Albert Roussel's "Le Festin d'Araignee," Florent Schmitt's waltzes, "Reflets d'Alemagne," David Stanley Smith's "Prince Hal," and two movements from a symphony by Frederick A. Stock. The two latter were American works.

Vernon d'Arnalle, a baritone with a voice of much beauty and of great compass, which he uses to advantage, gave a recital at Aeolian Hall, October 26, accompanied by Maurice Eisner. His programme was tastefully selected. It consisted of compositions by Schubert, Franz, Schumann and Brahms, besides two Irish ballads, "The Weaver's Daughter" and "A Ballynure Ballad"; Carpenter's "To One Unknown," and Hadley's "How Do I Love Thee." In addition, Mr. d'Arnalle added some songs to his own accompaniment which were warmly received.

Carl Schuetz, the harpist of the Philharmonic Society, gave a recital at the Princess, January 24, assisted by Miss Hattie Deumm, soprano. Mr. Schuetz gave a finished performance and he was warmly received by the audience. His programme contained several numbers written by harpists who have been heard by the New York public. Among them were Chesires and Holy. Other selections rendered were Oberthier's "Clouds of Sunshine" and two pieces of his own composition, entitled "In the Garden" and "A Spring Thought."

THE DRAMA.

The year was especially notable for the number of independent ventures launched forth by several producers interested in the furthering of the artistic rather than the commercial standard of the stage. These projects began when the Bandbox Theatre opened with "Poor Little Thing," which the New York Play Actors intended to be the beginning of a series of plays to be given by them. This play, however, ended abruptly after eleven performances. Then the Washington Square Players took over the theatre, February 18, and furnished short plays. There next appeared on the theatrical horizon Granville Barker with his English company. He has been identified with the stage in Europe and has two theatres in London, the Savoy and the Kingsway. His venture began at Wallack's, on January 27, with "Androcles and the Lion," a fable play, by George Bernard Shaw, and "The Man who Married a Dumb Wife," by Anatole France. Both works were new to New York, the latter never having been heard before on the English-speaking stage. "Androcles and the Lion" was first given at the St. James's Theatre, London, in 1913, and created quite a little interest. It requires a cast of seventeen, besides those in the ensemble. Eighty-five times. Mr. Barker's second offering was Shakespeare's "A Midsummer-Night's Dream," which was treated in a novel manner. He made a departure from the usual by using British folk music and dances, arranged by Cecil Sharp, instead of the Mendelssohn music setting used for the play. Miss Lillah McCarthy pleasingly portrayed Helena; Horace Braham was admirable as Oberon, and O. P. Heggie was Quince. Seventeen times.

Another name was added to the list of producers on February 23, when Emanuel Reicher, founder of the Modern Stage, gave Hauptmann's "Elga," a dream play, at the Garrick. This new organization purposed to give a series of plays by the foremost Continental dramatists as well as native authors. "Elga" was first published in Berlin in 1905, and shortly after appeared an English translation by Mary Harned. 2 times. This actor-manager inaugurated a second season on November 16 with the first production in the United States of Bjornstjerne Bjornson's social comedy, "When the Young Vine Blooms," translated by Arvid Paulson, at the Garden Theatre. In this play Mr. Reicher assumed his first comedy role in English. With him was associated his daughter, Hedwig Reicher. After a month's run Gerhart Hauptmann's "The Weavers" was given.*

The Bramwell Players began a second season, November 7, with a double bill consisting of a satire entitled "The Courtship of Then, Now and To-Morrow," by Anna Wynne, and a playlet in three scenes by Butler Davenport called "Depths of Purity."

Notable among the year's revivals was Paul M. Potter's dramatization of Du Maurier's novel "Trilby," by Joseph Brooks and the Messrs. Shubert, at the Shubert Theatre, April 3. The event marked the twentieth anniversary of the original production, which had its initial hearing at the Garden Theatre in 1895. The eight principal parts were acted by players of distinction. They included Phyllis Neilson-Terry, whose impersonation of Trilby was a triumph for her. Besides her fine acting, she showed ability to sing when she rendered "Ben Bolt" before the audience. Wilton Lackaye received a hearty welcome in his old role Svengali. Others in the cast were Leo Ditrichstein as Zou-Zou, Burr McIntosh as Taffy, Brandon Tynan as Little Billee, George Macfarlane as The Laird, Taylor Holmes as Gecko, and Rose Coghlan as Mme. Vinard. Seventy-three times. George Bernard Shaw's plays were revived by Arnold Daly. He commenced at the Garrick, April 5, with "You Never Can Tell," with George Giddens in the part of Walter. Thirty-four times. Mr. Daly then went to the Park Theatre, where he gave a performance of the satirical comedy, "Candida," May 20. In this he appeared in his old role of Eugene Marjoribanks, one of the most amusing of Shaw's characters. Hilda Spong had the title role. 11 times. A revival of "A Celebrated Case," a new version of Ennery and Cormon's old play, was given on April 7 by David Belasco and Charles Frohman, with Frederic de Belleville, Otis Skinner, Robert Warwick, N. C. Goodwin, Walter F. Scott, George Allison, John Warneck, Helen Ware, Mimi Yvonne, Beverly Sitgreaves, Ruth Farnum, Herbert Ayling, Ann Murdock, Florence Reid and Elita Proctor Otis.

The $10,000 offered by Winthrop Ames for the best play submitted to him was won by Miss Alice Brown's "The Children of Earth." It was chosen from over 1,600 manuscripts. This play was acted for the first time at the Booth, January 12, and is a study of a New England conscience. It tells of the middle-aged romance of a New England woman of unusual strength of character. While Mr. Ames supplied an excellent cast to tell the story, it nevertheless remained unconvincing and was withdrawn after forty-one performances. Effie Shannon gave a skilled portrayal of Mary Ellen. Others in the cast were Herbert Kelcey, Cecil Yapp, Olive Wyndham, Gilda Varesi and A. E. Anson.

"Marie-Odile" was brought to the Belasco, January 26. It was in three acts, by Edward Knoblauch, the author of "Kismet" and "My Lady's Dress." "Marie-Odile" sets forth the story of a young novice who, when a baby, was found one morning on the steps of the convent. Reared within the solemn old walls of the Alsatian convent by the nuns and with but scant thought of what her station would be in the world outside, she becomes a nun. The play opens at the time of the ending of her novitiate, 1870, and a notable year in the history of the Franco-Prussian War. No news of the war reached Marie-Odile, and the only men whom she had ever seen were the old gardener, Peter, and the visiting priest. One afternoon a group of Prussian soldiers made their way into the convent. The sisters took flight, leaving the little novice, who was hiding in the loft with her pigeons, alone to meet the soldiers. At the departure of the Prussians a young Corporal remains behind, and the novice's romance closes the second act. The next scene is a year later. The nuns, returning to the convent, learn of Marie-Odile's romance and denounce her. One nun pleads for her that innocence has been her only sin. Miss Frances Starr as Marie-Odile has a role very different from any which she has been acting during the past few years. In her interpretation of the nun she displayed work of the highest quality. 121 times.

The doors of the Belasco Theatre were thrown wide for the present season August 10. "The Boomerang," a new American comedy in three acts by Winchell Smith and Victor Mapes, was the attraction. This comedy of jealousy tells about the vicissitudes of two couples who are in love and who become jealous. A young physician undertakes to cure the jealousy, and pretends to administer modern remedies, while in reality he gives the old-fashioned method of affected indifference. But the wrong person takes the advice, and the result is that the young doctor is wounded by his own boomerang. Wallace Eddinger, as the lovelorn youth, displayed his best acting, being always natural and effective. Arthur Byron gave an excellent performance of the physician. Martha Hedman, as the nurse, acted delightfully, and Ruth Shepley, as Grace, gave a skilful portrayal of the one who had been wooed so ardently.*

Another production to have a long run was the melodrama "Sinners," by Owen Davis, at the Playhouse, January 7. The cast included Alice Brady, who made a charming and girlish Mary; Emma Dunn, Florence Nash, Robert Edeson as Bob Merrick, and Charles Richman. (W. A. Brady.)

E. H. Sothern, after a year's retirement from the stage, appeared in Alfred Sutro's modern comedy, "The Two Virtues," at the Booth Theatre, October 4. This play was produced by

Sir George Alexander at the St. James's Theatre, London, in March, 1914. It satirized woman's attitude toward woman. Mr. Sothern played the role of Jeffery Planton, a rich, eccentric, middle-aged bachelor who through an unfortunate love affair, in which his fiancee, Isabel, marries another man, seeks retirement in his study and devotes himself to the writing of a history of the world. Charlotte Walker was chosen as Mr. Sothern's leading woman. (Lee Shubert and Winthrop Ames.) Sixty-six times. On November 29 "Lord Dundreary" was revived. Mr. Sothern's last appearance in this comedy was in 1914 and his first revival was made in New York in 1908. His father played this part prior to 1858, when Joseph Jefferson had the part of Asa Trenchard and Laura Keene was Florence Trenchard. In the present revival Elizabeth Valentine took the latter part. (Shubert.)

One of the events in the theatrical world was the return to the stage of Miss Julia Arthur after an absence of over ten years. Her last appearance was as Josephine in "More Than Queen." Miss Arthur came to the Forty-eighth Street Theatre in a new play, "The Eternal Magdalene," by Robert McLoughlin, on November 1. It is a stirring morality play, dealing with certain social conditions. It is written in a straightforward, unusually frank manner, and has an abundance of keen satire. Julia Arthur gave a striking performance of the Magdalene. She fitted into the role perfectly, and her well-modulated voice, simplicity and beauty made the portrayal stand out impressively. Emmett Corrigan acted the narrow-minded, public-spirited citizen who brought an evangelist to clean up his town and who falls asleep to dream of the Magdalene gliding through his house as a maid servant; of his son, who has stolen money; of his daughter, who elopes with a scoundrel and is deserted, and finally of his own mistakes, only to awaken to find himself with the family intact and himself a much wiser and better man. In this role Mr. Corrigan did some excellent acting. Lowell Sherman was capital in the part of the newspaper reporter. (Selwyn & Co.*)

Cohan & Harris brought out an American farce, "Hit-the-Trail Holliday," written by George M. Cohan from an idea suggested by George Middleton and Guy Bolton, at the Astor on September 13. The story is about Billy Holliday, a Broadway bartender, who is brought to a small town in New England for a hotel to be opened by the richest man in town, Granger. Mrs. Temple, a widow, arranged for a temperance meeting in the town hall. Granger declared that the hall should not be used for the purpose, as he owns two breweries. Holliday offers his services as a speaker and wakes up the following morning to find himself a famous temperance lecturer. He ends up by closing the breweries, making a fortune in "nearly beer" for the hotel keeper and falling in love with the rector's daughter. Fred Niblo was the barkeeper-revivalist. Another successful production of these managers was "Young America" at the Gaiety, August 28. It was by Fred Ballard and dealt with the Children's Court.

Another amusing farce was presented at the Eltinge, November 6. It was entitled "Fair and Warmer," and was by Avery Hopwood, author of "Seven Days" and "Nobody's Widow." This play concerned four young people of assorted temperaments who Mr. Hopwood endows with time and money enough to take themselves seriously and then proceeds to entangle them in a series of laugh-provoking situations from which they are extricated. John Cumberland and Madge Kennedy were effective in their roles of husband and wife, respectively. Others in the cast were Ralph Morgan, Janet Beecher, Hamilton Revelle, Olive May, Robert Fisher and Pete Mealy. (Selwyn & Co.*)

The initial stellar engagement of Leo Ditrichstein under the management of Cohan & Harris commenced at the Longacre, where he opened November 10 in "The Great Lover," a romantic comedy in three acts by Mr. Ditrichstein and Fanny and Frederick Hatton. The story is about people of the stage world. Jean Paurel, a baritone, has enjoyed popularity, and insists on deciding who shall and who shall not sing with him in the cast. Later the petted idol suddenly loses his voice, and he must stand aside and watch a newcomer, who has been waiting an opportunity, greeted with acclaim by the public. Mr. Ditrichstein gave a brilliant performance.

"Rolling Stones" was the title of a melodramatic comedy by Edgar Selwyn, author of "Nearly Married," "The Arab" and "The Country Boy," at the Harris, August 17. It told the story of a couple of young men who rise spectacularly from poverty to a position of wealth. They go forth to get the living which they claimed the world owed them. The difficulties which they encounter furnished the amusing incidents of the comedy. It is a play full of spirit and humor. Among those chosen to interpret the piece were Charles Ruggles, who was a capital Dave Fulton; Harrison Ford, who was splendid as the other deceiver; Arthur Aylesworth and Mary Carroll.*

The inaugural performance at the New York Hippodrome under the direction of Charles Dillingham took place on September 30. "Hip, Hip, Hooray" was the attraction. It was a brilliant spectacle. Lyrics were by John L. Golden and music by Raymond Hubbell. One of the prominent features of the show was a Winter scene and ice ballet which ended the entertainment. The players included Arthur Deagan, Nat Wills, Orville Harrold, Belle Storey and Sousa and his band.*

Ethel Barrymore appeared at the Lyceum on October 19 in "Our Mrs. McChesney," a new American comedy made out of the Edna Ferber McChesney stories by George V. Hobart and Edna Ferber. The play is in three acts, which subdivide into five scenes. Miss Barrymore portrays a travelling saleswoman. The action of the play included the many incidents in a crowded life, extending from Sandusky, Ohio, to an apartment on Riverside Drive, New York. The role of Emma McChesney affords Miss Barrymore an opportunity for light comedy work, and she is altogether delightful in it.*

Even funnier than "Potash and Perlmutter" was its sequel, under the title of "Abe and Mawruss," which A. H. Woods presented at the Lyric, October 21. It is from Montague Glass's comic stories, built by Roi Cooper Megrue. The scene of the new play is the home of Perlmutter. It is in three acts, and reveals the two partners in an altogether different social and business environment than before. The play is acted by all the old favorites, including Barney Bernard, Julius Tannen, Mathilde Cottrelly and Louise Dresser.*

"Hobson's Choice," a four-act comedy, by Harold Brighouse, had its New York opening at the Princess, November 2. The play is a quaint story of English provincial life in Lancashire. The leading feminine character was played by Molly Pearson, who was the original Bunty in the American production of "Bunty Pulls the Strings." Mr. Brighouse has chosen for the title of his comedy the old English expression, "Hobson's Choice." This expression originated in the seventeenth century in connection with a livery keeper, who made it a rule that all his patrons take the horse nearest the stable door, whether it be good or bad. Mr. Brighouse has applied this old adage to his comedy, in which the central character, that of a Lancashire shopkeeper, is also named Hobson, only he has four daughters to dispose of instead of horses. He determines that each shall marry the man of his choice, irrespective of their wishes. The eldest, Maggie, however, proposes to the young man she picks out of her father's shop, and weds him in spite of her sire's objections, thereby relegating the proverb to the misfit class. Molly Pearson was a charming Maggie. She brought to the character all the charm in her acting which she displayed as Bunty. A. G. Andrews, as her father, Hobson, was excellent. He gave just the right sympathetic touch to the part in the last act. (Shubert.*)

Oliver Morosco presented at the Gaiety, November 29, the three-act romantic farce "Sadie Love," by Avery Hopwood. The story tells of the wedding of a fascinating American widow and an Italian prince. Immediately after the ceremony there comes a French lady with whom the prince has had a flirtation, and trouble begins. A proposal is made that the bride divorce her husband; then the matter of a wedding journey is discussed, with the French lady to go along to see that her interests are not jeopardized. In the cast were Marjorie Rambeau, as the bride, and Pedro de Cordoba, as the Italian prince.*

Among the new authors of successful plays is Cleaves Kinkead, whose Harvard prize play, "Common Clay," a melodrama in three acts and an epilogue, was staged at the Republic, August 26. This play, which ran for twenty-two weeks in Chicago, is interesting. It tells its story in a straightforward manner, dealing with urgly truths in an effective manner. The action takes place in a Western city. John Mason and Jane Cowl acted in their best manner.*

"The House of Glass," another play by a new author, Max Marcin, came to light at the Candler, September 1. It is a well-constructed play in three acts, telling about Margaret Case, a stenographer in New York, who is about to marry James Burke, crook, thinking he is an honest man. He is arrested in her boarding-house for stealing and, on circumstantial evidence, she is convicted with him. After a year and a half in jail she is let out on parole, which she breaks and goes to Kansas City. There she marries Harvey Lake, railroad man, who is offered the management of an Eastern railroad, which he accepts. He goes to New York. Carroll, a detective, there meets Mrs. Lake and recognizes her. She confesses to her husband her past, but tells of her innocence. He takes it bitterly. However, he secures Edward McClellan, the railroad's lawyer, to thwart the detective. The latter produces Burke, but the ex-crook does not recognize Mrs. Lake, who, worn out with suspense, confesses, and promises the detective she will report to the police. The Governor of New York calls on Lake to prevent his prosecuting a youth of good family who has stolen from the railroad. In return for the favor, Lake obtains a pardon for the woman who broke her parole without divulging her identity. Mary Ryan appeared to advantage in the role of Margaret Case. (Cohan & Harris.*)

The Selwyns brought to the Hudson the new melodrama "Under Fire," by Roi Cooper Megrue, August 12. The play is a vivid war play which takes for its theme the invasion of France in the Battle of the Marne. It is in three acts, with scenes in London, Belgium, a field hospital "somewhere in Northern France" and a trench in the open country.*

Grace George began a season under her own management, with herself as the star, at the Playhouse, September 28. She chose Langdon Mitchell's brilliant comedy, "The New York Idea," for revival. Miss George had the leading role, originally played by Mrs. Fiske. Supporting Miss George were Mary Nash, Lumsden Hare, Conway Tearle and Ernest Lawford.

"The Chief" was the title of Mr. John Drew's new play, in which he came to the Empire, November 26. It was written by Horace Annesley Vachell, and is a light comedy of modern manners in which the comedian has the role of the Earl of Yester. The action of the play takes place in England in Summer. Ten years previous to the time the play opens Yester had fallen in love with Cynthia Vansittart, but through the deception of a Mrs. Bargus he is convinced that she loves another, and so he marries her daughter, Alicia. When she dies Mrs. Bargus is confident that she will secure Yester for her second daughter. But the Earl's ward, fresh from a school in France, arrives on the scene and the plan is spoiled. Consuelo Bailey played the ward, and Laura Hope Crews was seen as Cynthia. The same author's play, "Quinney's," a comedy in four acts, from the Haymarket Theatre, London, was given October 18, at Maxine Elliott's Theatre. It had been running for thirty weeks with much success in London.

"The Cinderella Man," a new play by Edward Childs Carpenter, was announced for presentation about January 1 by Oliver Morosco. It is a comedy-drama of the "Peg o' My Heart" sort.

MUSICAL PIECES.

Following the annual Summer revue, the Winter Garden produced, October 9, "A World of Pleasure," a musical show, book and lyrics by Harold Atteridge, music by Sigmund Romberg. Among those in the cast are Clifton Crawford, Jack Wilson, Stella Mayhew, Kitty Gordon, Frances Pritchard, William Banfield Taylor and Ada Meade. The latter sings "The Melting Pot," a patriotic song, which closes the first act. (Shubert.*)

The Messrs. Shubert also brought out, October 11, at the Shubert Theatre, a new Viennese operetta, one of the latest from the pen of Franz Lehar, entitled "Alone at Last." This piece had met with success in Vienna, Berlin and Budapest. The English version of the book of A. M. Willner and Robert Bodanzky was made by Edgar Smith and Joseph Herbert and the lyrics were furnished by Matthew Woodward. The operetta is in three acts, the scenes being laid at Interlaken, Switzerland. The second act is divided into three scenes, showing the base, the slopes and the summit of the Jungfrau. The story of the piece is concerned with a romantic episode in the life of a young Bavarian baron, who is an enthusiastic mountain climber, and, as such, disguises himself as a guide, laying aside his title and assuming another name. Among a large cast of principals are the names of Marguerite Namara, formerly of the Boston Opera Company, who made her first appearance in light opera; Jose Collins, John Charles Thomas, Barbara Schaefer, Roy Atwell and Harry Conor.*

Klaw & Erlanger brought out another C. M. S. McLellan product, "Around the Map," on September 1, at the New Amsterdam. It was a musical play in three acts, with a score by Herman Finck. Else Alder, from the Johann Strauss Theatre, Vienna, made her first New York appearance in the principal part. The title suggests the plot. The characters spin around the map, and Berlin, Port Arthur, San Francisco and New York are among the widely separated cities visited. The party embark on their journey as the result of a wager of a half million francs.*

"Princess Pat," a dainty and refreshing musical comedy with a melodious score, was introduced at the Cort, September 29. It was the work of Victor Herbert, book and lyrics by Henry Blossom. Eleanor Painter, remembered from "The Purple Domino," in the prima donna role, sang delightfully. Especially attractive was the duet, "All for You," by Miss Painter and Joseph R. Letara. (John Cort.*)

The plays that were mentioned in the 1915 Almanac, and that were still running when the book went to press, with the number of their performances, are as follows:

"Mary Goes First," 33; "At the Barn," 16; "Marriage of Kitty," 16; "The Dumb and the Blind," 16; "The Hawk," 149; "The Law of the Land," 220; "Life," 164; "Kick In," 214; "So Much for So Much," 28; "Daddy Long-Legs," 275; "The Phantom Rival," 103; "A Pair of Silk Stockings," 221; "Experience," 270; "Outcast," 173; "The High Cost of Loving," 114; "The Denial," "The Fog," "Nettie," "Across the Border," 41; "Polygamy," 163; "Driven," 25; "Lady Luxury," 16; "The Girl From Utah," 124; "The Only Girl," 256; "Watch Your Step," 171; "The Debutante," 50; "Suzi," 56; "The Lie," 176; "The Silent Voice," 67; "Wars of the World," 201; "Song of Songs," 188; "To-Night's the Night," 112; "Hello, Broadway," 126; "A Mix-Up," 92; "Secret Strings," 17; "The Show Shop," 160; "The Lilac Domino," 113.

MOVING PICTURES IN 1915.

Motion pictures during the past year made immense progress both as a means of entertainment and instruction. It is probable that the industry has made greater strides during 1915 than in any two years previous.

They are being gradually introduced in schools and in November Dr. Jose M. de Lasarte, a professor in the School of Industrial Engineering in Barcelona, Spain, came to New York to arrange with American film manufacturers for the introduction of films in the schools of Barcelona.

There were great increases in the number of prominent actors and actresses from the legitimate stage who have been engaged to act before the camera, notable accessions of the year being Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew, Dustin Farnum, Raymond Hitchcock, Geraldine Farrar, Theda Bara, Billie Burke, Robert Edeson and scores of others. Among the elaborate productions of the year "The Birth of a Nation" and "The Battle Cry of Peace" vied for the premiership, but the greatest advance was made in the production of plays which had already succeeded on the legitimate stage and in the production of new plays of from three to six reels. Many of these productions were of rare beauty and attained immense popularity. With the improvement in the class of actors appearing in the film prohuctions and the greatly increased expense attaching to the productions, the admission prices have generally advanced, and the $2 picture show has not only arrived but seems to have come to stay.

The motion picture business this past year has been divided into two camps. In one camp we find the long pictures, consisting of from five to ten reels, and in the other camp pictures of from one thousand to three thousand feet in length were used.

For long films some of the most celebrated motion picture actors and actresses have been employed, and a small fortune has been expended in each production—notably Geraldine Farrar in "Carmen." Miss Farrar is said to have received $25,000 for her work in this single picture.

The short or thousand-foot reel made the motion picture business. Many people patronized the small picture show originally because they could drop in for fifteen or twenty minutes and see a complete show, as a thousand-foot story is run in about fifteen minutes.

The year 1915 has seen the production of many films depicting scientific subjects, such as the action of chemicals, the story of flowers and birds, and intimate views of wild animals, made both in South America and Africa.

Kalem Company has made a special feature of the production of railroad stories. This line of work entails heavy expense and a great amount of ingenuity.

The scenarios were prepared by a train despatcher employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad at Pittsburgh, and in the making of the pictures the entire branch of a large Western railroad was rented in its entirety for each production. In renting the railroad, its stations, freight and passenger crews and all equipment were used. Remarkable scenes were made utilizing an immense cantilever bridge.

The heroine of all these stories was a girl about twenty years of age, and in order to fit herself for the work she had to become, to all intents and purposes, a practical engineer and a skilled telegrapher. Kalem has also developed a special field in the production of a series of stories by prominent authors featuring one central character, but making each story complete in itself—notably E. W. Hornung's Australian stories of "Stingaree." Hornung will be remembered as the author of "Raffles."

The company now has in preparation a series that will run into about twenty episodes, being written by George Bronson-Howard, a very successful playwright, who is well known through popular Broadway successes written by him.

The European war was, directly or indirectly, the inspiration of the two greatest scenic pictures of the year, "The Birth of a Nation" and "The Battle Cry of Peace."

"The Birth of a Nation," produced by David W. Griffith, covers that epoch in American history between 1860 and 1872, and 18,000 men were employed in a march of over fifty miles of rough country, representing the Battle of Petersburg, and in the raid of the Ku-Klux Clansmen. In the battle scene actual shells costing $80 each were fired from real cannon and 3,000 horses were utilized in making up the gigantic production. It took eight months to complete the preparation of the 12,000 feet of film on which the 5,000 scenes were pictured, at a cost of a half million dollars The first part of the story had to do with the Civil War and the last half is a picturization of Thomas Dixon's novel, "The Clansman," and covers the operations of the Ku-Klux Clan, which finally put an end to negro domination and carpet-bag rule in the South. Striking features of the production show the assassination of President Lincoln while a performance of "Our American Cousin" is going on on the stage of the pictured theatre, the burning of Atlanta during Sherman's march to the sea, and Lee's surrender at Appomattox.

"The Battle Cry of Peace" is a direct consequence of the European war and is based on Hudson Maxim's book, "Defenceless America." It is designed to show how easy it would be for an alien enemy to conquer New York and to depict the horrors that would follow the capture of the city. It was produced by the Vitagraph Company from a scenario written by J. Stuart Blackton, who supervised its creation. In the making of the picture 16,000 National Guardsmen, 800 G. A. R. veterans, 5,000 horses, 17 aeroplanes, seaplanes and dirigible balloons, together with submarines, dreadnoughts, torpedo boats and armored motor cars, were used to make the picture as true a reproduction of the manner in which modern war is waged as was possible. Spectacular features are the shooting of her two daughters by a mother to prevent their falling into the hands of the invading soldiers, the killing of a long line of citizens who had defended their homes, including the hero, by machine gun fire and the sinking of two battleships. The most thrilling incident, however, is the bombardment of New York, in which skyscrapers are shown shattered by shell fire and tumbling into the streets, which are crowded with people rushing around in wild panic.

NEW YORK CITY.

Paramount pictures are the feature of the Strand Theatre's programme each week. Lou-Tellegen, former leading man for Sarah Bernhardt, made his photo-dramatic debut in a film version of William Somerset Maugham's book, "The Explorer," September 17. The scenes in this picture carry the audience from the centre of fashionable London to the heart of the African jungle. Marie Doro was the star of the film shown October 10, entitled "The White Pearl," by Edith Barnard Delano. "The Prince and the Pauper," Mark Twain's story of the kidnapped heir to the British throne, who was nearly cheated out of his heritage, was shown on November 28, with Marguerite Clark in the dual title role.

The Knickerbocker Theatre wras added to Broadway's list of motion picture houses September 23 with the first public showing of the Triangle films. These feature photo-plays, produced under the direction of Griffith, Ince and Sennett, started with Dustin Farnum in "The Ivory Stain." Douglas Fairbanks in "The Lamb" and Raymond Hitchcock in "My Valet," Helen Ware, the emotional actress, made her debut as a Triangle star in a play called "Cross Currents" November 26. One of the most interesting of the pictures was unquestionably the "Martyrs of the Alamo," a drama of the days when Texas fought for freedom. It was the first in a series of educational film plays that Triangle purposes to show. "Matrimony," for which Julia Dean posed, was seen at this house October 24. Harold Hickman was the neglectful husband in this picture.

One of the most important photo-dramatic productions ever presented at the Strand Theatre was "Carmen," on October 29, with Geraldine Farrar in the title role. The bull fight scenes for the play were specially staged by a company of toreadors brought from Spain and with bulls brought from Mexico. More than 20,000 persons took part in the scenes of the arena. Miss Farrar was supported By Wallace Reid, Pedro de Cordoba, Anita King and H. B. Carpenter. During the same week Theda Bara of the Fox Films gave her impersonation of the title role in a sumptuous "Carmen" at the Academy and at the Riverside Theatre. A reproduced bull ring with a real Spanish bull inside were some of the equipments.

"The Juggernaut," a big railroad wreck photo-play, at the Vitagraph Theatre May 7, proved to be worth all the $25,000 it cost. The great scene in which a speeding express crashes down through a weak trestle, engine and cars diving headlong into the water, made a hair-raising effect on the screen. Other pictures at this house included: "The Turn of the Road," "Heights of Hazard," "The Cave Man," "A Price for Folly," "What Happened to Father" and "The Lady of the Lighthouse." The latter was by Mrs. Lewis Woodruff.

MOTION PICTURES IN OTHER LANDS.

The success and steady development of the motion-picture theatre in Canada have been, comparatively speaking, as phenomenal as in the United States. The methods of the business, both in the operation of the houses and in the distribution of films, have been placed on a highly efficient basis.

Generally speaking, the picture house has withstood the shock of war much better than the vaudeville and regular playhouses. In many of the smaller and to some extent in the larger cities vaudeville and drama have definitely given way to motion pictures.

In Middle and Western Canada particularly, the great distances between important cities have always constituted a serious obstacle to the successful operation of "legitimate" and vaudeville houses. Principally for this reason, but also because of the picture theatre's appeal to the person of small means, the cinematograph business in Western Canada has developed to a wonderful degree, as is amply demonstrated by the elaborate houses constructed and the high order of films shown. It has been estimated that during normal times there were approximately 2,200 motion-picture theatres in active operation in Canada, these having a daily attendance of about 500,000 people.

Theatres are open in the large cities from 10 A. M. to 11 P. M., the shows consisting of four reels and the admission being 10 cents. In the smaller cities the hours are from 2 to 11 P. M., four to six reels being shown for 10 cents. Reels are changed daily, on alternate days, or semi-weekly, according to the location and character of the theatre. Picture houses are invariably closed on Sundays.

There are three motion-picture shows in Barranquilla, Spain, two in Santa Marta, two in Cartagena and several in Bogota and Medellia, Bacaramanga, Cali, Manizales, and other small centres all have them. One mining company has put in "movies" to keep its employees contented.

The motion-picture theatre has not reached in Lisbon as yet the popularity that it enjoys in most large cities of Europe and America. This is due partly to the high admission prices made necessary by the taxes which these places are compelled to pay.

The price of admission ranges between 9 and 21 cents. On working days there are three sections lasting about an hour and a half each, and on Sundays and holidays five. The theatres are quite small as compared with the large halls in other cities, and rents are exceedingly high.

The number of motion-picture theatres and performances in the Azores is extremely limited, but this in a measure can be accounted for by the high price of admission. The earning capacity of the people is low, but the large Portuguese-American element in the islands adds no little interest to the possibilities of the market.

Of the nine islands of this archipelago three have motion-picture theatres. Ponta Delgada, the largest city on the island of St. Michaels, has three theatres, and there are small ones in four other towns of this island. There is one theatre at Angea and one at Harta. The shows in the Azores are much longer than those in the United States. The larger theatres usually present three sessions of four reels each, the last two sessions being made up of series films and the first of reviews, comics, fashions and the like. The smaller theatres present six to eight reels at a performance. Most of the photo-plays shown here in the last year were heavy dramatic or tragic ones, though an attempt was made at each performance to present one or two comics and a lighter photo-play.

The official French war films were placed on exhibition in this country under the auspices of The World at the Fulton Theatre, New York City. They were guaranteed by the French Government to take the spectators onto the battle fields, not as tourists will go, long after the struggle is over, but at the actual moment of battle, and makes them observers in the midst of infantry drives and artillery actions. They show every given aspect of the great struggle on the western fighting front.

Every phase of soldier life is shown in these pictures just as it is being lived by the men in the trenches. The films were taken by order of the French General Staff and are to be preserved in the National Archives of France, that future generations may be able to see how Frenchmen fought for their country.

THE INITIATIVE AND REFERENDUM.

THE Referendum has been defined as "the referring of legislation to the people for final rejection or acceptance;" the Initiative as "the giving to the people the right of proposing legislation to be acted upon." It has been further said that the Referendum as it is now generally advocated requires that no law save a strictly defined class of urgent measures for the public peace, health and safety, which usually must have a two-thirds or three-fourths majority to pass, shall go into effect without waiting a fixed time, say ninety days. If, during this time, a part of the voters, say ten per cent., sign a petition for the Referendum on that law, it would not go into effect till the next regular election, when the people would vote on it, and if a majority voted "no" it would not be a law. The Initiative gives the people the power to originate laws. If a certain percentage of the voters, say ten per cent., sign a petition for a law and file it with the proper official it must come before the Legislature and perhaps be referred to the people. Sometimes the law requires that legislation be referred to the people, whether they petition it or not. This is called the "Compulsory Referendum." Where the Referendum is taken only when a certain number petition for it, it is called the "Optional Referendum." The Referendum and the Initiative provide for direct legislation, that is, legislation directly by the people.

For adoption by States from 1897 to 1908, see 1913 ALMANAC; from 1909 to 1913 inclusive, see 1914 ALMANAC.

1914—Arizona gave a majority for a State-wide Prohibition law; a majority in favor of a proposition to strike out of the Constitution the right and power of the Governor or Legislature to veto measures that have received the approval of a majority of the electors; a majority in favor of a Penal Code, a majority fixing a maximum passenger intrastate railroad rate, a majority prohibiting blacklisting, a majority in favor of old age and mothers' pensions; a majority requiring that 80 per cent. of employés must be American citizens; a majority in favor of the regulation of the erection of electric poles, wires, etc.; a majority establishing a contract system, a State banking system, and a printing plant.

At what age does one become "old"? Five centuries ago a man was old at fifty. But the hale and hearty gentleman of to-day who has just turned sixty would probably protest against being classed among old people, even if famous. That his susceptibilities may not be wounded, therefore, a separating dash has been discreetly introduced after age sixty-five.

THE DIXIE HIGHWAY.

The Dixie Highway, the most pretentious of the national road movements developed during the year 1915, was officially launched at the conference of Governors of the States interested called to meet at Chattanooga, Tenn., April 3, 1915, by Governor Samuel Ralston, of Indiana. The system of highways, as designated by two commissioners, each appointed by the Governors of the States of Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee, Georgia and Florida, consists of two divisions and one loop each in the States of Michigan and Florida, with connecting links. The western division starts at Chicago, and is routed through the cities of Danville, Ill.; Indianapolis, Ind.; Louisville, Ky.; Nashville and Chattanooga, Tenn.; Rome, Atlanta and Macon, Ga.; Tallahassee, Kissimee, Bartow and Jupiter, Fla., where it connects with the eastern division. Indianapolis, Ind., is connected with a loop around the State of Michigan at South Bend, Ind. Joining the eastern end of the Michigan loop, which follows Lake Huron to Detroit, the eastern division of the highway is routed through the cities of Monroe, Mich.; Toledo, Dayton and Cincinnati, Ohio; Lexington, Ky.; Cumberland Gap and Knoxville, Tenn., to Chattanooga; thence to Atlanta, Ga.; via Dalton; thence to Macon, via McDonough; thence to Jacksonville, Fla., via Fitzgerald and Waycross, Ga., and along the east coast of Florida to Miami. A connecting link from Indianaplis on the western division to Dayton, Ohio, on the eastern division, and from Tallahassee, Fla., on the western division to Jacksonville, Fla., on the eastern division has also been designated.

The Dixie Highway has a total mileage of 4,206. In the eight States it traverses 163 counties. It will serve a territory with a population of almost forty million. There are over eight hundred thousand automobile owners in this territory, from which the Dixie Highway can reasonably expect to attract tourists.

That remarkable progress has been made in the short history of the movement may be gleaned from the reports received from fifty counties, from which a conservative estimate was compiled which shows that approximately five million dollars has been expended in the past six months and that preparations have been made to expend during 1916 almost twenty million dollars. Starting with a highway, a large part of which consisted of bad country roads, the progress has been so rapid that there are only two serious barriers to through travel at the beginning of 1916. These barriers consist of about seventy miles of road yet to be constructed on the eastern division between Cincinnati, Ohio and Knoxville, Tenn., in the mountain counties of Kentucky, and about eighty miles of mountain road in Tennessee on the western division between Nashville and Chattanooga. Ample financial preparations have been made to have these sections of the highway completed by Fall of 1916.

Entire sections of the Dixie Highway are planning paved roads for their entire stretch. Notable among these are the sections of the highway between Chicago and Danville, Ill.; Toledo and Cincinnati, Ohio; Jacksonville and Miami, Fla., and from Tallahassee to Bartow, Fla.

The headquarters of the Dixie Highway Association are located at Chattanooga, Tenn. The officers are Judge M. M. Allison, President; C. H. Huston, First Vice-President; W. R. Long, Secretary and Treasurer; W. S. Gilbreath, Field Secretary, and V. D. L. Robinson, Assistant Secretary. The Executive Committee is composed of President Allison, Secretary Long, Richard Hardy, Chattanooga; Clark Howell, editor Atlanta Constitution, Atlanta, Ga., and Carl G. Fisher, Indianapolis, founder of both the Lincoln and Dixie Highway movements.

The State commissioners appointed by the Governors of the various States, who are also directors and officers of the association, are as follows: Michigan, Vice-President P. T. Colgrove, Hastings, President Michigan Good Roads Association, and Frank Hamilton, Traverse City, Vice-President of the West Michigan Pike Association, appointed by Governor Ferris; Illinois, Vice-President Richard J. Finnegan, Chicago, city editor of the Chicago Journal, and W. W. Marr, Springfield, Chief State Highway Engineer of Illinois, appointed by Governor Dunne; Indiana, Vice-President Thomas J. Taggert, French Lick, and Carl G. Fisher, Indianapolis, appointed by Governor Raulston; Ohio, Vice-President Harry L. Gordon, Cincinnati, former Lieutenant-Governor, and Col. George W. Harris, Cincinnati, Sinking Fund Trustee for Queen and Crescent Route; Kentucky, Vice-President H. B. Hanger, Richmond, President contracting firm of Mason, Hanger & Co., and Claud B. Mercer, Hardinsburg, lawyer and capitalist, appointed by Governor Rye; Georgia, Vice-President W. T. Anderson, Macon, editor Macon Telegraph, and Clark Howell, Atlanta, editor Atlanta Constitution, appointed by Governor Slaton; Florida, Vice-President George W. Saxon, Tallahassee, banker and capitalist, and S. A. Belcher, Miami, Chairman Dade County Road Commission and originator of Belcher system of road construction, appointed by Governor Trammell

The other directors, named by founders who subscribed $1,000 each, are as follows: Vice-President C. H. Huston, Chattanooga, manufacturer and capitalist; T. R. Preston, Chattanooga, President of the Hamilton National Bank; M. E. Temple, Chattanooga, furniture manufacturer; John A. Patten, Chattanooga, President Chattanooga Medicine Company; Richard Hardy, Chattanooga, manufacturer; Secretary W. R. Long, Chattanooga, manufacturer and capitalist, and A. F. In addition to these foreign exhibits the exposition has many American commercial displays, as well as participation by many of the Western States and counties. The United States Government will also have a comprehensive exhibit. The Panama-California Exposition closed December 31, 1915, and the Panama-California International Exposition, which will be held during 1916, has taken up the work right where it was left off December 31. President—G. A. Davidson, San Diego, Cal.

PANAMA-PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION.

The Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco was open from February 20 to December 4, 1915. The total attendance was 18,871,957. The last day made the record, 458,558 persons having passed through the turnstiles. The Fine Arts Palace will remain open until May 1, 1916.

INTEREST PAID BY FARMERS ON LOANS.

In March, 1913, the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Agriculture mailed nearly 3,000 letters to country banks of the United States, containing the following request and explanation:

This bureau proposes to make an inquiry each year concerning the average rate of interest paid by farmers on loans, the reports to be compiled into averages by States, and so published in the Crop Reporter, a publication of this department. The purpose of the inquiry is to show the average differences which prevail in the different States, and, as the inquiry proceeds, to show the change in the average rates from year to year. It is hoped that you will assist us by reporting for your community.

Question 1. What is the average of the current rates of interest paid to banks by farmers for 3 to 6 months' loans. (Rate which will represent as nearly as possible the average of all such loans, secured and unsecured.)

Question 2. What was the average for similar loans a year ago?

About 90 per cent. of the banks replied. Their replies were tabulated and averaged, with the following results:

NEW YORK STATE PROPORTIONAL REPRESENTATION LEAGUE.

Its purpose is to have every party or group of voters represented in every lawmaking body in exact proportion to the number of votes they cast, thus assuring, what is not possible under our present method, that legislative bodies will be practically a condensation of the whole voting population. For example: If five parties, or temporary groups, had 30 per cent., 25 per cent., 20 per cent., 15 per cent., and 10 per cent. respectively of the total vote cast for members of a legislative body, each would have exactly the same percentage of the members of such assemblage.

The league states there are several ways by which the above result can be accomplished with the secret ballot now universally used. Practically every method provides that each party or group shall elect as many representatives as they have quotas of votes; a quota being found by dividing the whole number of votes cast for all candidates by the number of legislators, preferably seven or more, to be chosen in each district. Each voter may vote for but one candidate. The difference between the several methods applies only to the rule for transferring surplus and other non-effective votes received by a candidate. The league does not advocate any particular method.

TREASURERS OF THE UNITED STATES.

CONTINENTAL TREASURER—The germ of the Treasury Department was planted when, on July 29, 1775, the Continental Congress appointed two Treasurers. The appointments were Michael Hillegas and George Clymer. The latter soon resigned to accept his seat as delegate to the Congress. Mr. Hillegas discharged the duties of Treasurer until September 11, 1789. The Treasury Department was organized under the act of September 2, 1789. Strictly speaking, it was reorganized, for the department, under various names, had been in existence since 1775. The Constitution went into effect March 4, 1789. Washington was inaugurated as the first President of the United States April 30, 1789. It will thus be seen that Mr. Hillegas was Treasurer for nearly five months after the inauguration of Washington, and for nine days after the Treasury Department was organized under the Constitution.

FEDERAL IMPEACHMENTS IN HISTORY.

THE Constitution of the United States, Article II., Section IV., provides that civil officers of the United States may be removed from office on impeachment and conviction of treason, bribery or other high crimes and misdemeanors; that the House of Representatives has the sole power of impeachment, and the Senate the sole power to try impeachments; that the Vice-President shall preside at impeachments except when the President is tried, when the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court shall preside; and that two-thirds of the members present must vote for conviction before a person impeached shall be deemed guilty. Only nine persons have been impeached and tried before the Senate, and only three of them have been convicted. The record is as follows:

William Blount, Senator from Tennessee; impeached July 7, 1797, for conspiring to wage war with Spain in favor of Great Britain, to excite the Cherokee Indians against Spain, and to create disaffection among the Indians toward the United States; trial, December 17, 1798, to January 14, 1799; vote, 11 guilty, 14 not guilty; verdict, acquittal.

John Pickering, Judge of the District Court of the United States for the District of New Hampshire; impeached 1803 for drunkenness and disregard of the terms of the statutes; trial, March 3 to March 12, 1803; vote, 19 guilty, 7 not guilty; verdict, guilty; punishment, removal from office.

Samuel Chase, Associate-Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States; impeached 1804 for misconduct at trials of persons charged with breach of the Sedition Law; trial, November 30, 1804, to March 1, 1805; vote, 9 guilty, 30 not guilty, and 15 guilty, 19 not guilty, on different counts; verdict, acquittal.

James Peck, Judge of the District Court of the United States for the District of Missouri; impeached for tyrannous treatment of counsel, 1830; trial, May 11 to May 30, 1830, and from December 13, 1830, to January 31, 1831; vote, 21 guilty, 22 not guilty; verdict, acquittal.

West H. Humphreys, Judge of the District Court of the United States for the District of Tennessee; impeached 1862 for supporting the secession movement and unlawfully acting as Judge of the Confederate District Court; trial May 22 to June 26, 1862; vote, 32 guilty, 4 not guilty, and 38 guilty; verdict, guilty; punishment, removal from office.

Andrew Johnson, President of the United States; impeached for usurpation of the law, corrupt use of the veto power, interference at elections and high crimes and misdemeanors; trial, March 30 to May 26, 1868; vote, 35 guilty, 19 not guilty; verdict, acquittal.

William W. Belknap, Secretary of War of the United States; impeached for accepting bribes; trial, April 5 to August 1, 1876; vote, 5 guilty, 25 not guilty; verdict, acquittal.

Charles Swayne, Judge of the District Court of the United States for the District of Florida; impeached 1905 for misconduct in office; trial, February 6 to February 27, 1905; vote, 55 guilty, 37 not guilty; verdict, acquittal.

Robert W. Archbald, Associate Judge of United States Commerce Court, was impeached July 11, 1912, on thirteen articles charging him with corrupt collusion with coal mine owners and railroad officials while in office. The Senate began his trial December 3, 1912, and ended January 13, 1913. Verdict guilty; removed from office.

On June 12, 1914, District Judge Alston G. Dayton was impeached. Proceedings dropped March 3, 1915.

* With suburbs, † Estimated. ‡ American Consular report.

(a) New York City, including all boroughs, on Dec. 2, 1915, according to census of Police Department of New York City. According to New York State Census of 1915 the population was 5,006,484, making the estimated population of Greater New York, including Westchester and New Jersey suburbs, 7,500,000. (b) Population of Registration London in 1911 was 4,522,964, and with metropolitan and city police districts, 7,252,963. (c) Population of some cities shown in this list has been, temporarily at least, materially affected by the war in Europe. (d) Population figures of Japanese cities subject to later revision when obtainable.

NOTE—The population of Chinese cities other than those mentioned in this list is omitted, because reports respecting it are untrustworthy. There are many Chinese cities omitted from this list whose inhabitants are numbered by rumor at from 200,000 to 1,000,000, but there is reason to believe that the estimates in many instances covered districts of country bearing the same names as the cities, instead of definite municipalities.

The figures on the foreign-born population of the United States make no distinction as to the length of residence in this country; they include those who have been here fifty years or more as well as immigrants who arrived during the first three months of 1910, just before the census was taken. The increase in the number of foreign born from year to year does not represent necessarily the number of immigrants who come to the United States. The foreign born are constantly being drawn upon by return migration and by death, and immigration must make up for these losses before there can be any increase in the total number.

The figures given above relate only to conditions as shown by the reports of the last Federal Census, taken as of April 15, 1910, and no cognizance is taken of the large body of immigrants who have come to this country since that date.

NATIVE LANGUAGE OF THE FOREIGN WHITE STOCK IN THE UNITED STATES.

The Census Bureau on December 2, 1913, published the following table showing the mother tongues of the foreign-born population and natives of foreign-born parents in the United States, according to the Census of 1910.

The full list of mother tongues as reported at the Thirteenth Census is given for the total foreign white stock (which includes the foreign born and natives of foreign or mixed parentage) and for the foreign-born whites separately, as follows:

NOTE—NEW YORK STATE ENUMERATION:

The Secretary of State of New York in 1915 made an enumeration of the population of the State. Primarily this enumeration was for the purpose of supplying census facts to the Constitutional Convention then in progress. As soon therefore as the enumeration was completed the statistics were submitted to the convention. It was known, however, that owing to the haste with which the figures were compiled there were errors of a minor nature in them which should be corrected before the Legislature of 1916 met, which would have the duty of reapportioning the Senate and Assembly Districts on the basis of these very figures.

This work of a careful re-examination and correction of the figures of the enumerators and compiling of final results has been in progress at the Enumeration Bureau of the Secretary of State in Albany for months past, and was still being pushed when this edition of the ALMANAC went to press, on December 15, 1915. Some of the cities, notably the city of New York, was not yet complete—the final figures for New York and its boroughs, it was stated, would not be in their final form much, if at all, before the Legislature met in January, 1915.

In the mean time the Police Department of New York City has made a census. Upon December 2, 1915, the result of this census was stated to be as follows: Manhattan, 2,295,761; Brooklyn, 1,825,534; Bronx, 649,726; Richmond, 93,631; Queens, 389,233. Total, 5,253,885.

Contrasted with the announced result of the State enumeration made in June and July (figures which are still under correction, as stated above), the result was as follows:

Manhattan—Police census, 2,295,761; State, 2,103,206.

Brooklyn—Police census, 1,825,534; State, 1,803,191.

Bronx—Police census, 649,726; State, 612,493.
Richmond—Police census, 93,631; State, 94,571.

CITIES UNDER COMMISSION FORM OF GOVERNMENT.

(From a Report of the Census Bureau of June 12, 1914.)

Washington, D. C., was the first city in the United States to be governed for any number of years by a commission, coming under that form of government by the terms of an act of Congress that became effective June 11, 1878. The application of this form of government to the Capital of the United States grew out of the relation of the National Government to this particular city, and the city of Washington was not considered as an example to other municipalities with reference to its form of government.

The great need of improvement in sanitary conditions of Memphis, Tenn., following a severe visitation of yellow fever in 1878, combined with the fact that at the time the city had incurred an indebtedness equal to its authority for borrowing money, led the Legislature of Tennessee in 1879 to put an end to the existence of the city as a municipal corporation and to create in its stead a taxing district whose affairs were conducted by a small body of officers having practically the authority of the Commissioners in the cities under the new or commission form of government. After the recovery of the city from the difficulties which made this form of government necessary, Memphis was reincorporated as a city, with its earlier form of government, and its experience was not deemed such as to encourage the substitution of this form of government for that of Mayor and council.

A destructive storm having overwhelmed Galveston, Tex., on September 1, 1900, and left the city prostrate financially, as Memphis had been in 1878, Galveston was placed under a government by a commission in 1901. The experience of Galveston under this form of government was such that in 1905 it was adopted by Houston, Tex. Two other cities, having 30,000 inhabitants, adopted it in 1907, two in 1908, eight in 1909, six in 1910, fifteen in 1911, nine in 1912, twenty-one in 1913, and three in 1914.

THE CITY MANAGER PLAN.

An act of the Ohio Legislature, approved May 6, 1913, provided for a form of municipal government to be known as the "City Manager plan," the council to consist of five members in cities of less than 10,000 inhabitants, of seven members in cities of from 10,000 to 25,000 inhabitants, and of nine members in cities having over 25,000 inhabitants, the council being elected in all cases for a term of four years. This council is to constitute a governing body with power to pass ordinances, adopt regulations, appoint a chief administrative officer to be known as the "City Manager," fix his salary, approve all appointments made by him (except as otherwise provided), and appoint a Civil Service Commission and all boards or commissions created by ordinances.

MAYORS OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK.

Before the Revolution the Mayor was appointed by the Governor of the Province; and from 1784 to 1820 by the Appointing Board of the State of New York, of which the Governor was the chief member. From 1820 to the amendment of the Charter, in 1830, the Mayor was appointed by the Common Council. In 1898 the term of the first Mayor of Greater New York (Van Wyck) began.

THE REJECTED CONSTITUTION OF NEW YORK.

The voters of New York State at the general election of 1915 rejected a Constitution submitted to them by the Constitutional Convention of that year. Below are given the chief amendments to the present Constitution suggested:

Article I., Section 6. That no person shall be held to answer for a capital or otherwise infamous crime unless on presentment or indictment of a grand jury—except in cases of impeachment and in cases of militia when in actual service and the land and naval forces in time of war. This, however, was qualified by the statement that any person might waive indictment and trial by jury on a charge of felony punishable by not exceeding five years' imprisonment or of an indictable misdemeanor. Lastly, in any court the party accused in any criminal case should have the right to at least one appeal.

Article I., Section 7. Providing that when private property is taken for any public use the compensation to be made for it shall be ascertained by the Supreme Court or by one or more Supreme Court Commissions or within the Third and Fourth Judicial Departments and such part of the Second Judicial Department not within the city of New York by not less than three Commissioners appointed by a court of record. Also that where the proceedings are instituted by a civil division of the State compensation must be made before the property is taken, unless the Supreme Court, after hearing, because of public necessity, should otherwise direct. Finally, that the owners of swamp lands might construct dikes upon the lands of others to drain their lands, and that the Legislature might also authorize cities, in order to establish a uniform system of streets, to take real property within an abandoned street or highway and to sell and lease it.

Article I., Section 15. Abolished peacemakers' courts of the Tonawanda nation, the peacemakers' courts and surrogates' courts of the Seneca nation and all other agencies of the Indian tribes and nations in so far as they exercise judicial functions; and applied the general laws of the State to all Indians within the State.

Article I., Section 16. Continuing in force Colonial or State laws not repealed or altered.

Article I., Section 19. Declares that nothing contained in the Constitution should be construed to limit the power of the Legislature to enact laws for the payment either by employers, or by employers and employees, or otherwise, either directly or through a State or other system of insurance, or otherwise, of compensation for injuries to or occupational diseases of employees, or for death of employees resulting from such injuries or diseases without regard to fault as cause thereof.

Article II., Section 4. Provided that laws should be made for the regulation of elections and for ascertaining the electors who should be entitled to the right of suffrage and for their annual registration, which should be completed at least fifteen days before each general election; and declaring that in cities and villages having 5,000 inhabitants or more, according to the last preceding Federal or State census or enumeration, electors shall be registered upon personal application. Laws were authorized permitting travelling men to register five months in advance of the day of election.

Article II., Section 6. Provided for the equal representation of the two great political parties on boards charged with the duty of registering "electors" or of distributing ballots at the polls to electors.

Article III., Section 3. Declares that "the State shall be divided into fifty districts, to be called Senate districts, each of which shall choose one Senator.

Article III., Section 4. Provided that the Senate districts should be altered in 1916 upon the enumeration made in 1915. It was also provided that no county should have more than one-third of all the Senators, and no two counties or the territory thereof as organized on January 1, 1895, "which are adjoining counties or which are separated only by public waters (as, for instance, New York and Kings Counties) should have more than one-half of all the Senators." The provision was retained by which an enlargement of the Senate might be made, namely: "The ratio for apportioning Senators shall always be obtained by dividing the number of inhabitants, excluding aliens, by fifty, and the Senate shall always be composed of fifty members, except that if any county having three or more Senators at the time of any apportionment shall be entitled on such ratio to an additional Senator or Senators, such additional Senator or Senators shall be given to such county in addition to the fifty Senators and the whole number of Senators shall be increased to that extent."

Article III., Section 5. Provided for the apportionment of Assemblymen by the Legislature of 1916 and that the apportionment should be based upon the enumeration of 1915. The provision that every county in the State except the county of Hamilton should be entitled at least to one member was retained. It was also provided that each county should be divided up into Assembly districts by the various Boards of Supervisors or by the Board of Aldermen, basing such a division of districts upon the last preceding State, or if no State enumeration shall have been taken within a period of five years prior to such apportionment, then according to the preceding Federal census.

The proposed Constitution at this point omitted a present provision that no member of the Legislature should receive any civil appointment within the State or the Senate of the United States from the Governor, the Governor and Senate, or from the Legislature, or from any city government, during the time for which he shall have been elected.

Article III., Section 8. Increased to $2,500 the annual salary of each member of the Legislature and also provided that the members of each house should "also receive the railroad fare actually paid in going to and returning from their place of meeting on the most usual route, but not oftener than once each week during any session of the Legislature."

Article III., Section 9. Provided that a majority of the members elected to each house should constitute a quorum to do business; and that if the Lieutenant-Governor become Governor the temporary President of the Senate should become Lieutenant-Governor for the remainder of the term; and that if the Speaker of the Assembly should be unable to perform the duties of the office or be Acting Governor the Assembly might choose a temporary Speaker.

Article III., Section 10. Authorizing the Legislature to convene on its own motion to take action in the matter of removal of a Judge of the Court of Appeals or Justice of the Supreme Court; and, secondly, that the Assembly of its own motion might convene for the purposes of impeachment.

Article III., Section 11. Omitted a provision of the present Constitution making ineligible for election to the Legislature any man who at the time of his election or within 100 days previous thereto has been a member of Congress, a civil or military officer under the United States or an officer under any city government.

Article III., Section 12. Providing for the publication of the proceedings of the Legislature from day to day.

Article III., Section 16. Omitting a provision of the present Constitution authorizing a Governor or Acting Governor to certify to the necessity of the immediate passage of a bill by the Legislature.

Article III., Section 19. Declaring that the Legislature shall not pass a private or local bill granting to any corporation, association or individual the right to prove a claim against the State or against any civil division thereof; or a bill authorizing any civil division of the State to allow or pay any claim or account.

Article III., Section 21. Declaring that no public moneys or property shall be appropriated for the construction or improvement of any building, bridge, highway, dike, canal feeder, waterway or other work until plans and estimates of the cost of such work shall have been filed with the Secretary of State by the Superintendent of Public Works, together with a certificate by him as to whether or not in his judgment the general interests of the State there require that such improvement be made at State expense. This provision was not to apply to grade-crossing appropriations or to highway appropriations.

Article III., Section 22. Provided that no money should ever be paid out of the State Treasury except in pursuance of an appropriation by law; nor unless such payment be made "not later than three months after the close of the fiscal year next succeeding that in which such appropriation was made."

Article III., Section 25. Authorizing the Legislature by general laws to establish different forms of government for counties not wholly included in a city—when such form of government shall have been approved by its electors. This section also contained the following new provision: "No local or special law relating to a county or counties, except to a county or counties wholly included within a city, shall be enacted except upon request by resolution of the governing body of the county or counties to be affected."

Article III., Section 26. The Legislature was authorized to confer upon any elective or appointive county officer or officers any of the powers and duties now exercised by the towns of any county or the officer or officers thereof relating to highways, public safety and the care of the poor.

Article III., Section 27. Making unlawful to grant any extra compensation to any public officer.

Article III., Section 28. Declaring that no person imprisoned in a State prison, penitentiary, jail or reformatory should be allowed to work at any trade wherein his work should be sold to any person.

Article III., Section 29. Added a new provision as follows: "The Legislature shall have the power to regulate or prohibit manufacturing in tenement houses."

Article IV. "Increasing from $10,000 annually to $20,000 annually the salary of the Governor who will be next elected and who will enter upon his administration on January 1, 1917.

Article IV., Section 6. Declaring that if the office of Governor be vacant the Lieutenant-Governor shall become Governor, and that if the Governor be under impeachment or be unable to discharge the powers and duties of the office or be absent from the State the Lieutenant-Governor shall act as Governor during such inability, absence or the pendency of such impeachment.

Article IV., Section 7. Providing that if the office of Governor be vacant and there be no Lieutenant-Governor, the vacancy shall be filled for the remainder of the term at the next general election happening not less than three months after the vacancy occurs; and in the interval the duties of Governor be executed by the temporary President of the Senate, or, if there should be none, by the Speaker of the Assembly, either of these officers to become Governor "until the first day of the political year next succeeding the election at which the office of Governor shall be filled." Secondly, that if the office of Governor should be vacant and the Lieutenant-Governor be under impeachment or unable to discharge the powers and duties of the office of Governor or be absent from the State the temporary President of the Senate should act as Governor during such inability, absence or the pendency of such impeachment. Lastly, that if the temporary President of the Senate should be unable to discharge the powers and duties of the office of Governor or be absent from the State the Speaker of the Assembly should act as Governor during such inability or absence.

Article V., Section 1. This provided for the preparation of a State budget by the Governor. The head of each department of the State Government, except the Legislature and the Judiciary, was to submit to him itemized estimates of their needs for the approaching fiscal year. The Governor was to revise these estimates according to his judgment and submit to the Legislature, on or before the first day of February next succeeding, "a budget containing a complete plan of proposed expenditures and estimated revenues." Itemized estimates of the financial needs of the Legislature and of the Judiciary were to be included in the budget without revision, but with such recommendations as he might think proper. The Legislature might not alter an appropriation bill submitted by the Governor except to strike out or reduce items therein; but this provision did not apply to items for the Legislature or the Judiciary. It was further provided that neither house of the Legislature should consider further appropriations until the appropriation bills proposed by the Governor should have been finally acted on by both houses; nor should such further appropriations be then made except by separate bills, each for a single work or object, which bills should be subject to the Governor's approval.

Article VI., Section —. Divided the civil departments into seventeen in number: law, finance, accounts, treasury, taxation, State, public works, health, agriculture, charities and correction, banking, insurance, labor and industry, education, public utilities, conservation and civil service; with as their heads the Attorney-General, the Comptroller, a Commissioner of Accounts, a Treasurer, a State Tax Commissioner, a Secretary of State, a Superintendent of Public Works, a Commissioner of Health, a Commissioner of Agriculture, a Secretary of Charities and Correction, a Superintendent of Banks, a Superintendent of Insurance, an Industrial Commission or Commissioner, the University of the State of New York, Public Works Commissioners, a Conservation Commissioner and a Civil Service Commissioner. This section also provided for the election at a general State election of an Attorney-General and a Comptroller, and the appointment by the Governor, by and with the consent of the Senate, of an Industrial Commission or Commissioner, Public Service Commissioners and three Civil Service Commissioners.

Article VI., Section 4. It provided that the Governor should appoint the heads of all departments, unless otherwise provided in the Constitution, and might be removed by him in his discretion.

Article VI., Section 5. Provided that the Attorney-General and the Comptroller might be removed from office by impeachment.

Article VI., Section 6. Provided that all appointed heads of departments should be subject to impeachment or they might be removed by the Senate by a vote of two-thirds of all its members.

Article VI., Section 7. Constituting as the Canal Board the Commissioners of the Land Office and the Commissioners of the Canal Fund the following officials: Lieutenant-Governor, Speaker of the Assembly, Secretary of State, Attorney-General, Comptroller, Treasurer and Superintendent of Public Works.

Article VI., Section 8. Declaring that the article should not apply to military or naval affairs, nor to property from time to time devoted to military or naval purposes.

The article abolished the office of State Engineer and Surveyor.

Article VII., Section 1. Provided for the creation of a Department of Conservation, to consist of nine members, "to serve without compensation and to be appointed by the Governor by and with the advice and consent of the Senate for terms" to expire in nine successive years, the first ending on January 1, 1917, and their successors to be appointed for terms of nine years. One Commissioner was to reside in each judicial district.

Article VII., Section 2. Authorized the Conservation Department to reforest lands in the Forest Preserve and to construct fire trails therefrom for purposes of reforestration and fire protection solely.

Article VII., Section 4. Authorized the Legislature to authorize the use by the city of New York for its municipal water supply of lands now belonging to the State located in the towns of Hurley and Shandaken, in Ulster County, and in the town of Lexington, in the county of Greene, after paying just compensation.

Article VII., Section 5. Directing the Legislature to make provision annually for the purchase of real property within the Adirondack and Catskill parks, the reforestation of lands and the making of boundary and valuation surveys.

Article VIII., Section 1. Providing for the election of three additional Justices of the Supreme Court to take the places of those transferred to the Court of Appeals, of two additional Justices of the same court in the First Judicial District, together with such additional Justices as might be authorized by the Legislature.

Article VIII., Section 2. Providing that the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in the First Department should consist of not less than ten nor more than twelve Justices of the Supreme Court, and the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, Second Department, should have seven members; and that the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, First Department, might sit in two parts. Secondly, it was provided in this section that the other Justices of the Appellate Divisions of the Supreme Court should be designated from all the Justices elected to the Supreme Court. It was also provided that in case of the absence or inability to act of a Justice of any Appellate Division of the Supreme Court the Presiding Justice thereof might assign any of the Justices of the Supreme Court to sit in the Appellate Division during such absence or inability, but no Justice so designated should sit longer than four months in any year. It was further provided that whenever an Appellate Division became unable to dispose of its business within a reasonable time a majority of the Presiding Justices of the several departments might transfer such number of the pending appeals from the department affected to any other department for hearing and determination. Lastly, it was provided that on appeals from judgments of conviction in criminal cases the Appellate Division, or the Appellate Term, as the case might be, might reduce the sentence imposed by the trial court or Judge.

Article VIII., Section 3. Providing that there should be an Appellate Term of the Supreme Court in the First and in the Second Department consisting of not less than three nor more than five Justices of the Supreme Court; and that this Appellate Term should hear all appeals from judgments and orders in civil cases made by county courts within such departments and all appeals from judgments and orders made by the City Court of the city of New York, the Municipal Court of the city of New York and the Court of Special Sessions of the city of New York and by all other inferior courts, except courts held by Justices of the Peace, City Magistrates' Courts and Courts of Special Sessions held by one City Magistrate only.

Article VIII., Section 6. Making it the duty of the Legislature to act with all convenient speed upon the report of the Board of Statutory Consolidation transmitted to the Legislature on April 21, 1915, and to enact a brief and simple civil practice act and to adopt a separate body of civil practice rules for the regulation of procedure in the Court of Appeals, the Supreme Court and county courts. Secondly, at intervals of not less than five years the Legislature was authorized to appoint a commission to consider and report what changes, if any, there should be in the law and rules governing civil procedure. Further, the Legislature was forbidden to "enact any law prescribing, regulating or changing the civil procedure in the Court of Appeals, Supreme Court or county courts unless the Judges or Justices empowered to make and amend civil practice rules should certify that legislation was necessary. It was lastly stated that after the adoption of the civil practice rules by the Legislature the power to alter and amend such rules and to make, alter and amend civil practice rules should vest and remain in the courts of the State, to be exercised by the Judges of the Court of Appeals and the Justices of the Appellate Divisions of the Supreme Court or by such Judges or Justices of the Court of Appeals, the Supreme Court and the county courts as the Legislature might provide.

Article VIII., Section 7. Continued the Court of Claims and made it a court of record.

Article VIII., Section 8. Authorizing the Appellate Divisions of the Supreme Court in the First and Second Departments to appoint Supreme Court Commissioners for each of the counties within the city of New York to determine the compensation to be paid whenever private property is taken for a public use when such compesation is not made by the State. These Commissioners might also be designated as referees and perform such other duties as might be devolved upon them by special order or rule of court by the Appellate Divisions or by the civil practice rules. The Legislature was also authorized to permit of the appointment of Supreme Court Commissioners in the Third and Fourth Judicial Departments and in the counties in the Second Department not within the city of New York. These Commissioners were not to practice as attorneys or counsellors in any court of this State or of the United States.

Article VIII., Section 9. Provided that the three Supreme Court Judges now serving as Associate Judges of the Court of Appeals by designation of the Governor should be Associate Judges until their terms as Supreme Court Judges expired; and that in case of the temporary absence or inability to act of any Judge of the Court of Appeals the court might designate any Justice of the Supreme Court to serve as Associate Judge of the Court of Appeals during such absence or inability to act, but for a period not exceeding four months in any year. Further it was provided that for the purpose of disposing with reasonable speed of the accumulation of causes now pending in the Court of Appeals the Court should on or before March 1, 1916, designate not less than four nor more than six Justices of the Supreme Court to serve as Associate Judges of the Court of Appeals until the causes pending on the calendar should be reduced to one hundred, but not later than December 31, 1917, when they should return to the Supreme Court. During such period the Court of Appeals should sit in two parts, each of which should consist of not more than seven Judges. Whenever also on January 1 later of any year after the present accumulation of causes had been disposed of there should be more than 500 causes pending and undisposed of, the Court should in like manner add Justices of the Supreme Court to its membership and sit in two parts, "but not later than until the expiration of one year from the date of such designations," when the Justices designated should return to the Supreme Court. It was also provided that the Court of Appeals might designate Justices of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court as Associate Judges of the Court of Appeals, and that in this case the Appellate Division might designate other Justices of the Supreme Court to sit in the Appellate Division during the absence of regularly assigned Justices of such division serving as Associate Judges of the Court of Appeals, "in case the business of the Appellate Division should render such action necessary."

Article VIII., Section 11. Provided that after December 31, 1915, the jurisdiction of the Court of Appeals, "except where the judgment is of death, or where the Appellate Division on reversing or modifying a judgment makes new findings of fact and renders judgment thereon," should be limited to the review of questions of law. It was further provided that appeals might be taken as of right to the Court of Appeals in the following cases only:

"1. Where the judgment is of death.

"2. From a judgment or order entered upon the decision of an Appellate Division of the Supreme Court which finally determines an action or special proceeding where is directly involved the construction of the Constitution of the State or of the United States, or where one or more of the Justices who heard the case dissents from the decision of the court, or where the judgment of the trial court is reversed or modified.

"3. From an order of an Appellate Division of the Supreme Court granting a new trial where the appellant stipulates that upon affirmance judgment absolute shall be rendered against him." The Court of Appeals might also allow an appeal in any case where in its opinion a question of law was involved which ought to be reviewed. The Court of Appeals was authorized to determine the qualifications and prescribe the rules regulating the admission to practice of attorneys and counsellors in the courts of the State.

Article VIII., Section 14. Surrogates were added to the list of Judges who should not hold office after reaching 70 years of age. It was stated that each Justice of the Supreme Court should receive an annual salary of $10,000; those assigned to the Appellate Divisions of the Third and Fourth Departments, $12,000 each; the Justices of the First and Second Departments what they are now receiving, $17,500; and Justices of the Third and Fourth Departments designated for duty in the First or the Second Judicial Departments $20 a day for expenses. Except in the case of the consolidation of the offices of County Judge and Surrogate or to make the compensation of the Judges of the Court of Appeals equal to that of any Justice of the Supreme Court, it was provided that the compensation of a Judge or Justice of any court of record in the State should neither be increased nor decreased during the term of office for which he should be elected or appointed.

Article VIII., Section 15. Declared on the trial of an impeachment against the Governor or Lieutenant-Governor neither the Lieutenant-Governor nor the temporary President of the Senate should act as a member of the court.

Article VIII., Section 16. Abolished the County Judges in the counties of Kings, Queens, Richmond and Bronx and made the Judges of these courts until the end of their terms Judges of the Court of General Sessions.

Article VIII., Section 19. Provided that Justices of the Peace, City Magistrates and all other judicial officers whose election or appointment was not otherwise provided for might be elected in the several cities of the State or in any boroughs contained within a city or within districts created for that purpose or might be appointed by some local authorities of the several cities.

Article VIII., Section 20. Provided that after January 1, 1917, the Court of General Sessions of the City and County of New York should have the same jurisdiction and powers throughout the city of New York as it now possesses within the county of New York. It added to the present court the County Judges of the counties of Kings, Queens, Richmond and Bronx, and created a Court of General Sessions consisting of seven Judges residing in and elected by the electors within the county of New York, five Judges resident in and elected by the electors in the county of Kings, and one Judge resident in and elected by the electors in each of the counties of Queens, Richmond and Bronx.

Article VIII., Section 21. Continued the City Court of the City of New York and provided that it should have the same jurisdiction and power throughout the city of New York as it now possesses within the county of New York and the county of Bronx and original jurisdiction in actions for the recovery of money only in which the complaint demands judgment for a sum not exceeding $3,000. It was also provided that there should be five additional Judges of this court, two to be elected in Kings County and one each in the counties of Bronx, Richmond and Queens.

Article VIII., Section 22. Authorized the Legislature to establish Children's Courts and Courts of Domestic Relations.

Article VIII., Section 25. The Legislature was directed to provide for the speedy publication of civil practice rules and rules of court and the collection, compilation and publication annually of the civil and criminal judicial statistics of the State.

Article VIII., Section 28.—The Legislature was authorized to provide for the appointment of a Commissioner of Jurors in any county; in a county in the First and Second Judicial Districts by the respective Appellate Divisions of the Supreme Court and in a county in the other judicial districts by the Justices of the Supreme Court resident in the judicial district embracing such county.

Article IX., Section 2. Authorized the State to contract debts in anticipation of the receipt of taxes and revenues, direct and indirect, for the purposes and within the amounts of appropriations theretofore made. Bonds or other obligations for the money so borrowed should be issued and should, with the interest thereon, be paid from such taxes and revenues within one year from the date of issue.

Article IX., Section 4. Declared that except debts specified in sections 2 and 3 of the article (to contract debts in anticipation of taxes and revenues, and to repel invasion, suppress insurrection or defend the State in war) all debts contracted by the State after November 2, 1915, "pursuant to an authorization therefor heretofore or hereafter made and each portion of any such debt from time to time so contracted, irrespective of the terms of such authorization, shall be paid in equal annual instalments, the first of which shall be payable not more than one year, and the last of which shall be payable not more than fifty years after such debt or portion thereof shall have been contracted." It was further provided that "if such debt hereafter authorized shall be contracted for a period longer than that of the probable life of the work or object for which the debt is to be contracted, to be determined by general laws, which determination shall be conclusive." Lastly, it was provided that "the Legislature may from time to time alter the rate of interest to be paid upon any State debt which has been or may be authorized pursuant to the provisions of this section or upon any part of such debt; provided, however, that the rate of interest shall not be altered upon any part of such debt or upon any bond or other evidence thereof which has been or shall be created or issued before such alteration."

Article IX., Section 5. Continued the Sinking Funds before contracted for the extinguishment of the principal and payment of the interest of the debts of the State. The additional provision was made, however, that the Comptroller should each year appraise the securities held for investment in each of the Sinking Funds at their fair market value "not exceeding par" and certify to the Legislature the amount of each of such funds and the amounts which, "if thereafter annually contributed to each such fund, would with the fund and with the accumulations thereon and upon the contributions thereto computed at the rate of three per centum per annum produce at the date of maturity the amount of the debt to retire which such fund was created," the Legislature should thereupon appropriate as the contribution to each such fund for such year at least the amount thus certified. The further declaration was made that "if the income of any such fund in any year is more than a sum which if annually added to such fund would with the fund and its accumulations as aforesaid retire the debt at maturity the excess income may be applied to the interest on the debt for which the fund was created;" and that "after any sinking fund shall equal in amount the debt for which it was created no further contribution shall be made thereto except to make good any losses ascertained at the annual appraisals above mentioned and the income thereof shall be applied to the payment of the interest on such debt." It was also stated that any excess in such income not required for the payment of interest might be applied to the general fund of the State. Finally, the Legislature was authorized by general laws to provide means and authority "whereby outstanding bonds of the State, for which sinking funds are provided, may be exchanged at par for cancellation, for serial bonds of the form authorized under Section 4 of this article, upon such terms and conditions as to interest and otherwise as it may in its discretion authorize or determine, except that the debt as thus refunded shall finally mature no later and at no greater comparative cost to the State than the original debt; the determination of the Legislature as to such comparative cost shall be conclusive."

Article IX., Section 6. Provided that the Legislature should annually provide by appropriation for the payment of interest upon and instalments of the principal of all debts created on behalf of the State, except those contracted under Section 2 of the article, as the same should fall due, and for the contribution to all of the sinking funds before created by law of the amounts annually to be contributed under the provisions of Section 5 of the article. If at any time the Legislature should fail to make any such appropriation the Comptroller should set apart from the first revenues thereafter received applicable to the general fund of the State a sum sufficient to pay such interest, instalments of principal or contributions to such sinking fund, as the case might be, and should so apply the moneys thus set apart. The further declaration was made that the Comptroller might be required to set aside and apply such revenues "as aforesaid" at the suit of any holder of such bonds.

Article IX., Section 7. Provided that debts hereafter authorized for the improvement of highways should be created only in the manner provided in Section 4 of the article; and that no provision of the article should be deemed to impair or affect the validity of any debt of the State heretofore contracted or any right or obligation heretofore created between the State and any of its civil divisions.

Article IX., Section 8. Declared that the moneys authorized to be raised by the sale of highway bonds "pursuant to the law approved by vote of the people at the general election held" in 1912, "which have been apportioned to certain counties in excess of the sums to be determined by the Comptroller, which are or will be required to construct and improve the highways heretofore determined by general laws to be constructed and improved in such counties," should be applied by the Superintendent of Public Works after appropriation by the Legislature to the construction and improvement of such State routes and portions thereof as were defined by law when such bonds were authorized and located outside of such counties as might be deemed expedient.

Article IX., Section 10. Forbade the Legislature from selling or leasing the canal terminals or to create any easement in or incumbrance on the canals or their terminals. It was also provided that the abandonment, sale or other disposition of canals or canal property should be under and pursuant to general laws only; and that the leasing of surplus waters of any of the State canals should hereafter be pursuant to general laws. Lastly, that each lease should be for a stated period, not exceeding 30 years.

Article X., Section 1. The declaration was made that the power of taxation should never be surrendered, suspended or contracted away, except as to the securities of the State or a civil division thereof; and that hereafter no exemption from taxation should be granted except by general laws and upon the affirmative vote of two-thirds of all the members elected to each house of the Legislature.

Article X., Section 2. The provision was made that taxes should be imposed by general laws and for public purposes only.

Article X., Section 3. The Legislature was directed to establish tax districts, none of which, unless it should be a city, should embrace more than one county, "for the assessment of real property, heretofore locally assessed." In these districts the assessors should be elected by the electors of such districts or appointed by such authorities as might be designated by law. The Legislature might provide that the assessment roll of each larger district might serve for all the lesser tax districts within its boundaries. No tax district larger than a town should be established until the law providing therefor should have been adopted by a vote of a majority of the electors voting thereon in such proposed district at an election for which provision should be made by law. The Legislature might, however, provide for the assessment by State authorities of all the property of designated classes of public service corporations.

Article XI., Section 11. Making the provisions of the present Constitution relating to the debts that are to be excluded in ascertaining the power of a city to become indebted applicable to the cities of Buffalo and Rochester.

Article XI., Section 12. Declared that the Legislature should provide for the method and limitations under which debts might be contracted by the cities, counties, towns, villages and other civil divisions of the State, to the end that such debts "shall be payable in annual instalments, the last of which shall fall due and be paid within fifty years after such debt shall have been contracted and that no such debt shall be contracted for a period longer than the probable life of the work or object for which the debt is to be contracted."

Article XI., Section 13. Declared that the Legislature should provide for a State Commission in Lunacy in which should "remain the management and fiscal control of the State hospitals for the insane (not including institutions for criminals or convicts) except in so far as such management may now or hereafter be delegated by the Legislature to local boards of managers."

Article XIII., Section 2. Provided that all city, town and village officers whose election or appointment was not provided for by the Constitution should be elected by the electors of such cities, towns and villages, or of some division thereof, or be appointed by such authorities thereof "as shall be provided by law." Secondly, that all other officers whose election or appointment was not provided for by the Constitution and all officers whose offices might hereafter be created by law should be elected by the people or appointed as "may be provided by law."

Article XIV., Section 4. Providing that the Governor should appoint his aides-de-camp and military secretary "and the Adjutant-General of the State" and also that the Legislature might "prescribe the number and qualifications of major-generals and aides-de-camp."

Article XIV., Section 5. Declared that all other commissioned and non-commissioned officers should be chosen or appointed in such manner and should "have such qualifications" as the Legislature might deem most conducive to the improvement of the militia.

Article XV., Section 1. Made it the duty of the Legislature "by general laws" to provide for the organization of "new" cities "in such manner as shall secure to them the exercise of the powers granted to cities in this article." It was also provided that "except as to cities having more than 100,000 population" it should be the duty of the Legislature "to restrict the powers of taxation and assessment so as to prevent abuses in taxation and assessments by any city or incorporated village."

Article XV. Declared that the Legislature might regulate and fix the wages "and except as otherwise provided" in the article "the salaries of persons employed by the State or by any county, city, town, village or other civil division of the State, and might also regulate and fix the hours of work or labor of persons employed by the State or by any county, city, town or village." In an abstract of the Constitution the statement was made that "this section is a part of Section 1 of Article XII. of the present Constitution and modifies it only to the extent of transferring from the Legislature to cities the right to fix the salaries mentioned in the ensuing provisions of the article.

Article XV., Section 3. Provided that every city should have exclusive power to manage, regulate and control its property, affairs and municipal government, subject to the provisions of the Constitution and "subject further to the provisions of the general laws of the State, of laws applying to all the cities of the State without classification or distinction and of laws applying to a county not wholly included within a city establishing or affecting the relation between such a county and a city therein."

This power of the cities should be deemed, the Constitution said, to include among others:

(a) The power to organize and manage all departments and to regulate the powers, duties, qualifications, mode of selection, number, terms of office, compensation and method of removal of all city officers and employees, including all police and health officers and employees paid by the city and of all non-judicial officers and employees attached to courts not of record, and to regulate the compensation of all officers not chosen by the electors and of all employees of counties situated wholly within a city except assistants and employees of District-Attorneys and except officers and employees of courts of record.

(b) "The power to revise or enact amendments to its charter in relation to its property, affairs or municipal government and to enact amendments to any local or special law in relation thereto." Under this sub-division a city was authorized to adopt a revised charter or enact amendments to its charter or any existing special or local law in relation to any matter of State concern the management, regulation and control of which should have been delegated to the city by law, "until and unless the Legislature pursuant to the provisions of Section 4 of this article shall enact a law inconsistent therewith." The term "charter" was declared for the purposes of the article to include any general city law enacted for the cities of one class in so far as it applied to such city.

Under this section it was also provided that the legislative body of a city might enact amendments to its charter, subject to the approval of the Mayor and of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment if any there should be; provided, however, that in a city in which any of the members of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment were not elected or in which no such body existed no such amendment of the charter should be enacted without the assent of two-thirds of all members elected to such legislative body. Every amendment which changed the framework of the government of a city or modified restrictions as to issuing bonds or contracting debts must be submitted to the Legislature in the year 1916 on or before March 15 and in any year thereafter during the first week of its next regular session and should take effect as law 60 days after such submission, unless in the mean time the Legislature has disapproved the same by joint resolution. Every other such amendment should take effect upon its enactment without such submission to the Legislature.

It was also provided that at the general election in 1917, and unless its charter after one revision should otherwise provide, in every eighth year thereafter either at the general or at a special election, every city should submit to the electors the question: "Shall there be a commission to revise the charter of the city?" and might at the same time choose seven Commissioners to revise the city charter if the question should be answered in the affirmative; provided, however, that in the city of New York the number of such Commissioners should be sixteen, nine of whom should be chosen by the electors of the entire city, two by the electors of the borough of Manhattan, two by the electors of the borough of Brooklyn and one each by the electors of the boroughs of the Bronx, Queens and Richmond respectively. Such revision, when completed, should be filed in the office of the City Clerk and not less than 6 weeks after such filing should be submitted to the electors of the city at the next ensuing general election or at a special election to be called for that purpose. If such revision should be approved by a majority of the electors such revision should be submitted to the Legislature during the first week of its session in January of the year following and if not disapproved by the Legislature by joint resolution prior to the first day of July thereafter should thereupon take effect as law except as therein otherwise specified.

Article XV., Section 4. Classified all cities according to the latest Federal or State enumeration. The following declarations were then made: "The Legislature may delegate to cities for exercise within their respective local jurisdictions such of its powers of legislation as to matters of State concern as it may from time to time deem expedient. The Legislature shall pass no law relating to the property, affairs or municipal government of any city excepting such as is applicable to all the cities of the State without classification or distinction. The provisions of this article shall not be deemed to restrict the powers of the Legislature to pass laws regulating matters of State concern as distinguished from matters relating to the property, affairs or municipal government of cities. Laws affecting cities in relation to boundaries, water supply, sewerage and public improvements, involving the use of territory outside the boundaries of cities, and in relation to the government of cities in matters of State concern and applying to less than all the cities of the State without classification or distinction are defined for the purposes of this article as special city laws."

Copies of special city laws, after they were passed by the Legislature, it was provided, were to be sent to the Mayor of the city concerned for approval or disapproval within 15 days; and upon their return to the State Capitol were to be sent to the Governor for his action.

Article XV., Section 5. The present Constitution was amended to provide that all elections of city and county officers in the counties of New York, Kings, "Queens, Richmond and Bronx," except to fill vacancies, should be held on the Tuesday succeeding the first Monday in November in an odd numbered year.

Article XVII., Section —. Provided that any amendment or amendments to the Constitution might be proposed in the Senate and Assembly and if the same should be agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the two houses, "after consideration in joint session, as hereinafter provided and after the same shall have been printed and upon the desks of the members in its final form for at least five calendar legislative days prior to agreement thereon, such proposed amendment or amendments shall be entered on their journals and the yeas and nays taken thereon and referred to the Legislature to be chosen at the next general election of Senators and shall be published for three months previous to the time of making choice. On the first Tuesday following the adoption by either house of the Legislature of any proposed amendment to this Constitution the two houses shall convene in joint session for the consideration thereof and thereafter the proposal shall be considered and acted upon by the houses separately. If the Legislature so next chosen, as aforesaid, such proposed amendment or amendments shall be agreed to by a majority of all the members elected to each house and all the requirements for the original passage thereof shall be observed, then it shall be the duty of the Legislature to submit such proposed amendment or amendments to the people for approval at the general election in such manner as the Legislature shall prescribe, and if the people shall approve and ratify such amendment or amendments by a majority of the electors voting thereon, such amendment or amendments shall become a part of this Constitution from and after the first day of January next after such approval."

Article XVII., Section 2. This section opened with the following declaration: "The question 'Shall there be a convention to revise and amend the Constitution?' shall be submitted to the electors of the State at each general election next ensuing the lapse of twenty successive years since the last previous submission thereof, and shall be submitted at such other general elections as the Legislature may by law provide." It was further provided that "in case a majority of the electors voting thereon shall decide in favor of a convention for such purpose the electors of every Senate district of the State as then organized shall elect three delegates at the next ensuing general election at which members of the Assembly shall be chosen and the electors of the State voting at the same election shall elect fifteen delegates-at-large. The delegates so elected shall convene at the Capitol on the first Tuesday following the completion of the canvass of the votes cast for delegates-at-large at such election and shall continue their session until the business of such convention shall have been completed." It was further provided that any proposed Constitution or Constitutional amendment which should have been adopted by such a convention should be submitted to a vote of the electors of the State at a general election which should be held not less than 90 days after the adjournment of such convention.

Article XVII., Section 3. This provided that the validity of an election upon any amendment or proposed Constitution, or the question "Shall there be a convention to revise and amend the Constitution?" or upon any other question submitted to the electors of the State "and the determination whether the proposed amendment, Constitution or question has received the number of votes requisite for the adoption of such amendment or Constitution or the decision of such question" might be contested in the Supreme Court by any elector in an action in equity "brought within three months after such election against the Secretary of State and the judgment rendered shall be reviewable by the Court of Appeals."

Article XVII., Section 4. The abstract stated that provision was made in this section for embodying in the new Constitution the proposed Woman Suffrage amendment submitted by the Legislature if at the general election it was approved and ratified. Provision was also made, according to the abstract, that if the people should approve the Canal Referendum act, which was submitted to them for approval, the debt so authorized should be paid in equal annual instalments instead of through a sinking fund, as provided by the act. "The purpose of this," it was stated, was "to conform to the new provision of the Constitution herewith submitted requiring serial bonds instead of sinking funds for all future debts of the State."

THE LINCOLN HIGHWAY.

The Lincoln Highway is the longest road in the world. It connects twelve States, and is laid out between New York and San Francisco, as directly as possible, consistent with the topography of the country. Its length is about 3,284 miles, and it is constantly being shortened by improvements and the elimination of curves.

The idea of an ocean-to-ocean highway was presented to the public in the early Fall of 1913, by a National proclamation issued by the Lincoln Highway Association, an organization incorporated with headquarters in Detroit, Mich. The originator of the idea was Carl G. Fisher of Indianapolis, now Vice-President of the Lincoln Highway Association. The object of the association was—

> "The establishment of a continuous improved highway from the Atlantic to the Pacific, open to lawful traffic of all descriptions, without toll charges, and to be of concrete wherever practicable—this highway to be known, in memory of Abraham Lincoln, as the "Lincoln Highway."

National interest has attached to the development of this great thoroughfare, and the effort of the public in the States through which it passes has been devoted to its rapid improvement and marking. In the two years since the establishment and dedication of the route, the road has been marked for practically its entire distance, and construction has progressed as rapidly as possible in every State.

The Lincoln Highway Association was not organized to construct the road, but to promote and aid in its construction by the local communities, counties and States through which it passes. In round figures $3,780,000 have been spent in the improvement of the Lincoln Highway. The eastern section of the great road is almost completely hard-surfaced. The Middle Western States have devoted every effort to the grading and maintenance of the route, and are progressing to hard-surfacing as fast as means will allow. Much work on the road has been done in the West, but it is there, particularly in the States of Utah and Nevada, that outside aid solicited by the association is particularly needed, due to the long mileages and sparse population, which makes the raising of sufficient funds from the regular road improvement sources impossible.

The following table indicates the amount spent on the Lincoln Highway during the eighteen months previous to the first of September, 1915, in each of the States crossed by the highway.

		State Aid.
New Jersey	$259,000	$69,000
Pennsylvania	437,000	240,000
Ohio	889,780	367,000
Indiana	871,000	None
Illinois	331,500	76,000
Iowa	397,000	20,000
Nebraska	192,000	30,000
Wyoming	271,000	5,000
Utah	52,000	13,000
Nevada	80,000	13,600
Total	$3,780,280	$833,600

The efforts of the Lincoln Highway Association are directed toward the procuring of construction along the route, and one of the chief means used to interest the communities in road construction, and educate them to the advisability of hard-surfaced improvement, is the establishment of "seedling miles" of standard Lincoln Highway by the association, it being the theory that if the association provide sufficient cement for the construction of a standard section of concrete Lincoln Highway in every county, the people of the county, through observation and use, would learn of the value of such construction, and that future funds spent on the road would be utilized for further extensions of the hard-surfaced mile. Such "seedling miles" have been built in Indiana, Illinois, and Nebraska, and the association purposes to continue this policy until a standard section has been constructed in every county through which the Lincoln Highway passes, between the Indiana-Ohio line and the Wyoming-Nebraska line.

The development of the Lincoln Highway, and the National interest which has been aroused in it, have been responsible for a tremendous increase in the volume of transcontinental touring. This increase in the flow of through traffic, has amounted to over 300 per cent. in the two years since the Lincoln Highway was announced. The Automobile Club of California estimates that 25,000 cars drove into the State during the touring season of 1915, and advises that the majority of these tourists came over the Lincoln Highway. The officers of the Panama-Pacific Exposition at San Francisco estimates even a greater number.

The Lincoln Highway stands as a foremost example of the most certain economic need of the United States—improved connecting highways, permanent in construction, and leading from a definite point to some other definite point. It was the thought of those men who founded the Lincoln Highway Association that the establishment of the Lincoln Highway would prove a great object lesson to the Nation as a whole, and eventually result in a Nation-wide system of like improved, permanent roads.

No conflicting element has ever entered into the constructing development of the Lincoln Highway and the Nation-wide support which the movement has received, particularly from the press, both daily and periodically, and from the motoring public and the American farmer, indicates that its ultimate success and rapid completion are assured.

THE GREAT WAR

THE WORLD was the first American newspaper—the first newspaper anywhere—to point out the true significance of the great war. On August 5, 1914, the day after England, in defence of Belgium, declared war on Germany, which had already attacked France and Russia, THE WORLD said: "The issue is now joined. Either German autocracy must be crushed or European democracy will be obliterated. There is no middle course. If the forces that the Kaiser has loosed are victorious, the map of European republicanism may as well be rolled up and the American people prepare to make the last grand stand for democracy." That is the fundamental issue of the war. The Kaiser, it is true, dreamed of a World-Empire, just as Alexander the Great and Caesar and Napoleon had dreamed before him; but his triumph would have been more than the triumph of one man or of one nation—it would have been the triumph of a system of government which for a thousand years has been slowly crumbling beneath the pressure of human rights and human liberty. Millions of men are giving their lives to-day to decide whether they and their children are to continue to exist merely as members of a state, or whether they as individuals have certain unalienable rights, of which no Government may deprive them but to secure which all government exists. Those who are resisting the Kaiser's effort to make Germany a World-Empire and impose Prussianism on mankind are fighting to fix the future of all generations yet to come; they are fighting for "a principle of human liberty upon which rests the development of the freedom of the world"; they are fighting for democracy against autocracy.

GROWTH OF PRUSSIAN MILITARISM.

In 1701 Prussia became a kingdom, and the head of the House of Hohenzollern, who had ranked beneath the Electors of Saxony and Bavaria and had been a vassal of the Kings of Poland, was elevated to royal rank. From the first the Kingdom of Prussia was based upon the autocracy of militarism, upon the existence of a sacrosanct caste superior to any other, and upon the subservience of civil to military authority. This was the system of Frederick the Great, who brought his Prussian army to such a state of perfection that he was able to withstand the rest of Europe, and it received further impetus in 1870, when the genius of Bismarck placed the sceptre of the German Empire in the hands of the Kings of Prussia. The Hohenzollerns never emancipated any one, even by accident, and the failure of the German revolution of 1848, one of the great tragedies of the human race, made autocracy and militarism more secure in Prussia than anywhere else. In 1864 Denmark was despoiled of Schleswig-Holstein, giving Germany full control of the Elbe and a large portion of the Baltic coast. Through the territory thus taken from her weaker neighbor the Kiel Canal runs to-day, linking the North Sea and the Baltic, one of the many monuments to German foresight and preparedness. Austria was next attacked, and the supremacy of the Hohenzollerns over the Hapsburgs established, and the latter forced to consent to a reorganization of Germany in which they had no participation. Hanover, Hesse-Cassel and Nassau were annexed to Prussia. Then came the war of 1870 and the foundation of the German Empire, with the Hohenzollerns dominating Central Europe. Alsace and Lorraine were wrested from France, and the Kingdoms of Bavaria and Wuerttemberg and the Grand Duchy of Baden and the southern provinces of the Grand Duchy of Hesse were added to the North German Confederation. From that day all the German States which had survived the struggle of 1866, with the exception of Austria, the tiny Grand Duchy of Luxemburg and the Principality of Lichtenstein, were incorporated as a federated nation under the hereditary leadership of the Kings of Prussia, with the title of German Emperor. In 1870 Belgium narrowly escaped German domination, as only England's threat that she would fight on the side of France if Belgium's neutrality were violated caused Bismarck to hesitate.

GERMANY'S WONDERFUL PROGRESS.

During the next forty-four years—from 1870 to 1914—Germany's material progress was uninterrupted. Centralized authority, organization and scientific management brought about an extraordinary degree of national efficiency. Germany amassed vast wealth, her population increased to 67,000,000, her exports were approaching in volume those of England, she founded a colonial empire, her shipping grew a hundredfold, she built a great navy and organized an army that bewildered and filled with awe all those who saw it. There was no secret about her readiness for war. For forty years her philosophers had preached a doctrine of brute force as the basis of World-Empire, had preconized a policy of preparedness and had inculcated to the youth of the rising generation a belief that Germans were a race of supermen, destined to rule the earth. But the blessings that prolonged peace had brought to the German people were so great that mankind hesitated to believe war possible, and the nations of Europe continued to bear the burdens of armament without realizing that one man had the power to plunge humanity into the greatest of conflicts, to devastate continents and array forty million of his fellow-men in arms to shed each other's blood. Yet after the Balkan wars Germany's martial preparations were intensified; a war tax of staggering proportions had supplied the Kaiser with the gold for his crowning effort, for the realization of his ambition to dominate Europe and achieve World-Empire. Alone, of all the nations of Europe, Germany was ready for war. France had made some effort to keep pace with the preparedness of her ancient foe; Russia had increased her standing army; but, of all the powers, Germany alone had grasped the gigantic scale on which the great war was to be fought and had made ready for it. England was totally unprepared, and but for her grand fleet and her financial power was an almost negligible factor at the outbreak of hostilities. In the light of all the diplomatic documents published, there can be no doubt that Germany was seeking a favorable opportunity to strike, and that her plan was to throw down the gantlet to Russia in the ill-founded hope that France might hesitate before joining in the fight. But in any case her statesmen appeared to be confident that the conflict could be restricted to a struggle for European supremacy in the first place between Germany and her allies on the one side and Russia and France on the other. The result Germany never doubted. After the Kaiser had made himself supreme in Europe and had wrested from France her colonies, Germany would be able to attack England, obtain the mastery of the seas and that World-Dominion which for more than a generation had been the dream of Prussia.

PAN-GERMANISM AND PAN-SLAVISM

When, after decades of jealous bickerings, the little Balkan states had agreed upon a concerted plan of action and had crumpled the Turk, Teuton influences were brought to bear to set them fighting among themselves. For Slavism had profited by the defeat of the Sultan, a thing Germany could not tolerate. In the Near East the influence of the Teuton had grown and that of the Slav had dwindled ever since, in 1908, Austria had annexed Bosnia and Herzegovina, and Russia had failed to take the stand hoped for by the southern Slavs, especially the Serbs, who had seen their national hopes for the reconstitution of ancient Serbia dashed forever by the growth of Pan-Germanism. On the very day before the Treaty of Bucharest was signed—it was August 9, 1913, a year before the war broke out—Austria had confided to Italy that "in common accord with Germany" she was about to deliver to Serbia an ultimatum of substantially the same tenor as that sent in July, 1914. Italy refused to consider such action as "defensive," or to be bound by its results, and she urged Germany to dissuade Austria from "so perilous an adventure." Germany was thus aware that she could not count upon Italian support, and so she pressed with feverish haste the rebuilding of the Kiel Canal and the completion of the strategic railways leading to the Belgian frontier. Jules Cambon, the French Ambassador in Berlin, reported to his Government in November, 1913, a change in the Kaiser's pacific attitude, and King Albert of Belgium was forewarned of the approaching struggle and given a solemn pledge that the neutrality of Belgium would never be violated.

HOW THE WAR BEGAN.

On June 28, 1914, Archduke Franz Ferdinand, heir apparent of Austria-Hungary, was assassinated with his consort, the Duchess of Hohenberg, by Bosnian conspirators at Sarajevo, the capital of Bosnia, where Pan-Slavic feeling ran high. On July 23 the Austro-Hungarian Minister at Belgrade presented to the Serbian Government a drastic ultimatum demanding punishment of the alleged Serbian instigators of the tragedy, and imposing, along with many other humiliating demands the condition that Serbia "accept the collaboration of Austrian officials in the suppression of" the Pan-Serbian movement, and giving her weaker neighbor forty-eight hours in which to comply. It was openly the aim of Austria "in accord with Germany" not only to deprive Serbia of its political independence but also to inflict a check to Russia. From then on events moved rapidly. Serbia, on July 25, gave way to all the Austrian demands, but denied the right of Austria to exercise judicial authority in Serbia. Italy, before the expiration of the ultimatum, made it known that she was not in sympathy with the Austro-Hungarian note to Serbia. At once diplomatic exchanges began between the various powers to avert the war that was impending; but, on July 27, Austria issued a note to the powers stating that Serbia's acquiescence to her demands was unsatisfactory and "filled with the spirit of dishonesty," and on the following day, July 28, Austria declared war on Serbia. Russia at once began to mobilize, and notified the powers that she would not permit the invasion of Serbia. The next day, Sir Edward Grey, British Secretary for Foreign Affairs, sent peace proposals for a Council of Europe to both the Kaiser and the Czar. His action was supported by France and Italy. The Kaiser's reply was a general order of mobilization and an ultimatum, with a twelve-hour limit, to Russia to stop mobilizing. Of France, Germany demanded to be informed of her attitude in case of a Russo-German war. This was on July 30, and on the same day Austria invaded Serbia. On July 31 military law was proclaimed throughout Germany, and Russia ordered a general mobilization. Personal messages were exchanged between the Czar and the Kaiser, to both of whom King George sent appeals for peace, but on August 1 Germany suddenly decided that "the sword had been forced into her hand" and declared war on Russia while Austria was still actually negotiating with the Czar. France at once ordered a general mobilization, and Italy formally declared her neutrality. It was plain that a general war was unavoidable. The Kaiser sent an ultimatum in German to King Albert of Belgium, on August 2, demanding free passage for his armies. The same day German forces crossed the frontiers of Luxemburg and France, and on August 3 Germany declared war on France. On the morning of August 4 the German army invaded Belgium, which had already appealed to England to preserve her neutrality, and the British Ambassador in Berlin demanded the immediate withdrawal of the Kaiser's forces from Belgium, and, unable to obtain satisfaction, England declared war on Germany the same evening, to the unaffected dismay of the German Chancellor, who could not believe that "just for a scrap of paper England was going to make war." At first the conflict assumed the aspect of a Russo-German war, with the allies of each as active participants. Civilization menaced by the Slav peril was the keynote of the early German propaganda.

PRESIDENT WILSON'S MEDIATION OFFER.

President Wilson, on August 5, tendered the friendly mediation of the United States to all the belligerent powers in the following message, which he addressed to the Emperors of Germany, Austria-Hungary and Russia, to the King of England and to the President of the French Republic: "As official head of one of the powers signatory to The Hague Convention, I feel it to be my privilege and my duty, under Article III. of that convention, to say to you in a spirit of earnest friendship that I should welcome an opportunity to act in the interest of European peace either now or at any other time that might be thought more suitable, as an occasion to serve you and all concerned in a way that would afford me lasting cause for gratitude and happiness." But this effort at mediation was unavailing, and the conflagration continued to spread. On August 6 Austria-Hungary declared war on Russia, and three days later Montenegro declared war on Austria-Hungary and Serbia gave the German Minister his passports. France formally declared war on Austria on August 10, followed two days later by Great Britain. Japan, as England's ally, assumed her treaty obligations in the Far East and declared war on Germany on August 23. The war was further extended by the entry of Turkey on the side of the Central Empires, the Sultan's declaration of war against the Czar being made on October 30. On November 5 England in turn declared war against Turkey. Italy maintained her neutrality till May 23, 1915, when overwhelming public sentiment forced the King of Italy to declare war on his former ally, the Emperor of Austria, while retaining a peace status with Germany. She also declared war on Turkey on August 23. Bulgaria threw in her lot with the Kaiser on October 13, 1915, by invading Serbia, after an Austro-German army had taken the heights south of Belgrade.

GERMANY TRIES TO CRUSH FRANCE.

The German plan was to crush France before Russia could mobilize, and then to turn eastward and destroy the Czar's forces. Time was an essential element of this plan. The Franco-German frontier, with the Vosges Mountains and their spurs and the Moselle River, fortified by the Verdun-Toul and the Epinal-Belfort defenses, constituted an almost impregnable barrier, one which in any case could not easily be broken through. Besides, the selected point of concentration for the French mobilization was at Neufchateau, directly opposite the Toul-Epinal gap. But the northern frontier of France lay almost open; it was weakly defended, and only peaceful and industrious Belgium stood in the way. So the Kaiser's forces were gathered for the steam-roller movement across the territory of that little country, the neutrality of which had been solemnly guaranteed by Germany and the other powers, and confirmed by the neutrality clause of The Hague Convention, to which the United States was a party. But King Albert never wavered, and with an army of less than 200,000 men he prepared to resist the onslaught of the greatest and most powerful war machine ever organized. He told his people: "I have faith in our destinies. A nation which defends itself commands the respect of all. Such a nation cannot perish. God will be with us in a just cause. Long live independent Belgium!" That was his reply to the "hack our way through" statement of von Bethmann-Hollweg, who in the Reichstag pleaded the law of necessity for "the wrong that we are committing."

The war actually began on Sunday, August 2, when Germany invaded both Luxemburg and France. At 6 o'clock in the morning German troops from Treves entered the neutral state of Luxemburg, which, under the treaty guaranteeing its neutrality and to which Germany was a party, was not allowed to maintain an army, and could therefore offer no resistance. By noon German cavalry patrols had entered France at Birchambois, near Cirey-sur-Vezouze, and at Long-la-Ville, near Longwy, and a party of uhlans advanced ten kilometres within French territory near Delle, despite the fact that war had not yet been declared. Although the twelve-hour ultimatum sent by Germany to Belgium expired at 7 A. M. on Monday, August 3, the actual invasion of Belgium did not take place till 9 o'clock on Tuesday morning, August 4, when a large force of German troops in automobiles was thrown across the frontier and occupied Vise, just north of Liege. The invasion of Belgium—the first real act of war officially admitted by the German Government—was timed for exactly the hour, 9 A. M., and exactly the day, August the Fourth, on which German forces had crossed the French frontier at Wissenburg in 1870, forty-four years before.

BELGIUM FOILS KAISER'S PLAN.

The first resistance to the Kaiser's forces was offered at Liege, before which place the advance guard of the German army arrived soon after noon on August 4. While this was being held in check the Belgian army set about the wholesale destruction of bridges, culverts, railroads, &c. It was this quick and determined destruction of all means of transportation through Belgium that frustrated the Kaiser's plans, as a rapid advance by rail from Liege to the Charleroi frontier was an essential factor in the crushing blow that Germany aimed to deal at France. In the absence of railways the Teuton forces pressed on by horse and motor transportation and on foot, the Belgian army striving to retard their progress as much as possible without risking a pitched battle with the first line German troops. The Belgian plan was to hold Liege as long as possible, and then to fall back with their right wing resting on Namur, which was on the direct line to Paris. Liege offered a most heroic resistance, but as the Great German army advanced the defending forts were surrounded by a sea of gray-clad soldiers and, although the city itself fell to the invaders on August 6, the main forts held out till the 15th. But the German attack was so sudden and so overwhelming that from the start they made themselves masters of the Meuse, and the Belgian army had to fall back on the Gette. Unwilling to leave the Belgian army undestroyed in their rear, the Germans pressed the attack at Halene, Diest, Tirlemont, Aerschot and Louvain, the last two cities being sacked after a few days of German occupation and their inhabitants massacred by the hundreds on the pretext of their having violated the military regulations of the victors. King Albert was forced to abandon Brussels and was thrown back with his army to Malines and the defences of Antwerp. On August 21 the German army entered Brussels, and the same day their main forces arrived before Namur, which, to the surprise of military experts everywhere, was reduced within forty-eight hours by high explosive shells from the enormous 16-inch howitzers, which no fortifications could withstand and the existence of which Germany had kept a profound secret. From the very start Germany possessed a tremendous superiority over the allies in heavy artillery, as well as in every other kind of equipment, especially machine guns and ammunition. France, however, had the advantage in light field pieces, her 3-inch gun—the famous "soixante quinze"—proving far superior to the German 77mm.

FRENCH INVADE ALSACE-LORRAINE.

As Germany invaded Belgium, France began a counter offensive in Alsace and Lorraine, which, if successful, would have forced the Germans to defend the Rhine and abandon their attack from the north. France seized all the important passes of the Vosges Mountains, and on August 8 a French force, leaving Belfort, entered Alsace from the south and overcame German resistance first at Altkirch and then at Muelhausen, menacing the strong German defences at Neu Breisach, the uppermost of the Rhine forts, and at Colmar, the key to Strassburg from the south. Muelhausen changed hands several times, resting finally on August 25 with the Germans, as Joffre called back every available man to stem the Teuton tide advancing on Paris. The counter offensive in Lorraine was on a larger and more important scale, and on August 19 the Fifteenth French army reached Saarburg, on the main railway line between Metz and Strassburg, and the great Metz-Thionville defence line was threatened. Germany, however, was fully prepared, and on August 20 the Crown Prince of Bavaria, at the head of a quarter of a million men, met the French invasion, and on August 21-22 the French were decisively defeated in the Battle of Metz and driven back across the frontier to their defensive positions known as the Grand Couronne de Nancy with heavy losses in men and guns. This victory, coincident with the sweeping aside of Belgian resistance at Namur, really marks the beginning of the great advance on Paris.

The Germans poured across the Sambre and the Meuse, overcoming desperate French resistance at Charleroi, where a very bloody battle was fought. The French right centre, which had scored an initial success at Neufchateau (Belgium), was driven back, and forces which had been sent to the assistance of Longwy were withdrawn into the Argonne. But the crucial test was at Mons, on the extreme left, where the British expeditionary force which had been landed less than a week before was outnumbered five to one by von Kluck. With the French falling back on their right, their own flank exposed to an enveloping movement, there was nothing for them to do but retreat; but they retreated fighting steadily night and day for six days and holding in check an entire German army corps. An effort was made to gather French forces in the north to outflank the extreme German right, but the movement failed, and no effort was even made to hold Lille. The retreat of the allies carried them back more than 125 miles in twelve days, until September 4, when they reached the shelter of the Grand Morange, under the guns of the Paris forts.

THE MARCH ON PARIS.

The flower of the Kaiser's army had swept acros northeastern France with irresistible force. The line of the Sambre and Meuse had been abandoned on August 24. At Cambrai and Le Cateau, on the 26th, the Germans had been victorious, and by the end of the following day had swept the allies back to the Somme. The advance of the German right wing was halted for a moment on the 28th by the heroic charges of the British Household Cavalry, and on August 28 the troops which Joffre had called back from Alsace successfully attacked the Prussian Guard and two German army corps at Guise, thus affording much needed relief to the British army at St. Quentin. Despite this, Joffre continued to retreat, because the hope of resuming the offensive at this moment was rendered vain by the rapidity of the march of the German right wing. On August 31 the small British force had been pushed back by sheer weight of numbers and had uncovered the French left flank. Despite successes on the French right, it was impossible for the allies to give battle under these conditions, as a defeat would have cut off the main French army from Paris and from their British allies. French and English continued to retreat in good order, straightening out their line as they fell back. On September 1 the British were successful in an engagement in the Forest of Compeigne and took some German cannon, and by the 3d they had reached a position south of the Marne, where they were prepared to make a stand, but at Joffre's request they fell back on to the Seine. The German army, having crossed the Oise, now threatened Paris, and the French Government, on September 3, was transferred to Bordeaux. The retreat ended on September 4, when the German army commanded by von Kluck made a sudden sweep to the southeast. The Germans have never officially explained this movement. Two courses of action were open to them. One was to attempt to force the French armies back into the intrenched camp of Paris and isolate the eastern defences of Verdun from the capital, the other was an attempt to envelop and destroy the French armies in the field before seizing the French capital. If successful, the latter would have offered the quickest solution, and, with France crushed, Germany could have turned on Russia, which had mobilized her forces far quicker than Germany had expected and had overrun a large part of East Prussia. It was at this moment, when the outlook was blackest for France and the fall of Paris appeared certain, that the allies signed the famous agreement not to make a separate peace: "The British, French and Russian Governments mutually agree not to conclude peace separately during the present war. The three Governments agree that when the terms of peace come to be discussed no one of the allies will demand conditions of peace without the previous agreement of each of the other allies." This compact was also adhered to by both Japan and Italy after they had entered the war, and confirmed by the five powers in London in December, 1915.

THE BATTLE OF THE MARNE.

But von Kluck's movement exposed his right to the offensive movement of the allies' left, where fresh French forces had been brought up to extend the British lines; besides, a precious reserve of a quarter of a million men had been held in Paris. On September 5 General Joffre issued his famous order of the day: "The hour has come," he wrote, "to advance at all costs and to die where you stand rather than give way." The Battle of the Marne was on. The allies began a general attack on the Meaux-Sezanne-Vitry le Francois-Verdun front. Holding the Germans fast in the centre, the French left, with the troops of the Paris garrison and the British army, struck desperately toward Soissons, and on September 9 succeeded in hurling the German invaders back across the Marne, which has given its name to the battle that lasted to the 12th of September. For a time von Kluck's army was in the greatest plight, but he extricated himself by forced marches. A desperate German counter attack on the French centre at Vitry le Francois was repulsed, and then General Foch struck what was perhaps the decisive blow by taking advantage of a weak spot between the lines of von Buelow and the Wuerttemburg army and throwing the Prussian Guard in great disorder into the marshes of St. Gond. This determined a retreat along the entire German front to a point behind the Soissons-Rheims line, and it was accentuated by a severe defeat administered to the Crown Prince's army in the Argonne, by which Verdun was definitely placed beyond the reach of the invaders. It seemed at one time as if French soil would be freed, but the French cavalry was utterly exhausted, and the fall of Maubeuge on September 7 had removed what would have constituted a grave menace to the German lines of communication. The rear guard actions fought by the retreating forces of the Kaiser assumed greater intensity till, on September 12 and 13, after abandoning Amiens, and on their extreme left Luneville and St. Die, the Germans dug themselves in to the positions on the range of hills north of the Aisne that Bluecher once boasted he could hold against the world with 80,000 men. The lines were almost identical with those occupied to-day from Soissons, on the Aisne, to the Verdun front.

ON THE AISNE AND IN FLANDERS.

On September 13 the French troops, in the face of a deadly fire, crossed the Aisne near Soissons, and there ensued a long series of attacks and counter attacks launched from the opposing trenches, which in many places were only a hundred yards apart. To the south, near Rheims, the Germans lost ground, and retaliated by the bombardment of the city and the partial destruction of its great cathedral, but without achieving any military object or advantage. The fighting to the west was of far more importance. The French threw every available man forward on their extreme left in an attempt to turn the German right and throw the invaders back over the Meuse; the Germans brought up fresh forces in an effort to turn the French left and threaten Paris from the north. At one time the German cavalry reached St. Omer, only twenty-five miles from Calais, but they were thrown back by the British forces which, at Field Marshal French's request, had been shifted to the extreme left and assigned the task of making a junction with the Belgian army. After violent fighting near Arras on September 30 the turning movement developed into a race for the sea, and the allies struck due north. A long-drawn-out fight in Flanders continued the Battle of the Aisne, which in itself was only the prolongation of the Battle of the Marne. It was at this stage that the German commanders attempted to destroy the Belgian army, which still threatened their rear from the intrenched camp of Antwerp. Bringing up the big siege guns that had been used at Maubeuge, they invested Antwerp on September 26. By the 5th of October they had destroyed the outer forts and brought the city itself within range of their great guns. The next day King Albert withdrew with his army under cover of a British cavalry force which had been disembarked at Ostend and rushed to Ghent to cover the Belgian retreat. This was the famous Seventh Division, which afterward fought its way to Ypres and held there till the main British force joined it. King Albert and his army reached the Yser on October 15, taking up positions at Nieuport and Dixmude. On the 17th the Germans attacked in force, and Joffre sent word to King Albert to hold at all costs for twenty-four hours. With 70,000 Belgians, who had fought all the way from Liege to Antwerp and to the Yser, King Albert held the coast, and some 25,000 English troops held the line at Ypres for five days against five German army corps. On the 22d of October the French came up, threw the Germans back beyond the Yser, and the Belgians on October 29 opened the dikes and flooded the country, destroying all possibility of the Germans reaching Calais by a march along the coast. The trenches now stretched in one continuous line from the North Sea to Switzerland, and although the Kaiser in person directed desperate efforts and sacrificed 150,000 men to break the lines and force his way through to Calais, he was foiled in the attempt; he bent the line at Arras, but his crowning attempt, made at Ypres early in November with the Prussian Guards, was beaten off with huge losses by the thin khaki line of British soldiers, reinforced by part of the Tenth French Army. On top of this the Germans tried to drive a wedge between Verdun and Toul, and isolate the former fortress. They succeeded in crossing the Meuse at St. Mihiel on November 19, and their advance at this point forms the famous salient that has been described as "an arrow aimed at the heart of France." But they could get no further. This was the last attempt in force to shatter the allies' line on the west and marked the beginning of the existing deadlock and the end of the first period of the war.

THE TURNING POINT OF THE WAR.

The Battle of the Marne did more than save Paris; it sealed the fate of the Kaiser's bid for world empire. Germany, with its war machine at the highest point of efficiency after more than a generation of preparation, had failed to destroy France, which entered the conflict with inferior forces incompletely mobilized. By reason of its homogeneous organization, which has enabled it to shift its forces from east to west and from west to east at will, Germany with the aid of Austria has been able to make great territorial gains on every front except the west; but these gains have been made at an enormous cost in lives, and as the German line has lengthened, Germany's numerical and economic strength has weakened, while that of the allies has steadily grown. This has been in great part due to England's command of the seas, which cut Germany off from the rest of the world while placing all the resources of the entire British Empire and all the productive power of neutral nations at the disposal of the allies. Contributing causes to the victory of the Marne, which was the turning point of the war, were the rapidity of the Russian mobilization and the invasion of East Prussia by the forces of the Czar, thus obliging the Germans to detach several army corps from the huge mass of men hurled upon Paris, and also two brilliant sorties from Antwerp, led by King Albert in person, which detached 160,000 troops from the armies that were pouring into France. The operations on the western front included the entrance of Russian forces into Galicia and the capture of Tarnopol on August 21.

that of Lemberg in September and the investment of Przemysl, forcing the Austrians to pause in their attack on Poland, where they were making a successful demonstration before Lublin with the intention of threatening Warsaw. But it was the invasion of East Prussia that caused the most concern to the German General Staff. The Czar's troops swarmed over the frontier on August 17 and almost without opposition made themselves masters of Lyck, Insterburg, Gumbinnen, Oertelsburg and Marienburg. Allenstein and Koenigsburg were threatened, and five German army corps were hurriedly detached from the western front and hurled against the Russians. Von Hindenburg, a general whose life work in studying the region of the Mazurian Lakes had brought upon him much army ridicule, was called from retirement by the Kaiser, and, gathering reserves and adding what garrison troops he could to the first line forces from the west, he struck at the Russian invaders on August 27 at Tannenburg, just south of Allenstein, and in three days virtually annihilated 250,000 Russians, throwing them into the swamps, where he captured 100,000 prisoners and killed and drowned tens of thousands more. Following up his success, von Hindenburg threw General Rennenkampf back across the frontier behind the Kovno-Grodno line of forts. While these events were in progress Austria had launched against Serbia an attack that at first was successful. The Serbians, who in their first dash had obtained a foothold in Bosnia, were driven across the Drina River, and on December 2 the Austrians captured Belgrade, King Peter having already moved his capital to Nish. Outnumbered and beaten, the Serbians retreated into the mountains, while the victorious Austrians laid waste the fertile valleys and lowlands and converted the country around Belgrade into a land of corpse-strewn desolation. But neither victors nor vanquished had paid any attention to sanitation, and disease and plague broke out in both armies. The Serbians in the healthy mountain districts suffered least, and, gathering up all their forces, they fell upon the invaders with indescribable fury and virtually annihilated the Austrian army, driving it out of Belgrade by December 15 and taking more than 60,000 prisoners, of whom no less than 50 per cent. died of plague in the concentration camps. This broke the Austrian offensive, and for the time being Serbia ceased to figure in the war except as a plague spot where the American Red Cross was fighting typhus and the black death.

PROGRESS OF THE GREAT STRUGGLE.

Since the Battle of the Marne nothing has occurred which can be compared to it for strategic results or political importance. It settled one thing: Germany cannot win. The deadlock on the western front, it is true, has remained almost unbroken despite much desperate fighting and great loss of life, and Germany is still in possession of almost all of Belgium and of a goodly portion of the richest mining and industrial region of France, with at least 60 per cent. of France's much-needed supply of iron. But England has raised, trained and equipped an army of more than three million men, and is steadily increasing her forces, with the result that in the spring the allies will have an overwhelming superiority of men and guns and ammunition in France. On the eastern front Germany has inflicted severe reverses on Russia, and besides taxing Warsaw is master of rich Russian and Polish provinces; but she has not destroyed the Russian armies, whose lack of equipment and ammunition is being rapidly remedied and whose supplies of men are inexhaustible. Russia moves her millions with the relentless certainty of a glacier. Attack her, and she retreats on Moscow. Leave her alone, and the deep, slow tide of her advance rolls forward again. In the Spring she will have six million men. As things stand today Germany is not invaded, except for a tiny strip of territory in Alsace, and everywhere her armies are fighting on enemy soil. But Germany has lost virtually all of her colonies, and her flag has been swept from every sea but the Baltic. The German navy remains bottled up in the Kiel Canal and behind the mined defences of Heligoland, unable to cope with the crushing superiority of the British navy and of no more use than if it was at the bottom of the sea. Japan, which entered the war as England's ally, seized Germany's foothold in Asia, the fortress of Tsingtau, in conjunction with a detachment of England's Indian army. Germany's ally, Austria, has with the Kaiser's help managed to free her eastern territory, which at one time was deeply invaded by the Russian forces; but Italy has entered the war on the side of the allies and has obtained a strong grip on the Trentino and forced Austria to concentrate most of her best troops and heavy artillery among the mountains and passes of her southern frontier. Turkey, which threw in its lot with Germany and attacked Russia, has successfully resisted the combined attempts of England and France to force the Dardanelles, to carry much needed supplies to Russia and afford an outlet for her grain crop, which was one of the most abundant in years. In the Caucasus, after initial reverses, Turkey has withstood the Russian army, who were powerless to aid the Armenians, whom the Turks have set about to exterminate entirely. In Mesopotamia a British expedition which at one time menaced Bagdad, after a brilliant march from the Persian Gulf, has met with a reverse. England, early in the Fall of 1914, repulsed a Turkish attack on the Suez Canal and seized this opportunity to secure her hold on Egypt, over which she proclaimed a protectorate. In order to make a junction with the Turks, Germany recently struck a bold blow in the Balkans, where she scored her first diplomatic success of the war by inducing Bulgaria to fight on her side. As a result, Serbia was crushed, and a new field of battle has opened in the Balkans, the allies landing forces in Greece, but neither sufficiently soon nor in sufficient force to be able to save Serbia from the fate of Belgium. Other important phases of the world struggle have been Germany's attempted submarine blockade of Great Britain, which, after the torpedoing of the Lusitania, brought about a diplomatic crisis with the United States; the German Zeppelin raids on England, in which many innocent civilians and non-combatants have been killed, and the allies' attempt to starve out Germany and Austria, which, despite tremendous territorial gains, are as a matter of fact, besieged and surrounded by a ring of steel which will begin to close in upon them in the Spring. In the following pages each of these subjects is treated under its separate heading, and statistics are added showing the cost of the war in men and money to date.

WAR ON THE WESTERN FRONT.

Trench warfare on the western front has been continuous ever since the deadlock began. All through the Winter of 1914-15 there was a constant bombardment all along the line from Switzerland to the North Sea, the intensity of which kept on increasing as the mobilization of the industrial forces of France and England progressed, thus continually augmenting the supply of ammunition at the front. Immediately after the Battle of the Marne the allies had faced a serious shortage of every kind of artillery and munitions, from heavy howitzer to rapid-fire machine guns, whereas the almost inexhaustible supplies of the Germans showed how long and thorough had been the Teuton preparations for the war. It was only in the Fall that the allies really began to accumulate a surplus over their immediate needs so as to supply the reserves of ammunition necessary for the intensive bombardment which must precede any attack in force. It will not be till the Spring of 1916, when the bulk of the enormous ammunition orders placed in the United States will be delivered, that the allies will have any marked advantage over the Germans, who have so thoroughly organized their industrial resources as to be able to turn out about 2,000,000 shells a week indefinitely. Disparity in the supply of ammunition, however, has not prevented many severe engagements taking place in Belgium, France and Alsace. Early in January the French launched a new offensive in Alsace, in which they made themselves masters of Steinbach. They also made a successful attack north of Soissons, but the German counter offensive more than wiped out their gains, and a few miles to the east of where the French had attacked the Kaiser's forces took important positions and inflicted heavy losses by inundating part of the Aisne Valley. The first really serious attempt to smash through the German lines was made by the British, who took the offensive toward Lille and captured Neuve Chapelle, just north of La Bassee on March 10. Nearly the entire British force was employed in this great effort, which broke down almost in the moment of victory when it seemed certain the German lines would be broken because the attacking forces were decimated by the fire of their own artillery. But the British stuck to their gains, and despite every effort the Germans have not been able to dislodge them. Early in April there was fierce fighting in the St. Mihiel salient, where the Crown Prince had time and time again been foiled in his attempts to isolate Verdun. The French took the crest of the hill at Les Eparges, depriving the Germans of a position of great strategic importance which dominated the valley of the Woevre. Fighting has raged almost continuously around the Hartmannsweiler Kopf, which is said to have changed hands some seventy times since the war began and to have cost 100,000 lives. One slope of the mountain is now in the hands of the French and the other in the hands of the Germans. In the beginning of April marked activity was noticed back of the German lines, and on April 17 the British captured Hill 60 in an engagement which preceded the second great German attack on Ypres. This culminated on April 24, when asphyxiating gases were used for the first time with such terrible effect that the Germans gained nearly three miles. Their failure to break through was due in large measure to the splendid gallantry of the Canadian troops, whose crack reiment, the Princess Pat Light Infantry, was almost wiped out holding an advanced position. Since then the Germans have made no further attempt to break through to Calais. The French again took the offensive, and in May and June the chief fighting centred around Arras, with the French gradually creeping up toward Lens, a railway centre of great strategic value, the capture of which would have impeded German communications along the front and have forced a retirement. It was in this advance that the French captured the remarkable defensive work known as the Labyrinth, a veritable underground fortress with trenches and subterranean passages lined with steel and concrete, near Neuville St. Vaast. The Germans believed it to be absolutely impregnable. When finally occupied by the French on June 23 this underground stronghold was found to cover an area of more than two square miles. The French were also successful in fighting in the Vosges and in Alsace, but lost about a mile of their trenches in the Argonne. All through July and August fighting continued in the long line of trenches and increased in activity in the air, numerous raids being made by aviators on both sides, the advantage, however, resting with the allies. In September, after continuous German successes in the East, which had carried a large portion of the Teuton forces far into Russia, Joffre made his long expected effort to break the deadlock on the western front. The allied offensive developed into a stupendous but unsuccessful drive in Champagne, Artois and Belgium. Following the most terrific bombardment on record, in which the German trenches were literally wiped out by a storm of high explosive shell-fire, the French drove the Germans back nearly three miles in Champagne, and by September 27 had captured more than 20,000 prisoners and a large number of guns, ammunition and other war material; but they did not succeed in breaking through, although they sacrificed more than 100,000 men in the attempt. The British, striking at the same time, took five miles of German trenches south of La Bassee Canal, and both the French and the British successfully resisted the German counter offensive, to support which five German army corps had been hurriedly transported from the eastern to the western front. Continuing to advance, the French pierced the German second-line defences and threatened the Crown Prince's communications in the Argonne, but their drive slackened in the beginning of October, after the capture of Tahure. They had retaken about fifty square miles of French territory. A few days later the Germans fiercely assailed the British lines in an effort to reconquer the positions they had lost at Loos, but they were beaten off and left 8,000 dead between the lines. They also failed in a series of attacks launched in the early part of November against the French in Champagne, despite a temporary success at Tahure, which changed hands several times. All through December there was a continuous artillery duel along the western front, but the year ends with the deadlock unbroken.

WAR ON THE EASTERN FRONT.

At the outbreak of the war the German plan on the eastern front was based on the belief that the Czar's forces would strike straight for Cracow, the gateway to Berlin and Vienna. This was what the Germans wanted; for if the Russians had thrown all their forces into the Polish salient Germany could have attacked their northern flank from East Prussia and Austria their southern flank from Galicia, cutting the Russian lines of communication and literally "bagging" the Czar's first-line armies. So, in order to attract this hoped-for Russian offensive, a few German divisions were thrown into Poland; but Grand Duke Nicholas was not to be caught in any such trap. Disregarding the demonstration in Poland, the Russian commander struck simultaneously at the Germans in East Prussia and at the Austrians in Galicia. Despite the defeat of the Russians at Tannenberg by von Hindenburg with forces transported in all haste from the western front, and which broke down the Russian offensive in East Prussia and threw General Rennenkampf back behind the Kovno-Grodno forts, the Czar's forces continued to advance in Galicia against the Austrians, whom they defeated at Rawa Ruska on September 3. Then they took Lemberg, won a battle near Lublin, and on September 22 took Jaroslaw and invested the great fortress of Przemysl. With the Russians west of the San and the Austrian right wing flanked by hordes of Cossacks who were raiding well into the plains, and with the Carpathian passes falling into the hands of the invaders, Austria called upon Germany for immediate aid. Von Hindenburg was sent to the rescue. With four German army corps taken from East Prussia—thus making possible the Russian success at Augustowo on October 2—and other reinforcements drawn from the western front, the German general, instead of trying to stem the invasion of Hungary, struck straight at Warsaw and the Ivangorod fortress. This counter offensive was highly successful. With their right flank in great danger, the Russians had no alternative but to take their army back across the San. The Austrians followed, and drove the invaders from Hungary and the Carpathians, after raising the siege of Przemysl. The German advance in Poland was pressed, and von Hindenburg's cavalry screen was within seven miles of Warsaw when the Russians, gathering all their available cavalry forces, hurled a body of more than 100,000 horsemen upon the advancing foe. This bent back the German left wing and compelled a hasty retreat to the frontier. This German reverse had serious consequences for the Austrians, against whom the Russians concentrated an enormous force, and the second invasion of Galicia began. The Austrians were routed at Jaroslaw on November 5 and their army cut in two, one half being forced back into the snow-laden Carpathian passes, the other driven toward the Cracow defences, the outer line of which was penetrated by the Russians on November 7. The Russians were also following up their victory over the Germans, who kept on retreating into Silesia and successfully drawing into the Polish bag great masses of the Czar's troops, who believed that they were pursuing the main German army. But although the Russians had advanced far into Southern Poland the Germans were unable to carry out their original plan, because they no longer had the men in East Prussia to cut the Russian communications by an attack on the north flank, and on the south flank the Austrian base of operations was in the hands of the Russians. But just when the Russians in pursuit of the retreating Germans had taken Ploeken, in Germany, to the southeast of Posen, the Kaiser gathered his main eastern army at Thorn. On November 12 these forces, under General Mackensen, were suddenly launched forward, and had no difficulty in overwhelming the much smaller Russian forces which were guarding the flank of the Russian advance on Silesia. In ten days, by forced marches, Mackensen had reached Bresiny, some fifteen miles east of Lodz, where he narrowly escaped disaster; for the Russians, hurrying up from all sides, nearly cut off more than 100,000 of his advance guard. But the Germans, by a magnificent feat of arms, cut their way through, although there is little doubt that they would have been annihilated had it not been for Rennenkampf's delay in coming up. This, added to his defeat at Tannenberg, cost him his command. By this time the main German army had come up, and on December 6 it took Lodz and advanced northward to Lowitz, forcing the Russians to give up their offensive in the Cracow district. Again the Germans thrust at Warsaw, but the Russians took up positions on the Bzura and Rawka Rivers, where they made a great stand. The Russian line had been drawn back in the south to prepared positions behind the Nida and Dunajec Rivers and extending right up to their northern army. There the German advance was checked early in January, and a deadlock ensued which lasted till July. The Germans could make no headway in Poland, but Mackensen's drive had so far relieved the pressure in Galicia that Austria attempted a fresh offensive movement against the weakened Russian lines. Reinforced with some German troops, and supported by a sortie of 100,000 men from Przemysl, they came through the passes; but their movements were slow and the Russians had time to concentrate new armies which at Tarnow, on December 25, smashed the Austrians completely, establishing themselves on the Tarnow line, overran Bukowina, and seized the Carpathian passes, which they held until driven out by Mackensen in May and June. In February, Germany succeeded in dealing a great counter blow, the effect of which undoubtedly influenced the subsequent course of events on the eastern front. The Russians had been gradually gaining ground again in East Prussia, where heavy snowfalls had made anything like rapid movements of large bodies of troops appear out of the question. But they were suddenly attacked on both flanks. Von Hindenburg caught them again in the region of the Mazurian Lakes, crushed in their right wing at Gumbinnen and their left at Lyck, and then, converging on their centre, virtually destroyed the Russian East Prussian army on February 22, taking more than 100,000 prisoners and nearly all of their guns, ammunition and equipment. The way for the German advance into Courland was clear. The Russians were also running very short of ammunition and opposed but weak resistance to a German drive toward Ossowiec, the great fortress of North Poland, in which the invaders captured Pryzasnyz and threatened Nowogeorgiewsk. The Austrians also took heart from the Russian reverse and began to drive them out of Bukowina, but once again the tide turned in the Czar's favor with the surrender of the Austrian fortress of Przemysl on March 22. Besides capturing 120,000 prisoners and vast stores of war material this released a Russian force of more than a quarter of a million men, all of whom were rushed into the Carpathians to beat back the Austrians who were attempting to turn their left wing in Bukowina, and penetrated more than twenty miles into Hungary after taking most of the important Carpathian passes. Again Austria was in sore straits, and again she appealed to the Kaiser for help. Mackensen was sent to the rescue with large forces drawn from von Hindenburg's armies, thus again reducing operations in the north to a deadlock. Enormous forces of heavy artillery were transported from the western front, and the combined German and Austrian forces began a great counter offensive against the advancing Russians. After a terrible artillery bombardment of the Russian positions the drive was launched which drove Russia entirely out of Galicia and really sealed the fate of Warsaw. The Dunajec line was pierced early in May, and, overwhelming all resistance, the Germans, on a front sixty miles wide, swept on toward Jaroslau and Przemysl, which latter fortress they retook on June 3. On they went, breaking through the third Russian line of defence from Rawa Ruska to Grodek and the Dneister, and, taking Lemberg on June 24, they cleared the Russians out of all their hard won positions. But although the Russian armies were driven back they were not destroyed, and the German victory was won solely by an overwhelming superiority in guns and ammunition. Archangel had been closed all the Winter, the trans-Siberian railroad blocked in many places, and despite all the efforts of the allies, especially Japan, to supply them, the Czar's forces were helpless for lack of cannon and shells and quick-firing guns and ammunition, without which her inexhaustible supply of men availed nothing. However, a few weeks earlier, the Germans had effected an entrance into Courland, and forces under von Buelow had actually landed in Northern Russia and, moving south from the Gulf of Riga, had effected a junction with von Hindenburg's army before Warsaw. Simultaneously, Mackensen, turning north from his Galician campaign, had forced the Russians back beyond the Lublin line and was almost in contact with the right wing of the forces attacking Warsaw. The Austrian forces, reinforced by German artillery, continued the line along the Bug and the Dneister. In this manner it was virtually impossible for the Russians to outflank their opponents without first breaking their lines, and the lack of ammunition made any kind of offensive impossible. With the Czar's forces on the defensive, the Germans began to close in on Warsaw from all sides. Pultusk fell to the Teutons on July 25, and five days later the Russians began the evacuation of Warsaw, retreating toward a prepared line from Kovno through Grodno and south to Brest-Litovsk. Cholm, an important fortress southeast of Ivangorod, was the next Russian stronghold to fall, and on August 6 Wasaw, the capital of Poland, was occupied by Bavarian troops under Prince Leopold. The victorious German campaign was completed by the fall of Ivangorod, Serock, Praga, Lomza and Siedlce, and finally, on August 19, Kovno, one of the greatest of Russian fortresses, was taken. Then Nowogeorgiewsk and Ossowiec fell, and the Germans began to close in on Brest-Litovsk, which surrendered on August 27. At the same time, renewing their drive to free Austria, the Teutons smashed the Russian line in Galicia, crossing the Zlota-Lipa River, and then began an advance along their entire 500-mile front, capturing Lipsk and Grodno and advancing on their left toward Riga. Still maintaining their progress, the Germans captured Vilna and threatened Dwinsk; but then the Kaiser's offensive in the east weakened owing to the withdrawal of five army corps sent to resist the French drive in Champagne, and this enabled the Russians to make some gains in Galicia, hold back the invaders in the Smorgon district, and stop the German advance on Dwinsk early in October, despite the fact that von Hindenburg had succeeded in crossing the Vilija, east of Vilna, and that Austro-German forces had forced back the Russians in Galicia to the eastern bank of the Styr. On October 21 the Russians reoccupied Czernowitz, the capital of Bukowina, and took the offensive at Mitau and before Dwinsk, and by November 1 had forced the German army attacking Riga to retreat over the Missa. The Winter has since made active operations increasingly difficult on the eastern front, but although the Russians have been very sorely tried by a long succession of serious reverses they have managed to keep their armies intact. The German gains have been gains of territory, of less strategic value than would have been the annihilation of any of the Russian armies, not one of which has been destroyed. Nevertheless, the political effect of the German victories has been very great, especially in the Balkans. The Czar is now raising large numbers of fresh troops to fill his ranks, and gathering vast supplies of arms and ammunition to enable him to retake the offensive in the Spring with an army which, it is asserted, will exceed six million men.

THE NAVAL WAR.

In July, 1914, just before the war, the grand fleet of England, the most powerful naval force ever assembled, was passed in review by King George at Spithead. Two hundred and sixteen ships were in the line, and there can be little doubt that this imposing demonstration of England's naval strength at a time when portents of a European conflict were visible on every hand was intended to discourage any warlike plans other nations might entertain. Thanks to the foresight of Prince Louis of Battenberg, this grand fleet was never demobilized, and when war came it found England's men-of-war cleared for action and at their appointed battle stations in the North Sea and the British Channel. From the first day of the war the great German navy, on which the Kaiser lavished so many millions and so much care, has been virtually bottled up within the Kiel Canal and behind the mine fields of Heligoland and the guns of Cuxhaven and Wilhelmshaven, to all intents and purposes as useless for the protection of German shipping or for any offensive action against the allies as if it were at the bottom of the ocean. The British fleet, which at first was stationed in the North Sea, is now riding at anchor in British roadsteads, ready at any minute to sally forth, should the enemy venture out, prepared instantly to respond to the signal of any one of the 2,000 armed patrol boats, yachts, trawlers and fishing vessels which unceasingly guard the coasts of the British Isles. Swift destroyers, torpedo boats, gunboats and submarines dash hither and thither in the Irish Sea and the British Channel, but for months their active operations have been limited to the sinking or capture of German submarines. The absence of any great sea fight has been one of the surprising features of the war. Not a single battleship has been engaged at sea, and the only two actions that merit to rank as naval battles were fought off the coast of South America. These, with two naval skirmishes in the North Sea, really constitute almost the sum total of sea fighting. Three weeks after the outbreak of the war, on August 24, Admiral Beatty, with a British squadron, made a spectacular raid on the German warships in the Bight of Heligoland. The British claim to have sunk at least two cruisers and two destroyers; the Germans maintain that their losses were only half as great. But on November 1 Admiral Cradock, in command of a British squadron in the Pacific, was surprised by a superior German force off Coronel, Chile, and his flagship, the Monmouth, was sunk, as well as the Good Hope, with all hands. The cruiser Glasgow escaped, badly damaged. The victorious German fleet was in turn destroyed by a British squadron which met them at the Falkland Islands on December 8, and sank Admiral von Spee's flagship, the Scharnhorst, as well as the Gneisenau, the Leipzig and the Nuerembergh. Only the Dresden escaped and made her way to San Juan Fernandez Island, where she was found on March 22 by the Glasgow and the Kent and sunk in the territorial waters of Chile, an act for which England offered a full apology to the South American republic. Meanwhile, following raids on the English coast, in which German warships had bombarded defenceless towns, killing many noncombatants as at Scarborough, a British battle cruiser squadron intercepted other German ships engaged on a similar errand, and on January 24 the Bluecher, a powerful armored cruiser, was sunk and several other German warships were damaged. In this engagement the Germans claimed to have destroyed the British battle cruiser Tiger, but this vessel, although badly damaged, reached its home port. There have been a number of naval skirmishes in the Baltic, in the Mediterranean, where at the beginning of the war the German cruisers Goeben and Breslau bombarded the coast of Algeria before making good their escape into the Dardanelles, and the French sank the German ship Panther. In the Adriatic French and Italian warships have been engaged with Austrian vessels. But submarine warfare has perhaps been the most important phase of naval activity; in any case, it has been the most spectacular. At the outbreak of the war the submarine was an unknown quantity, but in the last fifteen months it has more than justified all the wonderful things that had been claimed for it and has profoundly changed naval tactics. When the British fleet, at the beginning of hostilities, was patrolling the North Sea and the British Channel, the German submarines accounted for a number of ships. On September 6 the cruiser Pathfinder was sunk, and two weeks later the U-9, one of the smallest undersea boats, sank three big English men-of-war, the Aboukir, the Cressy and the Hogue. The Hawke, another British cruiser, was sunk by a German submarine in the North Sea on October 16, and on the 1st of January the battleship Formidable, which had just left the mouth of the Thames and gone to take up its position in the British Channel, was torpedoed in the dead of night. A submarine actually penetrated the Downs and sank the British gunboat Niger, and the Bulwark, which was blown up in the Medway on November 26, is believed by many to have been torpedoed, though officially its loss is attributed to the explosion of ammunition which was being placed on board. The submarines have also been active in the Baltic and in the Mediterranean and near Eastern waters, but their use was confined to attacks on hostile warships until Germany attempted to carry out a "submarine blockade" of Great Britain in retaliation for the food blockade of Germany that had been established by England and France. On January 31 von Tirpitz, head of the German navy, began his attempt to starve England by sinking merchantmen and cargo carriers, three of which were torpedoed and sunk without warning by German submarines in the Irish Sea. This policy was continued till, on February 5, an announcement came from Berlin that after February 18 Germany would consider all the waters about the British Isles as a war zone and would destroy all enemy ships found there; at the same time warning was given to all neutral vessels to avoid these waters. This elicited a note from President Wilson warning Germany that she would be held to "a strict accountability" if American vessels were attacked or American lives lost. On February 18 Germany, despite the protests of neutrals, began sinking unarmed merchantmen in the so-called war zone, and in pursuance of this policy the steamship Lusitania, bound from New York to Liverpool, was sunk without warning on May 8 by a German submarine off Old Head of Kinsale, Ireland, with the loss of the lives of 1,150 non-combatants, many of whom were women and children. The death list included 114 Americans. This precipitated a crisis with the United States which has not yet passed. After the sinking of the Arabic, however, Germany stated that passenger ships would not be sunk without warning. Under this form of warfare Germany sunk more than 300 vessels belonging to the allies, with a loss of at least 2,000 lives and a property damage which has been variously assessed at between $25,000,000 and $60,000,000. However, within six months of Germany's submarine warfare the British navy has found means to counteract the new peril. It is known that airships, torpedo boats and fast destroyers have been used with great effect and that many submarines have been caught in nets and destroyed, but the British Government has refused to make public any details or to give out any information in connection with the capture or destruction of undersea craft. It is known that at the outbreak of the war Germany had about thirty-five submarines, and it is believed that for the first six months she was launching new ones at the rate of one a week, increasing this output as the war progressed. This would give her a total of some 120 submarines since the war started. Of these it is currently reported that some four-score have either been captured or destroyed by the British navy. German submarines have penetrated the Straits of Gibraltar and have sunk vessels in the Adriatic; they have been active in the Baltic, and are even reported to have attacked cargo ships in the White Sea; but of late submarines have been much less active, partly because the heavy weather experienced in European waters for the past two months has been unfavorable to their operation, partly because the number accounted for by the British fleet has greatly lessened the number of officers and men available for this particular service. England is believed to have about 100 submarines and France at least fifty, but they have been employed exclusively as weapons of attack on enemy battleships, and on July 2 the Pommern, a powerful German ship of the line, was torpedoed in the Baltic, and six months later the Turkish battleship Massudieh was sunk in the Dardanelles. Apart from the exploits of the submarines, one of the most spectacular features of the naval warfare was the brief but active careers of the German sea raiders which preyed upon British and allied commerce in the Atlantic and Pacific in the early days of the war. The Emden was the most famous, and she was sunk by the Australian cruiser Sydney; the Karlsruhe ran ashore in the Carribean and was blown up by her crew, and the others that were not destroyed took refuge in American ports.

GERMANY LOSES HER COLONIAL EMPIRE.

When the Kaiser declared war, on August 1, 1914, Germany had a colonial empire more than one-third the size of the United States, covering 1,134,240 square miles in Africa, Asia and the islands of the Pacific, with a total population well in excess of 15,000,000. All of this, with the exception of a portion of her East African possessions, has been stripped from her, and everywhere in German West Africa, in German East Africa, in Kamerun, in Togoland, in the Province of Kiaochow in China and in the Pacific, German forces have been cut off from the rest of the world and forced to surrender. By far the strongest and most important German colony was in Southwest Africa, where some 12,000 regular German troops were stationed, besides which there were some 7,000 or 8,000 reservists who had been given land to colonize and settle there. The military strength of this colony and its proximity to the British Union of South Africa made it a matter of great importance that it should be at once subdued, and at the very beginning of the war orders were issued to the Union of South Africa to organize an expedition and invade the German colony. But for many years German agents had been active in British South Africa keeping alive whatever resentment remained against the English as the result of the Boer War. These intrigues were so far successful that when the order to attack the German colony was given, General Beyers, commander of the British South African forces, resigned, and with General de Wet, the famous Boer leader, started a revolt against the British. General Botha, who was Premier of the Union of South Africa, thereupon took the command of the British forces and stamped out the rebellion. Beyers was killed and de Wet captured and sentenced to only six years' imprisonment and a fine of $10,000. Then General Botha led his forces against the Germans and, after a brilliant campaign, conquered the colony, the last German force surrendering to him unconditionally on July 8. Kamerun was also taken possession of by English and French forces about the same time, after considerable fighting which at the outset almost ended in the repulse of an English force, the native soldiers getting out of hand in the face of the German machine-gun fire and retreating with a loss of nearly half their effectives. But this setback was retrieved, and in the Spring the British renewed their advance and finally took possession of the colony on June 29. Togoland offered virtually no resistance, falling to a force from the British Colony of the Gold Coast within two weeks of the declaration of war. The capture of the German settlement in Asia, with its strong fortress of Tsingtau, was achieved by the Japanese troops supported by some detachments of England's Indian army.

JAPAN AND THE WAR.

Japan entered the war as an ally of England after having, on August 16, addressed an ultimatum to Germany demanding the immediate withdrawal of all German warships in Japanese and Chinese waters or their disarmament and internment and the evacuation within thirty days of the Province of Kiaochow, the principal port of which, Tsingtau, had been strongly fortified by the Kaiser and formed the nucleus of the dominions that Germany sought to acquire in Asia. The Province of Kiaochow was held by Germany under a ninety-nine years' lease which Berlin had forced China to grant in 1897 as an indemnity for the murder of two German missionaries. Germany had strongly fortified the position with a chain of eight forts, the three most important of which were named Bismarck, Moltke and Itlis. No answer was sent by Berlin to the Japanese ultimatum, and so, on August 22, Japan announced that she was perpared to carry out the terms of her offensive and defensive alliance with England, and on the following day she declared war on Germany, which had at that time a force of about 8,000 men in Tsingtau. Against these the Mikado sent 24,000 well-equipped first-line troops. They were soon joined by detachments of England's Indian army, and the combined forces set about to reduce the Kaiser's Asiatic stronghold. An Anglo-Japanese fleet bombarded the forts on August 24 and 25, but the allied commanders decided that the harbor defences were too strong to be reduced by a sea attack and that it would be necessary to attack the fortress by land. On September 18 the Japanese made their first onslaught, and twelve days later they were in possession of the outer works and had seized two of the smaller forts. By this time some 40,000 Japanese troops had been brought up, but the German garrison held out with great gallantry in the face of a continuous bombardment from sea, land and sky. It was not till November 6 that the defenders succumbed to a combined sea and land attack. The stronghold finally surrendered unconditionally on November 10, its defenders, with their arms and ammunition and five transports, two gunboats and a destroyer falling into the hands of the allies. Before the fall of Tsingtau, China had protested against an alleged violation of her neutrality by Japan, and had made it known that she expected the provinces to be turned back to her in accordance with an implied promise made by the Japanese at the outbreak of the war, but there was a strong popular movement in Japan in favor of retaining the conquered territory, and formal announcement was made on November 7 by Baron Chinda, the Japanese Ambassador in Washington, that England and Japan would occupy the Province of Kiaochow jointly until the end of the war, when a decision would be taken as to its final disposition. As a matter of fact, the port of Tsingtau has continued to be administered by Japanese officials. But the reduction of the Kaiser's Asiatic stronghold has not by any means been the limit of the services Japan has rendered to the allies during the war. From the very first all her factories have been working at full blast, turning out arms and ammunition, most of which was shipped to Russia, and when the situation on the eastern front in Europe became critical the Japanese went to the length of dismantling their own forts and shipped every available gun over the trans-Siberian railroad. In addition to this, numbers of Japanese engineers and railroad men and traffic experts have been working to relieve the congestion on the trans-Siberian railroad so as to be able to keep Russian communications with the Pacific at the highest possible degree of efficiency. Further, virtually all of Japan's army is kept in a state of readiness in case any emergency might arise in Asia.

TURKEY AND THE WAR.

Turkey's entrance into the war on the side of Germany may be directly traced to the activities of the Kaiser himself, as for a quarter of a century he had lost no opportunity of establishing cordial relations with the Sublime Porte. His first visit to Constantinople was in 1889, after his sister's marriage in Athens. In 1898 he returned, and in a series of personal conferences with Abdul Hamid, who had incurred the enmity of all Christian Europe by the Armenian massacres, he laid the basis for the extension of German influence in the East. When the war broke out, Turkey had two fine battleships building in British shipyards, and these England seized despite the Sultan's protest. While relations between England and the Sublime Porte were strained over this incident, two German cruisers, the Breslau and the Goeben, managed to elude the French and English fleets in the Mediterranean and make their way to the Dardanelles. Germany forthwith turned both of these vessels over to Turkey under pretext of a sale. This led to a protest by the allies, who demanded that all the German officers and men of the two boats should either be sent out of Turkey or interned for the duration of the war. This request was refused, and on October 29 two cruisers flying the Turkish flag sank a Russian gunboat in the Black Sea and fired upon a French steamship, two of whose passengers were killed by shell fire. This act of war was followed, on November 31, by the bombardment of Theodosia and Novorissich by a Turkish fleet under the command of the German Admiral von Souchon, who flew his flag from the Goeben. Two days later the Ambassadors of the allies demanded their passports and left Constantinople, and on November 5 the allies declared war on Turkey. Russia at once threw a strong force over the Caucasian frontier in an effort to take Erzerum and bring about a revolt of the Armenians against Turkey. On November 16, at the request of the Kaiser, the Sheikh-ul-Islam, head of the Mohammedans at Constantinople, proclaimed a holy war, but the only effect of this was to bring about a repudiation of the Sultan by the Mohammedan leaders in India, Egypt and North Africa. There were some naval engagements of minor importance in the Black Sea between Russian and Turkish warships, and an Anglo-French fleet made a hostile demonstration before the Dardanelles, the entrance to which they bombarded. The Turks at first fell back before the Russian forces in Armenia, but in the early part of November they inflicted a severe defeat and drove the Czar's troops over the frontier, pushing a strong counter offensive in the direction of Tiflis, the capital of the Caucasus; but the Turks were in turn beaten by the Russians, who had brought up strong reinforcements and annihilated one of the Sultan's army corps at Ardahan in the early part of January. The Turks took revenge by a wholesale slaughter of Armenians. Fighting has continued in this region, extending over a long strip of territory running through Russia in Asia, Turkey in Asia and the northern part of Persia as far as Tabriz, but although the losses have been heavy and many non-combatants have been put to the sword, no decisive advantage has been gained by either side. England also struck at Turkey by sending an expedition from India, which started from the Persian Gulf and, advancing north through the valley of the Tigris, carried the war into the Garden of Eden and menaced Mesopotamia. This also hit at Germany's great Asiatic enterprise, the Bagdad railroad. This British expedition met with continual success, and was within a few miles of Bagdad when, at the end of November, they suffered a reverse at the hands of an overwhelming force of Turks. The British advance guard had been lured by Arabs, who pretended a great hatred of the Turks, as far as Ctesiphon, just south of Bagdad, but when they saw the British outnumbered they fell upon their flanks, and after severe losses the Anglo-Indian expedition was forced to fall back nearly a hundred miles to Kut-el-Amara. Egypt also was brought into the zone of active military operations by a spirited Turkish attack on the Suez Canal late in January and in early February. Led by German officers, large bodies of Turkish troops had been gathered in Palestine, and advanced over the Arabian desert; but on February 4 they were severely defeated by Anglo-Egyptian and Australian troops, and since then no attempt has been made on Egypt, although it is, in a way, the keystone of the British Empire. Far more important than any other operations, however, has been the attempt of England and France to force the passage of the Dardanelles, so as to take much needed supplies of arms and ammunition to Russia and in turn enable her to export the enormous stocks of wheat which have piled up at her Black Sea ports. Despite the misgivings of Lord Fisher, the First Sea Lord, and of high French military authorities, a combined English and French fleet attempted to force the passage of the Dardanelles, battering at the Turkish forts from February 21 to March 18, when they attempted to force the Narrows, but were repulsed, with the loss of the British battleships Irresistible and Ocean and the French battleships Bouvet and Gaulois, in addition to serious injury to a number of other warships engaged. A joint land and sea expedition was sent to accomplish what the fleets had failed to achieve. On April 25, in the face of incredible obstacles, 80,000 men were successfully landed. The Turks had laid barbed wire entanglements even under the surface of the water near shore, they had the exact range of every possible landing place, and an army of more than 100,000 men officered by Germans. The most desperate fighting has been going on there since the beginning of May. The allies have employed British and French regulars—the famous Foreign Legion of France, British colonials from Australia and New Zealand, and troops from Egypt, the Soudan and North Africa—but they have not yet succeeded in capturing the summits of the hills that command the Narrows and the great Turkish forts. The land forces have had the constant support of British and French fleets, which have engaged the defences at close range. On May 11 the British battleship Goliath was sunk, and two weeks later a German submarine made its way through the straits of Gibraltar, succeeded in torpedoing the British battleship Triumph and the Majestic and Agamemnon. British submarines also distinguished themselves, and several passed through the Narrows and sank a number of Turkish transports, causing a great shortage of ammunition among the defenders. Turkish troops are also reported to have taken part in the recent fighting in the Balkans, having made a junction with the Bulgarian forces.

ITALY AND THE WAR.

Some of the fiercest fighting of the war has taken place on the Austro-Italian front, where close range artillery battles and desperate hand-to-hand fighting in mountain passes have entailed enormous loss of life. Italy entered the war on May 23, but for nearly six weeks her operations were mostly strategic movements of troops designed to prevent the Austrians from invading Lombardy. Until she had made certain that the defences of her frontier were reasonably safe from attack, Italy could not take the offensive. Then she had to concentrate large forces on the plains of Venetia to support attacks which were launched against the Trentino-Tyrol fortifications, so as to keep the Austrian garrisons bottled up there while the main offensive was directed against the Isonzo front. Austria made no attempt to defend the west bank of the Isonzo, but withdrew her forces immediately to the eastern bank of the river. On May 25, two days after the declaration of war, the Italians crossed the frontier and established themselves on the highways leading to Tolmino and Goeritz, which was the main Italian objective.

Then they struck at the Drave Valley and Istria, which offer a more promising road into Austria than the main range of the Tyrolean Alps that lead directly to Vienna. The obstacle offered by the Julian Alps was far less formidable, and the advance toward Trieste was pushed, despite the excellent fortifications that the Austrians had established on the other side of the Isonzo River. By the beginning of June the Italian forces had found a weak spot in the Austrian defences and had taken Monte Nero by assault. This height commands several important passes and is in the rear of the Isonzo line. This success enabled the Italians to throw their right wing forward on the coast and capture Monfalcone, one of Austria's naval stations on the Adriatic, with its big shipyards and docks. Already the Italians were in sight of Trieste, and their next success was the capture of Gradisca, on June 10, which permitted them to concentrate all their forces at this portion of the front for an attack on Goeritz, the main Austrian stronghold of the Isonzo line. A spirited attack by the Italians cut the Austrian line near Plava, and, with the aid of forces from Monte Nero, Tolmino was invested and its surrender forced early in July. Goeritz then became the target for which the Italian forces aimed, but its magnificent natural defences and elaborate intrenchments rendered it almost impregnable. Italy attacked on a threefold plan. She bombarded the approaches of the fortress, and reduced Podgora and the Monte Sabino, within less than four miles of Goeritz; she struck out from Plava with an infantry movement designed to envelop the fortress, and lastly she launched a general attack, preceded by the concentrated fire of hundreds of pieces of heavy artillery, followed by an infantry attack on the western edge of the Plateau of Carso, which lies immediately southeast of Goeritz and extends almost to the outskirts of Trieste. Fighting of the most desperate character ensued all along this front, and although at the beginning of December it seemed that Goeritz must finally fall, and that the Italian forces would be able to advance to cut off and capture Trieste, the Austrians have managed to prevent the actual capture of the city.

WAR IN THE BALKANS.

On Friday, August 13, news reached London that an Austro-German army of more than 300,000 men was massing at a point on the Serbian frontier, and it was asserted that the Kaiser was about to strike a blow at Serbia in order to improve Teuton prospects in the Balkans, where Roumania and Greece had been reported as waiting a favorable opportunity to join the allies. The great German victories in Russia, following the fall of Warsaw, had, however, caused the Balkan kingdoms to waver, and Bulgaria was said to have strong pro-German leanings. On August 16 the Austro-German army crossed the frontier and began a bombardment of Belgrade. This led to a crisis in the Greek Parliament, where the Venizelos party caused the downfall of the Cabinet, which supported the King's attitude of strict neutrality which he had promised his consort, who is the sister of the Kaiser, that he would maintain. On August 21 Serbia made it known that in accordance with the advice of the allies she was willing to grant the demands of Bulgaria for the return of territory taken in the last Balkan War, and for a time it seemed that Bulgaria would enter the war on the side of the allies. However, on September 19, inspired articles appeared in the German papers saying that Bulgaria would be won over to the central empires and that Germany would establish an unbroken line of armies from the Baltic to the Bosporus. Serbia was to be crushed as Belgium had been. On September 23 Bulgaria mobilized her forces, and two days later Greece took a similar step. German officers made their appearance in Sofia in uniform and began to take over command of the Bulgarian army. This led Russia, on October 4, to send an ultimatum to Bulgaria demanding the expulsion of the Germans from Bulgarian army commands within twenty-four hours, but King Ferdinand sent no reply. The next day, on the invitation of Premier Venizelos, the allies began landing troops at Salonica to go to the assistance of Serbia. Immediately the King of Greece dismissed Venizelos and protested to the allies against the landing of troops on Greek territory. Bulgaria sent an ultimatum to Serbia demanding compliance with her Macedonian pretension within twenty-four hours, and at the same time 400,000 Austro-German troops began pouring into Serbia from the north. They were momentarily checked, and a portion of their advance guard was annihilated before Belgrade by a spirited Serbian attack. On the 10th of October Belgrade was occupied by the invaders, and on October 13 three Bulgarian armies invaded Serbia. This led Great Britain to declare war on Bulgaria, and the landing of allied forces at Salonica was continued at the rate of 12,000 to 14,000 a day; but, despite all their efforts, they were too late to save Serbia, which was rapidly overrun by the invaders. On October 20 Italy declared war on Bulgaria, thus further reducing the possibility of maintaining the existing "peace" status with Germany. The situation in the Balkans was becoming a serious menace to the allies, and England offered to cede Cyprus to Greece if that country would fulfil its treaty obligations to defend Serbia, but this offer was rejected on October 23. The allied fleets which had been supporting the land operations at the Dardanelles bombarded the Bulgarian coast from the Aegean Sea. Some relief was afforded to the situation by the French effecting a junction with the Serbian forces and taking Strumitza, but on October 27 Lord Lansdowne announced in the House of Commons that Serbia could not hold out much longer, and on the following day the Austro-German and Bulgarian armies joined their forces and the Kaiser had made good his boast that his line would stretch unbroken from the Baltic to the Bosporus. Serbia was overrun, nearly its entire army being destroyed or taken prisoners, and the allied forces on the spot by the middle of December did not exceed 150,000, and were outnumbered at least four to one by the Austro-German-Bulgarian contingents. Italy, however, is believed to have landed a large force in Albania, and the Czar is striking at Bulgaria from the east; but these movements are hidden behind a veil of strict censorship. If the combined Anglo-French-Russian and Italian forces succeed in cutting the Kaiser's extended line, Constantinople will fall and the iron ring around Germany will be closed tighter than ever. If the Kaiser resists their efforts, on the other hand, he will be able to throw perhaps a million men, including the German-officered Turkish armies, against Egypt, the very keystone of the British Empire.

THE BUTCHER'S BILL.

Experience has shown that nations organized on a military basis and resorting to conscription can place in the field a total fighting force—including active armies and reserves of all kinds—equal to one-tenth of the total population. As each year the number of males attaining a fighting age is approximately 2 per cent. of the population, it is not an exaggeration to say that in the case of nations such as Germany and France their total available fighting forces are equal to 12 per cent. of what their population was when the war broke out, less the losses so far incurred. This percentage, however, is too high in the case of some of the other nations at war, and in the following table an effort is made to arrive at the actual number of men available on both sides in the great war:

	Population.	Basis.	Man-Power.
Germany	65,000,000	12%	7,800,000
Austria-Hungary	50,000,000	10%	5,000,000
Turkey	20,000,000	8%	1,600,000
Bulgaria	5,000,000	8%	400,000
Total man-power of Kaiser's forces.			14,800,000
France	40,000,000	12%	4,800,000
Russia	165,000,000	8%	13,200,000
England	45,000,000	10%	4,500,000
Canada-Australia	13,000,000	6%	750,000
Italy	35,000,000	10%	3,500,000
Belgium	7,500,000	....	250,000
Serbia	5,000,000	....	250,000
Montenegro	500,000	....	50,000
Japan	50,000,000	....	1,000,000
Total man-power of the allies			28,300,000

Thus the total man-power of the combatants exceeds 40,000,000, with the allies almost twice as powerful as the central empires. But great as has been the theatre of the war, it has not been possible for any one of the powers to use all of their men in the field. Space, transportation, supplies, equipment and officers have been alike lacking for the handling of such vast numbers of men. Germany has probably never had more than 3,500,000 men in arms at one time, Austria may have had 2,000,000, Turkey about 700,000 and Bulgaria possibly as many as 300,000. This would give a total war footing for the central empires of about 6,500,000 and a reserve of 8,300,000, less losses. Now, actual experience in this war has shown that the losses of armies in the field are about 10 per cent. per month, but that some 40 per cent. of the total casualties finally return to the firing line when medical relief is as prompt as it has been on the western front. This makes the net wastage of armies in the field 6 per cent. per month. Germany's net losses, on the basis of seventeen months' fighting, would therefore be slightly in excess of 100 per cent. of her armies in the field, or 3,500,000 men; Austria's losses have certainly been heavier in proportion on account of the large number of prisoners taken by the Russians and the heavy losses on the Italian front, but they probably do not exceed 2,500,000; Turkey's losses for fourteen months' fighting would be a little less than 500,000, and it is known that in the last two months the Bulgarians have lost more than 50,000. On the 1st of January, therefore, Germany, with a field army of 3,500,000 men, will have 800,000 men in reserve; Austria, with a field army of 2,000,000, will have about 500,000 in reserve; Turkey, with a field army of 700,000, will have 400,000 in reserve, and Bulgaria, with forces of 300,000, will not have more than 50,000 to fall back upon. This places the total man-power of the Kaiser's forces, counting Germany, Austria-Hungary, Turkey and Bulgaria, on the 1st of January, 1916, at an actual fighting force of 6,500,000 men, with 1,750,000 in reserve. If we apply the same calculations to the allies, leaving Japan out of consideration, we know that France has never had more than 2,000,000 in the field at any one time, Russia probably never had more than 2,500,000, England has but recently brought her field forces up to 1,000,000, and Italy is maintaining hers at about the same figure, making due allowance for troops that she may have landed within the past two weeks in the Balkans. Belgium had 250,000 under arms at the outset, as did Serbia. The total field armies of the allies have probably never at any one time exceeded 6,500,000, which is virtually the same field strength as the central empires; but deducting the casualties, there is an overwhelming surplus of reserves on the side of the allies. France must have lost at least 2,000,000 men to date, England's casualties are known to be 600,000, and Russia's have been much higher in proportion than those of the other nations, but they have not exceeded 4,000,000. Italy is credibly reported to have lost half a million men, and the Belgian and Serbian armies have been all but wiped out. The total losses of the allies have certainly not been inferior to 7,500,000. On this basis France, on the 1st of January, with a field army of 2,000,000 men, will have 800,000 in reserve, the same number as Germany. England, with 1,000,000 in the field, will have nearly 3,500,000 in reserve; Russia, if she maintains her army at a 2,500,000 strength, will still have 6,800,000 in reserve, and Italy, with 1,000,000 in the field, will have 2,000,000 in reserve. This will give the allies a total field force of about 6,500,000, with more than 13,000,000 men in reserve. With the actual fighting forces in the field approximately equal—that is, allowing 6,500,000 for the central empires and Turkey and Bulgaria, and 6,500,000 for the allies—the former will have reserves of not more than 1,750,000, as against the latter's 13,000,000. At the present rate of slaughter, with a minimum wastage of 6 per cent. on 6,500,000 men, or nearly 400,000 men a month on each side, the central empires will have used up all of their reserves by the middle of May, 1916. But if England throws another million men into the field, and the Czar carries out the expectations of his allies and raises an army of five or six million men, the Spring of 1916 will find Germany hopelessly outnumbered as well as entirely destitute of reserves.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

IN the United States women possess suffrage upon equal terms with men at all elections in Wyoming, established in 1869; in Colorado, in 1893; in Utah, in 1896; in Idaho, in 1896; in Washington, in 1910; in California, in 1911; in Arizona, Kansas, and Oregon, in 1912; and in Nevada and Montana, in 1914. During 1913 the Territorial Legislature of Alaska granted full suffrage to women, and the State Legislature of Illinois extended all the franchise rights within its power to bestow, namely, for all the offices not created by the State Constitution.

Women have school suffrage in Connecticut, Delaware, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Vermont, Wisconsin, and Alaska. In Iowa women may vote at all school or municipal elections upon any proposition to vote bonds or increase the tax levies.

Abroad, women have full Parliamentary suffrage in Australia, New Zealand, the Isle of Man, Finland, Norway, Denmark, and Iceland. They have municipal suffrage on the same terms as men throughout the British Isles and in Sweden, and a certain measure of municipal franchise rights in nine of the provinces of Canada, and in the cities of Belize in British Honduras, Rangoon in Burmah, and Baroda and Bombay in British India. In certain districts of Austria, Germany, Hungary, and Russia women who own property are allowed to cast their votes on various communal matters either in their own persons or through proxies. In Belgium, Bulgaria, France, Italy, the Netherlands, Roumania, and Switzerland women have no political rights whatever, but are permitted to vote for certain administrative boards—educational, philanthropic, correctional or industrial.

The women who voted in Chicago at the primaries February 24, 1915, showed their party affiliations as follows: For Mayor, 93,965 Democrats, 59,734 Republicans, 824 Progressives, and 227 Socialists, a total of 154,750. This is a larger vote than was polled by the men at the primaries of the last three years. Of the total registered vote of 769,106 in April, 1915, 282,291 were women.

DURING 1915 THE WOMAN SUFFRAGE QUESTION WAS ACTED UPON AS FOLLOWS:

January 12—The proposed Constitutional Amendment giving nation-wide suffrage to women was rejected in the United States House of Representatives by a vote of 204 to 174.

January 26—The West Virginia Legislature voted by large majorities to submit a woman-suffrage amendment at the 1916 election.

February 1—The New Jersey Assembly passed the resolution proposing an amendment for suffrage by the unanimous vote of the 57 members present.

February 3—The resolution providing for the submission of the question to the electorate of New York went through the Assembly by a unanimous vote.

February 4—The New York Senate unanimously approved the amendment passed by the House.

February 4—The Massachusetts Senate adopted a suffrage measure on its second passage through the Legislature.

February 4—The North Carolina House rejected an amendment.

February 5—The Arkansas House adopted an amendment previously passed in the Senate.

February 9—The resolution to submit to the voters the amendment in Pennsylvania was passed finally in the House by a vote of 130 to 71.

February 12—The Vermont Senate passed without debate a bill extending the franchise to women at town and city elections and for Presidential Electors.

February 12—The Iowa Senate adopted the amendment.

February 16—The Judiciary General Committee of the Senate of Pennsylvania voted to postpone consideration of the suffrage resolution.

February 16—The amendment was passed in the Massachusetts House by a vote of 196 to 33.

February 16—By a vote of 24 to 28 the South Dakota Senate rejected the bill previously passed by the House granting women the right to vote on municipal issues and for State and county officers not named in the Constitution as "Constitutional Officers."

February 16—The New Jersey Senate adopted amendment to be submitted to the voters, 17 to 4.

February 18—The Secretary of the State of New York signed the joint resolution of the Senate and Assembly submitting the resolution to the voters.

February 20—Limited suffrage for women was approved by the Indiana Senate. The bill was made a party measure by the Democratic majority and was adopted under suspension of the rules within five minutes after it was reported out of committee.

February 23—A favorable committee report to the Delaware House and Senate was made.

March 2—By a vote of 8 to 7 the Pennsylvania Senate Judiciary General Committee reported out the amendment resolution.

March 6—The Governor of Iowa signed the proposed amendment.

March 6—The proposed amendment was defeated in the Texas House by 90 to 32.

March 9—Both Houses of the Delaware Legislature killed separate bills. House voted 22 to 8; Senate 11 to 6.

March 15—The Pennsylvania Senate passed by a vote of 37 to 11 the joint resolution to submit the question to the voters.

March 17—Bill passed Maine Senate.

March 23—Bill failed to pass in the Maine House. The vote in favor was 88 to 59.

March 24—The Rhode Island House, by a vote of 65 to 31, sustained a committee's recommendation that action on a bill granting right to women to vote for Presidential Electors be postponed indefinitely.

March 25—Woman suffrage was killed in the Connecticut House by a unanimous vote.

March 30—Women watchers at the polls during the balloting on the amendment in New Jersey were permitted under the terms of a bill approved by the Governor.

April 8—Bill rejected in Connecticut House, 124 to 106.

April 20—The Lower House of Wisconsin rejected the Bradley resolution to submit the question to a vote of the people.

April 22—The Governor of New Jersey signed the bill providing for a special election on October 19 for the submission of the amendment to the voters.

April 23—The Danish Diet adopted an amendment to the Constitution giving the vote to women and conferring upon them the right of election to the Diet.

April 26—The Lower House of Florida rejected the resolution to submit the question to the voters in 1916.

May 3—The New Jersey Legislature passed a new bill ordering an election on the suffrage amendment and two similar amendments on October 19.

June 5—The Danish Parliament unanimously passed a new Constitution which conferred suffrage on women.

June 19—The King of Denmark signed a bill granting full suffrage to Iceland's women.

July 2—The Wisconsin Senate, by a vote of 17 to 14, refused to reconsider its vote in killing the Grell resolution.

October 11—Women voted for the first time in Norway.

October 19—Woman suffrage was defeated at the special election in New Jersey.

November 2—Woman suffrage was defeated in Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and New York.

MAN-SUFFRAGE ASSOCIATION OPPOSED TO POLITICAL SUFFRAGE FOR WOMEN.

Chairman, Everett P. Wheeler; Treasurer, Louis T. Romaine; Secretary, Franklin Carter, Jr. Headquarters, 27 William Street, New York City.

"This society organized in 1913 for the purpose of showing to legislative committees and the people generally that the giving of political suffrage to women generally would draw their interest and attention from home duties which they alone can discharge, would bring selfish and artful women to the front, attract them by political prizes, and tend to produce freak legislation. We call ourselves the Home Rule party."

MEN'S ANTI-SUFFRAGE LEAGUE OF NEW JERSEY.

President, Col. Wm. Libbey, Princeton, N. J.; Vice-President, Edward Q. Keasbey, Morristown, N. J.; Secretary, Walter C. Ellis, 25 Edgar Street, East Orange, N. J.; Treasurer, John C. Eisele, 191 Ballantine Parkway, Newark, N. J.

"The purpose in the minds of the men of this organization is to exempt the women of New Jersey from the burden of a political responsibility, which, on investigation, we find a vast majority do not desire. We are not opposed to women. We are for women, and in opposing the entrance of women in politics we know we are representing the interests and wishes of 80 per cent. of the women of this State."

NEW YORK STATE WOMAN SUFFRAGE PARTY.

Chairman, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, 2 West Eighty-sixth Street.; Vice-Chairman, Mrs. Norman De R. Whitehouse.

NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC LEAGUE OF CLUBS.

PRESIDENT, Frank S. Clark, Indianapolis, Ind.; Secretary, William C. Liller, Indianapolis, Ind.; Treasurer, C. Arthur Haulenbeck, Jr., Manhattan, Kan.

The National Democratic League of Clubs is engaging actively in the work of adding to the Democratic vote in the nation. Its labors are purely a party work, aiming simply at the increase of Democratic strength. The league exists as a vote-getting auxiliary of the regular Democratic organizations, and its success depends upon the hearty co-operation of Democrats throughout the country. It is the aim and endeavor of the National Democratic League of Clubs to aid in work of organization and to help the regular organizations to achieve greater success.

The league is a union or federation of Democratic clubs and associations, in all parts of the country. It is now in its seventh year. At the bi-annual meeting held in Washington, D. C., December 3-4, 1912, thirty-three States of the Union were represented. Its management is intrusted to a board of directors composed of some of the foremost men in the party, who take an active interest in its success.

The National Democratic League of Clubs is not organized for the purpose of either advocating or opposing any Democrat before he shall have been chosen by the constituted bodies or of furthering the interests of any man or set of men, before being indorsed by the party, but for the attainment and preservation of unity, the upbuilding of the party, and the promotion of its principles and welfare. Nor is it intended that any club or the League of Clubs shall usurp the functions of the several State, county or district committees, but rather work in harmony and in co-operation with them.

The National Democratic League of Clubs aims:

To make loyal Democrats of young men who are about to cast their first votes.

To explain clearly to the foreign-born voters the practical helpfulness and patriotic purposes of the Democratic party, and to enlist the new-made citizen in its ranks, thus making them good Democrats and therefore better Americans.

To confirm in the wavering an inclination toward Democracy and to make a habit of party realty.

To preach early and late, day in and day out, the politics of Jefferson and Jackson.

To enlist voters, regardless of previous party affiliations, in the cause of Democracy, by every honorable means.

State Leagues or Federations of Democratic clubs, co-operating with the National League, have been organized in forty of the States and have a membership in excess of 875,000. Affiliated clubs have been organized in every State.

The league has headquarters in Indianapolis, Ind., and at Washington, D. C.

DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION 1916 TO BE HELD IN ST. LOUIS, MO., BEGINNING WEDNESDAY, JUNE 14.

DELEGATES TO THE REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION.

The basis of representation in the next National convention is very accurately described in the resolution adopted by the National Committee, which has since been ratified.

Each State shall be entitled in such convention to four Delegates-at-Large:

Two additional Delegates-at-Large for each Representative-at-Large in Congress elected from any State entitled to one or more additional Representatives in Congress under the apportionment made in accordance with the last census, but in which State no new Congressional district has been provided by law;

One delegate from each Congressional district;

An additional delegate for each Congressional district in which the vote for any Republican elector in 1908, or for the Republican nominee for Congress in 1914, shall have been not less than seven thousand five hundred (7,500);

Provided, however, that the total number of delegates to which any State is entitled, shall be chosen from the State at large, if the law of the State in which the election occurs so prescribes; and Provided, further, that in the case of any State electing all Representatives in Congress from the State at large, such State shall be entitled to as many delegates, elected at large, as though the State were divided into separate Congressional districts.

For each delegate chosen, an alternate, to act in the absence of the delegate, shall be chosen in the manner prescribed in the call for the convention; provided, however, that if the law of any State prescribes the method of choosing alternates they shall be chosen in accordance with the provisions of the law of the State in which the election occurs.

Alaska and the District of Columbia shall each be entitled to two delegates; Hawaii, Porto Rico, and the Philippine Islands shall each be entitled to two delegates without the right to a vote, and all delegates and alternates from the Territories and Territorial possessions shall be chosen in the manner prescribed in the call for the convention.

REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION 1916 TO BE HELD IN CHICAGO, ILL., BEGINNING WEDNESDAY, JUNE 7.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA GOVERNMENT.

The municipal government of the District of Columbia is vested by act of Congress approved June 11, 1878, in three Commissioners, two of whom are appointed by the President from citizens of the District having had three years' residence therein immediately preceding that appointment, and confirmed by the Senate. The other Commissioner is detailed by the President of the United States from the Corps of Engineers of the United States Army, and must have lineal rank senior to Captain, or be a Captain who has served at least fifteen years in the Corps of Engineers of the Army. The Commissioners appoint nearly all the subordinate official service of said government, except the Board of Education, which is appointed by the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. Commissioners Oliver P. Newman and Louis Brownlow (Democrats), whose terms expire July 19, 1916, and January 22, 1918, respectively, and Major Charles W. Kutz (non-partisan), Corps of Engineers, United States Army, detailed during the pleasure of the President of the United States; Secretary, Daniel J. Donovan, $2,400 per annum; Auditor, Alonzo Tweedale, $4,000; Collector of Taxes, Ben L. Prince, $4,000; Assessor, Wm. P. Richards, $4,000; Corporation Counsel, Conrad H. Syme, $4,500; Superintendent of Schools, Ernest L. Thurston, $6,000; Superintendent of Insurance, Chas. F. Nesbit, $3,500; Health Officer, Wm. C. Woodward, $4,000; Major and Superintendent of Police, Raymond Pullman, $4,000; Chief of Fire Department, Frank J. Wagner, $3,500. Offices of Commissioners, District Building, Washington, D. C.

The Judiciary—Court of Appeals: Chief Justice, Seth Shepard; Associate Justices, Charles H. Robb, J. A. van Orsdel. Supreme Court: Chief Justice, J. Harry Covington; Associate Justices, Thomas H. Anderson, Ashley M. Gould, Walter I. McCoy, Wendell P. Stafford, Frederick L. Siddons.

THE PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION OF 1916.

THE next Presidential election will take place on Tuesday, November 7, 1916.

The President and Vice-President of the United States are chosen by officials termed "Electors" in each State, who are, under existing State laws, chosen by the qualified voters thereof by ballot, on the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November in every fourth year preceding the year in which the Presidential term expires.

The Constitution of the United States prescribes that each State shall "appoint," in such manner as the Legislature thereof may direct, a number of electors equal to the whole number of Senators and Representatives to which the State may be entitled in Congress; but no Senator or Representative or person holding an office of trust or profit under the United States shall be an elector. The Constitution requires that the day when electors are chosen shall be the same throughout the United States. At the beginning of our Government most of the electors were chosen by the Legislatures of their respective States, the people having no direct participation in their choice; and one State, South Carolina, continued that practice down to the breaking out of the civil war. But in all the States now the electors are, under the direction of State laws, chosen by the people on a general State ticket.

The manner in which the chosen electors meet and ballot for a President and Vice-President of the United States is provided for in Article XII. of the Constitution, and is as follows:

The electors shall meet in their respective States, and vote by ballot for President and Vice-President, one of whom, at least, shall not be an inhabitant of the same State with themselves; they shall name in their ballots the person voted for as President, and in distinct ballots the person voted for as Vice-President; and they shall make distinct lists of all persons voted for as President, and of all persons voted for as Vice-President, and of the number of votes for each, which lists they shall sign and certify, and transmit, sealed, to the seat of government of the United States, directed to the President of the Senate.

The same article then prescribes the mode in which the Congress shall count the ballots of the electors, and announce the result thereof, which is as follows:

The President of the Senate shall, in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the certificates, and the votes shall then be counted; the person having the greatest number of votes for President shall be President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if no person have such majority, then from the persons having the highest numbers, not exceeding three, on the list of those voted for as President, the House of Representatives shall choose immediately, by ballot, the President. But in choosing the President the votes shall be taken by States, the representation from each State having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the States, and a majority of all the States shall be necessary to a choice. And if the House of Representatives shall not choose a President, whenever the right of choice shall devolve upon them, before the fourth day of March next following, then the Vice-President shall act as President, as in the case of the death or other constitutional disability of the President. The person having the greatest number of votes as Vice-President shall be the Vice-President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if no person have a majority, then from the two highest numbers on the list the Senate shall choose the Vice-President; a quorum for the purpose shall consist of two-thirds of the whole number of Senators, and a majority of the whole number shall be necessary to a choice.

The procedure o the two houses, in case the returns of the election of electors from any State are disputed, is provided in the "Electoral Count" act, passed by the Forty-ninth Congress. The act directs that the Presidential electors shall meet and give their votes on the second Monday in January next following their election. It fixes the time when Congress shall be in session to count the ballots as the second Wednesday in February succeeding the meeting of the electors.

The Constitution also defines who is eligible for President of the United States, as follows:

No person except a natural-born citizen or a citizen of the United States at the time of the adoption of this Constitution shall be eligible to the office of President; neither shall any person be eligible to that office who shall not have attained to the age of thirty-five years.

The qualifications for Vice-President are the same.

THE DETERMINATION OF THE RESULT OF THE 1912 PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION WAS AS FOLLOWS:

Feb. 12, 1913, the two houses being assembled in the Hall of the House of Representatives for the count of the electoral vote, and the count having been duly made and certified to, and the announcement thereof made to the two houses assembled, the statement of the Tellers closed in these words:

"This announcement of the state of the vote by the President of the Senate shall be deemed a SUFFICIENT DECLARATION OF THE PERSONS ELECTED PRESIDENT AND VICE-PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES, each for the term beginning March 4, 1913, and shall be entered, together with a list of the votes, on the Journals of the Senate and the House of Representatives.

"The count of the electoral vote having been completed, and the result announced, the joint meeting of the two houses was dissolved, and

"The Senate returned to its Chamber."

SALARY OF THE PRESIDENT.

The salary of the President of the United States was the cause of discussion in the First Congress, in view of the fact that the Constitution declared that the President should receive compensation for his services. Washington had notified his fellow citizens that he desired no salary. The limits suggested in Congress ranged from $15,000 to $70,000. The salary was finally placed at $25,000 and this remained the compensation until President Grant's second term (March 3, 1873), when it was increased to $50,000. Chapter 2918 of the Laws of the Second Session of the Fifty-ninth Congress, approved March 4, 1907, appropriated "for travelling expenses of the President of the United States, to be expended at his discretion and accounted for by his certificate solely, $25,000." In the Second Session of the Sixtieth Congress the matter of increasing the President's salary was again considered, and it was decided that the President's salary be fixed at $75,000 a year.

Presidential Elections.

NOTE.—There is, properly speaking, no popular vote for President and Vice-President; the people vote for electors, and those chosen in each State meet therein and vote for the candidates for President and Vice-President. The record of any popular vote for electors prior to 1828 is so meagre and imperfect that a compilation would be useless. In most of the States, for more than a quarter century following the establishment of the Government, the State Legislatures "appointed" the Presidential electors, and the people therefore voted only indirectly for them, their choice being expressed by their votes for members of the Legislature. In this tabulation only the aggregate electoral votes for candidates for President and Vice-President in the first ten quadrennial elections appear.

ELECTORAL VOTES.

1789. Previous to 1804, each elector voted for two candidates for President. The one who received the largest number of votes was declared President, and the one who received the next largest number of votes was declared Vice-President. The electoral votes for the first President of the United States were: George Washington, 69; John Adams, of Massachusetts, 34; John Jay, of New York, 9; R. H. Harrison, of Maryland, 6; John Rutledge, of South Carolina, 6; John Hancock, of Massachusetts, 4; George Clinton, of New York, 3; Samuel Huntington, of Connecticut, 2; John Milton, of Georgia, 2; James Armstrong, of Georgia; Benjamin Lincoln, of Massachusetts, and Edward Telfair, of Georgia, 1 vote each. Vacancies (votes not cast), 4. George Washington was chosen President and John Adams Vice-President.

1792. George Washington, Federalist, received 132 votes; John Adams, Federalist, 77; George Clinton, of New York, Republican (s), 50; Thomas Jefferson, of Virginia, Republican, 4; Aaron Burr, of New York, Republican, 1 vote. Vacancies, 3. George Washington was chosen President and John Adams Vice-President.

1796. John Adams, Federalist, 71; Thomas Jefferson, Republican, 68; Thomas Pinckney, of South Carolina, Federalist, 59; Aaron Burr, of New York, Republican, 30; Samuel Adams, of Massachusetts, Republican, 15; Oliver Ellsworth, of Connecticut, Independent, 11; George Clinton, of New York, Republican, 7; John Jay, of New York, Federalist, 5; James Iredell, of North Carolina, Federalist, 3; George Washington, of Virginia; John Henry, of Maryland, and S. Johnson, of North Carolina, all Federalists, 2 votes each; Charles Cotesworth Pinckney, of South Carolina, Federalist, 1 vote. John Adams was chosen President and Thomas Jefferson Vice-President.

1800. Thomas Jefferson, Republican, 73; Aaron Burr, Republican, 73; John Adams, Federalist, 65; Charles C. Pinckney, Federalist, 64; John Jay, Federalist, 1 vote. There being a tie vote for Jefferson and Burr, the choice devolved upon the House of Representatives. Jefferson received the votes of ten States, which, being the largest vote cast for a candidate, elected him President. Burr received the votes of four States, which, being the next largest vote, elected him Vice-President. There were 2 blank votes.

1804. The Constitution of the United States having been amended, the electors at this election voted for a President and a Vice-President, instead of for two candidates for President. The result was as follows: For President, Thomas Jefferson, Republican, 162; Charles C. Pinckney, Federalist, 14. For Vice-President, George Clinton, Republican, 162; Rufus King, of New York, Federalist, 14. Jefferson was chosen President and Clinton Vice-President.

1808. For President, James Madison, of Virginia, Republican, 122; Charles C. Pinckney, of South Carolina, Federalist, 47; George Clinton, of New York, Republican, 6. For Vice-President, George Clinton, Republican, 113; Rufus King, of New York, Federalist, 47; John Langdon, of New Hampshire, 9; James Madison, 3; James Monroe, 3. Vacancy, 1. Madison was chosen President and Clinton Vice-President.

1812. For President, James Madison, Republican, 128; De Witt Clinton, of New York, Federalist, 89. For Vice-President, Elbridge Gerry, of Massachusetts, 131; Jared Ingersoll, of Pennsylvania, Federalist, 86. Vacancy, 1. Madison was chosen President and Gerry Vice-President.

NOTES TO THE TABLES OF THE PRESIDENTS, ON THE TWO PRECEDING PAGES.

* Monroe abandoned the profession of law when a young man, and was afterward, and until his election, always holding public office. † Jackson called himself a South Carolinian, and his biographer, Kendall, recorded his birthplace in Lancaster Co., S. C.; but Parton has published documentary evidence to show that Jackson was born in Union Co., N. C., less than a quarter mile from the South Carolina line. ‡ Or of departure from college.

§ Widows. Their maiden names are in parentheses. ‖ She was the divorced wife of Captain Robards. (a) The Democratic party of to-day claims lineal descent from the first Republican party, and President Jefferson as its founder. (b) Political parties were disorganized at the time of the election of John Quincy Adams. He claimed to be a Republican, but his doctrines were decidedly Federalistic. The opposition to his Administration took the name of Democrats, and elected Jackson President.

(c) Randall, the biographer of Jefferson, declares that he was a believer in Christianity, although not a sectarian. (d) While President Johnson was not a church-member, he was a Christian believer. His wife was a Methodist.

Washington's first inauguration was in New York, and his second in Philadelphia. Adams was inaugurated in Philadelphia, and Jefferson and the Presidents following elected by the people, in the city of Washington. Arthur took the Presidential oath of office first in New York City. John Adams and Jefferson died on the same day, the Fourth of July, 1826, and Monroe died on the Fourth of July five years later. John Quincy Adams was a Representative and Andrew Johnson a Senator in Congress after the expiration of their Presidential terms, and both died while holding those offices. Tyler was a Representative in the Confederate Congress from Virginia, and died in office.

Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley were assassinated while in office. Lincoln at Ford's Theatre, Washington, D. C., April 14, 1865, from a pistol shot fired by John Wilkes Booth, who was killed near Fredericksburg, Va., April 26, 1865, by Sergeant Boston Corbett. Garfield was shot in the Pennsylvania Railroad Depot, Washington, D. C., July 2, 1881, and died at Elberon, Long Branch, N. J., September 19, 1881. The assassin was Charles Jules Guiteau, who was hanged at Washington, D. C., June 30, 1882. McKinley was shot twice September 6, 1901, while in the Temple of Music of the Pan-American Exposition, Buffalo, N. Y., and died from his wounds at the home of John G. Milburn, Buffalo, September 14, 1901. The assassin was Louis Czolgosz, who was electrocuted at Auburn State Prison, New York, October 29, 1901.

Jackson was shot at in the Capitol at Washington, D. C., January 29, 1835, by a house painter named Richard Lawrence, escaping because the pistol of the assassin missed fire. Ex-President Roosevelt was shot and wounded by John Schrank, an insane man, at Milwaukee, Wis., October 14, 1912.

Cleveland after taking the oath as President, kissed the open bible, his lips touching Psalm CXII., verses 5-10, inclusive. Garfield's first act after taking the oath was to kiss his mother.

The sixth President was the son of the second President, and the twenty-third President was the grandson of the ninth President. William Henry Harrison was the eighth and Benjamin Harrison the tenth in descent from Pocahontas and John Rolfe. Lincoln was the first President wearing a full beard. Grant the first wearing a mustache. Buchanan and Cleveland were bachelors when they entered the White House as Presidents, but Cleveland surrendered during his first term. Washington, Monroe, Pierce and Hayes were born on Friday. J. Q. Adams, Pierce and Garfield were inaugurated on Friday. Tyler, Polk and Pierce died on Friday. Lincoln was assassinated on Friday.

There were remarkable coincidences in the lives of Abraham Lincoln and Jefferson Davis. Both were born in Kentucky; Lincoln in 1809, Davis in 1808. Both removed from their native State in childhood, Lincoln to the Northwest, Davis to the Southwest. Lincoln was a Captain of Volunteers and Davis a Second Lieutenant of Regulars in the Black Hawk War of 1832. They began their political careers the same year, 1844, Lincoln being a Presidential Elector for Clay, and Davis for Polk. They were elected to Congress about the same time, 1845 and 1846. They were called to preside over their respective governments the same year and within a few days; Davis, February 8, 1861, Lincoln, March 4, 1861.

Washington, Monroe, and Jackson were soldiers in the Revolutionary war; Jackson, W. H. Harrison, Tyler, Taylor, and Buchanan in the war of 1812-15; Lincoln in the Black Hawk war; Taylor, Pierce, and Grant in the Mexican war; Grant, Hayes, Garfield, Arthur, B. Harrison, and McKinley in the Civil War, and Roosevelt was in the war with Spain. Adams and Jefferson were signers of the Declaration of Independence, and Washington and Madison of the Constitution.

Grant was christened Hiram Ulysses and Cleveland, Stephen Grover. W. H. Harrison was the oldest man elected to the Presidency, and Roosevelt the youngest, Grant being the next youngest by six months. Cleveland was the only President married in the White House, and his second daughter the only President's child born therein. Monroe's daughter (Mrs. Gouverneur), Tyler's daughter (Mrs. Waller), Grant's daughter (Mrs. Sartoris), Roosevelt's daughter (Mrs. Longworth) and Wilson's daughters, Jessie (Mrs. Sayre) and Eleanor (Mrs. McAdoo) were the only children of Presidents married therein. Wives of Tyler and Benjamin Harrison died in the White House. W. H. Harrison was father of the largest family, six sons and four daughters. Eight Presidents: Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, W. H. Harrison, Tyler, Taylor and Wilson were Virginians by birth. Six Presidents: Grant, Hayes, Garfield, B. Harrison, McKinley and Taft were Ohioans by birth.

PROPOSED CHANGE IN THE BEGINNING OF THE PRESIDENTIAL TERM.

On November 26, 1913, a sub-committee of the Judiciary Committee of the Senate reported to the Committee the following joint resolution changing the time of the beginning of the terms of the President and Vice-President of the United States, from March 4 to the second Monday in January.

"The terms of the President and Vice-President of the United States shall commence on the second Monday in January following the election of Presidential and Vice-Presidential electors, and such electors shall assemble at the Capitols of their respective States and cast their votes for President and Vice-President on the first Monday in December following their election.

"The terms of Senators and Representatives shall commence on the first Monday in January following their election.

"There shall be held two regular sessions of each Congress, convening on the first Monday of January each year."

TITLE AND TERM OF THE PRESIDENT.

The address of the President is simply "The President of the United States." In the First Congress, there was debate over a title and it was proposed by some members that he be addressed as "His Excellency" and by others as "His Highness," but a committee reported that "it is not proper to annex any style or title other than that expressed in the Constitution." In the Constitutional Convention the first report fixed the term of office at seven years without eligibility to re-election. In debate various periods from "during good behavior" to twenty years were favored. The limit to four years was finally adopted in grand committee and ratified by the convention.

THE PRESIDENTIAL SUCCESSION.

The Presidential succession is fixed by chapter 4 of the acts of the Forty-ninth Congress, first session. In case of the removal, death, resignation, or inability of both the President and Vice-President, then the Secretary of State shall act as President until the disability of the President or Vice-President is removed or a President is elected. If there be no Secretary of State, then the Secretary of the Treasury will act; and the remainder of the order of succession is as follows: The Secretary of War, Attorney-General, Postmaster-General, Secretary of the Navy, and Secretary of the Interior. The acting President must, upon taking office, convene Congress, if not at the time in session, in extraordinary session, giving twenty days' notice. This act applies only to such Cabinet officers as shall have been confirmed by the Senate and are eligible under the Constitution to the Presidency.

THE INTERCOLLEGIATE PROHIBITION ASSOCIATION.

This association was incorporated in 1901, is organized in 230 colleges and universities, and has an enrolled membership of 6,500. It conducts journalistic contests among colleges, preparing students to collect and write news related to the reform, to get into touch with the news organs, and to learn the value of publicity to this and other movements for social betterment. President—D. Leigh Colvin, New York City. Secretary—Harry S. Warner, 156 W. Washington Street, Chicago, Ill. Treasurer—Dr. Samuel Dickie, President of Albion College, Albion, Mich. The official organ is The Intercollegiate Statesman.

FIRE DEPARTMENT NEW YORK CITY.

Fire Commissioner Adamson in his annual report of 1914 gives some interesting figures on the size of New York City, the location of fires, and the causes of them. The total value of property protected by the department is stated as $10,264,050,715 and the number of buildings in the city as 375,037, divided as follows:

Tenements	100,504	Office buildings	1,169	Theatres	229
One-family houses	150,723	Factory buildings	5,290	Number of fires last year	14,425
Two-family houses	75,195	Stables and garages	14,283	Number in dwelling places	9,243
Hotels and elevator aparts.	2,747	Special structures, moving pictures, taxpayers, etc.	15,115	Number in other buildings	2,768
Warehouses	9,782			Number outside of buildings	2,414

Some causes of fires given by Fire Marshals:

Carelessness with cigars, cigarettes, and smoking pipes	1,342 fires	Children playing with matches or fire	755 fires	Defective insulation	472 fires
Careless use of candles and tapers	523 fires	Careless use of matches	1,248 fires	Hot ashes igniting woodwork	90 fires
		Overheated stoves, boilers, ranges, etc.	958 fires	Bonfires, brush fires, and rubbish fires	1,491 fires

National Platforms of Political Parties in 1912.

NATIONAL PLATFORM OF THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY ADOPTED AT BALTIMORE, MD., JULY 2, 1912.

We, the representatives of the Democratic party of the United States, in national convention assembled, reaffirm our devotion to the principles of Democratic government formulated by Thomas Jefferson and enforced by a long and illustrious line of Democratic Presidents.

Tariff Reform—We declare it to be a fundamental principle of the Democratic party that the Federal Government, under the Constitution, has no right or power to impose or collect tariff duties except for the purpose of revenue, and we demand that the collection of such taxes shall be limited to the necessities of government, honestly and economically administered.

The high Republican tariff is the principal cause of the unequal distribution of wealth; it is a system of taxation which makes the rich richer and the poor poorer; under its operations the American farmer and the laboring man are the chief sufferers; it raises the cost of the necessaries of life to them, but does not protect their product or wages. The farmer sells largely in free markets and buys almost entirely in the protected markets. In the most highly protected industries, such as cotton and wool, steel and iron, the wages of the laborers are the lowest paid in any of our industries. We denounce the Republican pretence on that subject and assert that American wages are established by competitive conditions and not by the tariff.

We favor the immediate downward revision of the existing high and, in many cases, prohibitive tariff duties, insisting that material reductions be speedily made upon the necessaries of life. Articles entering into competition with trust-controlled products and articles of American manufacture which are sold abroad more cheaply than at home, should be put upon the free list.

We recognize that our system of tariff taxation is intimately connected with the business of the country, and we favor the ultimate attainment of the principles we advocate by legislation that will not injure or destroy legitimate industry.

We denounce the action of President Taft in vetoing the bills to reduce the tariff in the cotton, woollen, metals and chemical schedules and the farmers' free list bill, all of which were designed to give immediate relief to the masses from the exactions of the trusts.

The Republican party, while promising tariff revision, has shown by its tariff legislation that such revision is not to be in the people's interest, and, having been faithless to its pledges of 1908, it should not longer enjoy the confidence of the Nation. We appeal to the American people to support us in our demand for a tariff for revenue only.

High Cost of Living—The high cost of living is a serious problem in every American home. The Republican party in its platform attempts to escape from responsibility for present conditions by denying that they are due to a protective tariff. We take issue with them on this subject and charge that excessive prices result in a large measure from the high tariff laws enacted and maintained by the Republican party and from trusts and commercial conspiracies fostered and encouraged by such laws, and we assert that no substantial relief can be secured for the people until import duties on the necessaries of life are materially reduced and these criminal conspiracies broken up.

Anti-Trust Law—A private monopoly is indefensible and intolerable. We therefore favor the vigorous enforcement of the criminal as well as the civil law against trusts and trust officials, and demand the enactment of such additional legislation as may be necessary to make it impossible for a private monopoly to exist in the United States.

We favor the declaration by law of the conditions upon which corporations shall be permitted to engage in interstate trade, including, among others, the prevention of holding companies, of interlocking directors, of stock watering, of discrimination in price, and the control by any one corporation of so large a proportion of any industry as to make it a menace to competitive conditions.

We condemn the action of the Republican Administration in compromising with the Standard Oil Company and the Tobacco Trust and its failure to invoke the criminal provisions of the anti-trust law against the officers of those corporations after the court had declared that, from the undisputed facts in the record, they had violated the criminal provisions of the law.

We regret that the Sherman Anti-Trust law has received a judicial construction depriving it of much of its efficiency, and we favor the enactment of legislation which will restore to the statute the strength of which it has been deprived by such interpretation.

Rights of the States—We believe in the preservation and maintenance in their full strength and integrity of the three co-ordinate branches of the Federal Government—the executive, the legislative, and the judicial—each keeping within its own bounds, and not encroaching upon the just powers of either of the others.

Believing that the most efficient results under our system of government are to be attained by the full exercise by the States of their reserved sovereign powers, we denounce as usurpation the efforts of our opponents to deprive the States of any of the rights reserved to them, and to enlarge and magnify by indirection the powers of the Federal Government.

We insist upon the full exercise of all the powers of the Government, both State and National, to protect the people from injustice at the hands of those who seek to make the Government a private asset in business. There is no twilight zone between the Nation and the State in which exploiting interests can take refuge from both. It is as necessary that the Federal Government shall exercise the powers reserved to them, but we insist that Federal remedies for the regulation of interstate commerce and for the prevention of private monopoly shall be added to, and not substituted for, State remedies.

Income Tax and Popular Election of Senators—We congratulate the country upon the triumph of two important reforms demanded in the last National platform, namely, the amendment of the Federal Constitution authorizing an income tax and the amendment providing for the popular election of Senators, and we call upon the people of all the States to rally to the support of the pending propositions and secure their ratification.

Publicity of Campaign Contributions—We note with gratification the unanimous sentiment in favor of publicity before the election of campaign contributions—a measure demanded in our National platform of 1908, and at that time opposed by the Republican party, and we commend the Democratic House of Representatives for extending the doctrine of publicity to recommendations, verbal and written, upon which Presidential appointments are made, to the ownership and control of newspapers and to the expenditures made by and in behalf of those who aspire to Presidential nominations, and we point for additional justification for this legislation to the enormous expenditures of money in behalf of the President and his predecessor in the recent Presidential contest for the Republican nomination for President.

Presidential Primaries—The movement toward more popular government should be promoted, through legislation, in each State which will permit the expression of the preference of the electors for National candidates at Presidential primaries.

We direct that the National Committee incorporate in the call for the next nominating convention a requirement that all expressions of preference for Presidential candidates shall be given and the selection of delegates and alternates made through a primary election conducted by the party organization in each State where such expression and election are not provided for by State law. Committeemen who are hereafter to constitute the membership of the Democratic National Committee, and whose election is not provided for by law, shall be chosen in each State at such primary elections, and the service and authority of committeemen, however chosen, shall begin immediately upon the receipt of their credentials, respectively.

Campaign Contributions—We pledge the Democratic party to the enactment of a law prohibiting any corporation from contributing to a campaign fund and any individual from contributing any amount above a reasonable maximum.

Term of President—We favor a single Presidential term, and to that end urge the adoption of an amendment to the Constitution making the President of the United States ineligible for re-election, and we pledge the candidate of this convention to this principle.

Record of the Democratic Congress—At this time, when the Republican party after a generation of unlimited power in its control of the Federal Government, is rent into factions, it is opportune to point to the record of accomplishment of the Democratic House of Representatives in the Sixty-second Congress. We indorse its action and we challenge comparison of its record with that of any Congress which has been controlled by our opponents.

We call the attention of the patriotic citizens of our country to its record of efficiency, economy and constructive legislation.

It has, among other achievements, revised the rules of the House of Representatives so as to give to the representatives of the American people freedom of speech and of action in advocating, proposing, and perfecting remedial legislation. It has passed bills for the relief of the people and the development of our country; it has endeavored to revise the tariff taxes downward in the interest of the consuming masses and thus to reduce the high cost of living; it has proposed an amendment to the Federal Constitution providing for the election of United States Senators by the direct vote of the people; it has secured the admission of Arizona and New Mexico as two sovereign States; it has required the publicity of campaign expenses, both before and after election, and fixed a limit upon the election expenses of United States Senators and Representatives.

It has also passed a bill to prevent the abuse of the writ of injunction; it has passed a law establishing an eight-hour day for workmen on all National public works; it has passed a resolution which forced the President to take immediate steps to abrogate the Russian treaty, and it has passed the great supply bills which lessen waste and extravagance and which reduce the annual expenses of the Government by many millions of dollars.

We approve the measure reported by the Democratic leaders in the House of Representatives for the creation of Council of a National Defence which will determine a definite naval programme with a view to increased efficiency and economy. The party that proclaimed and has always enforced the Monroe Doctrine and was sponsor for the new navy will continue faithfully to observe the constitutional requirements to provide and maintain an adequate and well-proportioned navy sufficient to defend American policies, protect our citizens, and uphold the honor and dignity of the Nation.

Republican Extravagance—We denounce the profligate waste of money wrung from the people by oppressive taxation through the lavish appropriations of recent Republican Congresses, which have kept taxes high and reduced the purchasing power of the people's toil. We demand a return to that simplicity and economy which befits a democratic government and a reduction in the number of useless offices, the salaries of which drain the substance of the people.

Railroad, Express Companies, Telegraph and Telephone Lines—We favor the efficient supervision and rate regulation of railroads, express companies, telegraph and telephone lines engaged in interstate commerce. To this end we recommend the valuation of railroads, express companies, telegraph and telephone lines by the Interstate Commerce Commission, such valuation to take into consideration the physical value of the property, the original cost, the cost or reproduction, and any element of value that will render the valuation fair and just.

We favor such legislation as will effectually prohibit the railroads, express, telegraph and telephone companies from engaging in business which brings them into competition with the shippers or patrons, also legislation preventing the overissue of stocks and bonds by interstate railroads, express companies, telegraph and telephone lines, and legislation which will assure such reduction in transportation rates as conditions will permit, care being taken to avoid reduction that would compel a reduction of wages, prevent adequate service, or do injustice to legitimate investments.

Banking Legislation—We oppose the so-called Aldrich bill, or the establishment of a Central bank, and we believe the people of the country will be largely freed from panics and consequent unemployment and business depression by such a systematic revision of our banking laws as will render temporary relief in localities where such relief is needed, with protection from control or domination by what is known as the Money Trust.

Banks exist for the accommodation of the public and not for the control of business. All legislation on the subject of banking and currency should have for its purpose the securing of these accommodations on terms of absolute security to the public and of complete protection from the misuse of the power that wealth gives to those who possess it.

We condemn the present methods of depositing Government funds in a few favored banks, largely situated in or controlled by Wall Street, in return for political favors, and we pledge our party to provide by law for their deposit by competitive bidding in the banking institutions of the country, National and State, without discrimination as to locality upon approved securities, and subject to call by the Government.

Rural Credits—Of equal importance with the question of currency reform is the question of rural credits or agricultural finance. Therefore we recommend that an investigation of agricultural credit societies in foreign countries be made, so that it may be ascertained whether a system of rural credits may be devised suitable to conditions in the United States, and we also favor legislation permitting National banks to loan a reasonable proportion of their funds on real estate security.

We recognize the value of vocational education, and urge Federal appropriations for such training and extension teaching in agricultural co-operation with the several States.

Waterways—We renew the declaration in our last platform relating to the conservation of our natural resources, and the development of our waterways. The present devastation of the lower Mississippi Valley accentuates the movement for the regulation of river flow by additional bank and levee protection below, and the diversion, storage, and control of the flood waters above, and their utilization for beneficial purposes in the reclamation of arid and swamp lands, and development of waterpower, instead of permitting the floods to continue as heretofore, agents of destruction.

We hold that the control of the Mississippi River is a National problem; the preservation of the depth of its waters for the purpose of navigation, the building of levees to maintain the integrity of its channel, and the prevention of the overflow of the land and its consequent devastation, resulting in the interruption of interstate commerce, the disorganization of the mail service and the enormous loss of life and property, impose an obligation which alone can be discharged by the general government.

To maintain an adequate depth of water the entire year, and thereby encourage water transportation, is a consummation worthy of legislative attention and presents an issue National in its character. It calls for prompt action on the part of Congress, and the Democratic party pledges itself to the enactment of legislation leading to that end.

We favor the co-operation of the United States and the respective States in plans for the comprehensive treatment of all waterways, with a view of co-ordinating plans for channel improvement with plans for drainage of swamps and overflowed lands, and to this end we favor the appropriation by the Federal Government of sufficient funds to make surveys of such lands, to develop plans for drainage of such lands, and to supervise the work of construction.

We favor the adoption of a liberal and comprehensive plan for the development and improvement of our inland waterways, with economy and efficiency, so as to permit their navigation by vessels of standard draught.

Post Roads—We favor National aid to State and local authorities in the construction and maintenance of post roads.

Rights of Labor—We repeat our declarations of the platform of 1908, as follows:

"The courts of justice are the bulwarks of our liberties, and we yield to none in our purpose to maintain their dignity. Our party has given to the bench a long line of distinguished justices who have added to the respect and confidence in which this department must be jealously maintained. We resent the attempt of the Republican party to raise a false issue respecting the judiciary. It is an unjust reflection upon a great body of our citizens to assume that they lack respect for the courts.

"It is the function of the courts to interpret the laws which the people enact, and if the laws appear to work economical, social or political injustice, it is our duty to change them. The only basis upon which the integrity of our courts can stand is that of unswerving justice and protection of life, personal liberty and property. If judicial processes may be abused, we should guard them against abuse.

"Experience has proved the necessity of a modification of the present law relating to injunction, and we reiterate the pledges of our platforms of 1896 and 1904 in favor of a measure which passed the United States Senate in 1896, relating to contempt in Federal Courts and providing for trial by jury in cases of indirect contempt.

"Questions of judicial practice have arisen, especially in connection with industrial disputes. We believe that the parties to all judicial proceedings should be treated with rigid impartiality and that injunctions should not be issued in any case in which an injunction would not issue if no industrial dispute were involved.

"The expanding organization of industry makes it essential that there should be no abridgement of the right of the wage-earners and the producers to organize for the protection of wages and the improvement of labor conditions, to the end that such labor organizations and their members should not be regarded as illegal combinations in restraint of trade."

We pledge the Democratic party to the enactment of a law creating a Department of Labor, represented separately in the President's Cabinet, in which department shall be included the subject of mines and mining.

We pledge the Democratic party, so far as the Federal jurisdiction extends, to an employés' compensation law providing adequate indemnity for injury to body or loss of life.

Conservation of National Resources—We believe in the conservation and the development, for the use of all the people, of the natural resources of the country. Our forests, our sources of water supply, our arable and our mineral lands, our navigable streams, and all the other material resources with which our country has been so lavishly endowed, constitute the foundation of our National wealth. Such additional legislation as may be necessary to prevent their being wasted or absorbed by special or privileged interests should be enacted and the policy of their conservation should be rigidly adhered to.

The public domain should be administered and disposed of with due regard to the general welfare. Reservations should be limited to the purposes which they purport to serve and not extended to include land wholly unsuited therefor. The unnecessary withdrawal from sale and settlement of enormous tracts of public land, upon which tree growth never existed and cannot be promoted, tends only to retard development, create discontent, and bring reproach upon the policy of conservation.

The Public Lands—The public land laws should be administered in a spirit of the broadest liberality toward the settler exhibiting a bona fide purpose to comply therewith, to the end that the invitation of this Government to the landless should be as attractive as possible; and the plain provisions of the forest reserve act permitting homestead entries to be made within the National forests should not be nullified by administrative regulations which amount to a withdrawal of great areas of the same from settlement.

Immediate action should be taken by Congress to make available the vast and valuable coal deposits of Alaska under conditions that will be a perfect guaranty against their falling into the hands of monopo zing corporations, associations, or interests.

Our Mineral Resources—We rejoice in the inheritance of mineral resources unequalled in extent, variety or value, and in the development of a mining industry unequalled in its magnitude and importance. We honor the men who, in their hazardous toil underground, daily risk their lives in extracting and preparing for our use the products of the mines, so e sential to the industries, the commerce, and the comfort of the people of this country. And we pledge ourselves to the extension of the work of the Bureau of Mines in every way appropriate for National legislation, with a view of safeguarding the lives of the miners, lessening the waste of essential resources, and promoting the economic development of mining, which, along with agriculture, must in the future even more than in the past, serve as the very foundation of our National prosperity and welfare and our international commerce.

Agriculture—We believe in encouraging the development of a modern system of agriculture and a systematic effort to improve the conditions of trade in farm products so as to benefit both the consumers and the producers. And as an efficient means to this end we favor the enactment by Congress of legislation that will suppress the pernicious practice of gambling in agricultural products by organized exchanges or others.

Merchant Marine—We believe in fostering by constitutional regulation of commerce the growth of a merchant marine, which shall develop and strengthen the commercial ties which bind us to our sister republics to the South, but without imposing additional burdens upon the people and without bounties or subsidies from the public treasury.

We urge upon Congress the speedy enactment of laws for the greater security of life and property at sea, and favor the repeal of all laws and the abrogation of so much of our treaties with other nations as provide for the arrest and imprisonment of seamen charged with desertion or with violation of their contract of service. Such laws and treaties are un-American, and violate the spirit, if not the letter, of the Constitution of the United States.

Panama Canal—We favor the exemption from tolls of American ships engaged in coastwise trade passing through the Panama Canal.

We also favor legislation forbidding the use of the Panama Canal by ships owned or controlled by railroad carriers engaged in transportation competitive with the canal.

Pure Food and Public Health—We reaffirm our previous declarations advocating the union and strengthening of the various governmental agencies relating to pure foods, quarantine, vital statistics and human health. Thus united and administered without partiality to or discrimination against any school of medicine or system of healing, they would constitute a single health service, not subordinated to any commercial or financial interest, but devoted exclusively to the conservation of human life and efficiency. Moreover, this health service should co-operate with the health agencies of our various States and cities without interference with their prerogatives, or with the freedom of individuals to employ such medical or hygienic aid as they may see fit.

Civil Service Law—The law pertaining to the civil service should be honestly and rigidly enforced, to the end that merit and ability should be the standard of appointment and promotion rather than service rendered to a political party; and we favor a reorganization of the civil service with adequate compensation commensurate with the class of work performed for all officers and employés; we also favor the extension to all classes of civil service employés of the benefits of the provisions of the Employers' Liability act; we also recognize the right of direct petition to Congress by employés for the redress of grievances.

Law Reform—We recognize the urgent need of reform in the administration of civil and criminal law in the United States, and we recommend the enactment of such legislation and the promotion of such measures as will rid the present legal system of the delays, expense and uncertainties incident to the system as now administered.

The Philippines—We reaffirm the position thrice announced by the Democracy in national convention assembled against a policy of imperialism and colonial exploitation in the Philippines or elsewhere. We condemn the experiment in imperialism as an inexcusable blunder which has involved us in enormous expense, brought us weakness instead of strength, and laid our Nation open to the charge of abandonment of the fundamental doctrine of self-government.

We favor an immediate declaration of the Nation's purpose to recognize the independence of the Philippine Islands as soon as a stable government can be established, such independence to be guaranteed by us until the neutralization of the islands can be secured by treaty with other powers. In recognizing the independence of the Philippines, our Government should retain such land as may be necessary for coaling stations and naval bases.

Arizona and New Mexico—We welcome Arizona and New Mexico to the sisterhood of States, and heartily congratulate them upon their auspicious beginning of great and glorious careers.

Alaska—We demand for the people of Alaska the full enjoyment of the rights and privileges of a territorial form of government, and we believe that the officials appointed to administer the Government of all our Territories and the District of Columbia should be qualified by previous bona fide residence.

The Russian Treaty—We commend the patriotism of the Democratic members of the Senate and House of Representatives which compelled the termination of the Russian Treaty of 1832, and we pledge ourselves anew to preserve the sacred rights of American citizenship at home and abroad. No treaty should receive the sanction of our Government which does not recognize that equality of all of our citizens, irrespective of race or creed, and which does not expressly guarantee the fundamental right of expatriation.

The constitutional rights of American citizens should protect them on our borders and go with them throughout the world, and every American citizen residing or having property in any foreign country is entitled to and must be given the full protection of the United States Government, both for himself and his property.

Parcel Post and Rural Delivery—We favor the establishment of a parcel post or postal express, and also the extension of the rural delivery system as rapidly as practicable.

Panama Canal Exposition—We hereby express our deep interest in the great Panama Canal Exposition to be held in San Francisco in 1915, and favor such encouragement as can be properly given.

Protection of National Uniform—We commend to the several States the adoption of a law making it an offence for the proprietors of places of public amusement and entertainment to discriminate against the uniform of the United States similar to the law passed by Congress applicable to the District of Columbia and the Territories in 1911.

Pensions—We renew the declaration of our last platform relating to a generous pension policy.

Rule of the People—We call attention to the fact that the Democratic party's demand for a return to the rule of the people, expressed in the National platform four years ago, has now become the accepted doctrine of a large majority of the electors. We again remind the country that only by the larger exercise of the reserved power of the people can they protect themselves from the misuse of delegated power and the usurpation of governmental instrumentalities by special interests. For this reason the National convention insisted on the overthrow of Cannonism and the inauguration of a system by which United States Senators could be elected by direct vote. The Democratic party offers itself to the country as an agency through which the complete overthrow and extirpation of corruption, fraud and machine rule in American politics can be effected.

Our platform is one of principles which we believe to be essential to our National welfare. Our pledges are made to be kept when in office as well as relied upon during the campaign, and we invite the co-operation of all citizens, regardless of party, who believe in maintaining unimpaired the institutions and traditions of our country.

NATIONAL PLATFORM OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY ADOPTED AT CHICAGO, ILL., JUNE 22, 1912.

The Republican party assembled by its representatives in National convention, declares its unchanging faith in government of the people, by the people, for the people. We renew our allegiance to the principles of the Republican party and our devotion to the cause of Republican institutions established by the fathers.

It is appropriate that we should now recall with a sense of veneration and gratitude the name of our first great leader, who was nominated in this city, and whose lofty principles and superb devotion to his country are an inspiration to the party he honored—Abraham Lincoln. In the present state of public affairs we should be inspired by his broad statesmanship and by his tolerant spirit toward men.

The Republican party looks back on its record with pride and satisfaction, and forward to its new responsibilities with hope and confidence. Its achievements in government constitute the most luminous pages in our history. Our greatest National advance has been made during the years of its ascendency in public affairs. It has been genuinely and always a party of progress; it has never been either stationary or reactionary. It has gone from the fulfilment of one great pledge to the fulfilment of another in response to the public need and to the popular will.

Government of Laws, Not of Men—We believe in our self-controlled representative democracy, which is a government of laws, not of men, and in which order is the prerequisite of progress.

The principles of constitutional government, which make provision for orderly and effective expression of the popular will for the protection of civil liberty and the rights of men, and for the interpretation of the law by an untrammelled and independent judiciary, have proved themselves capable of sustaining the structure of a Government which, after more than a century of development, embraces 100,000,000 of people, scattered over a wide and diverse territory, but bound by common purpose, common ideals, and common affection to the Constitution of the United States.

Under the Constitution and the principles asserted and vitalized by it, the United States has grown to be one of the great civilized and civilizing powers of the earth. It offers a home and an opportunity to the ambitious and the industrious from other lands. Resting upon the broad basis of a people's confidence and a people's support, and managed by the people themselves, the Government of the United States will meet the problems of the future as satisfactorily as it has solved those of the past.

The Party's Programme—The Republican party is now, as always, a party of advanced and constructive statesmanship. It is prepared to go forward with the solution of those new questions which social, economic, and political development have brought into the forefront of the Nation's interest. It will strive, not only in the Nation but in the several States, to enact the necessary legislation to safeguard the public health; to limit effectively the labor of women and children; to protect wage-earners engaged in dangerous occupations; to enact comprehensive and generous workman's compensation laws in place of the present wasteful and unjust system of employers' liability, and in all possible ways to satisfy the just demand of the people for the study and solution of the complex and constantly changing problems of social welfare.

In dealing with these questions it is important that the rights of every individual to the freest possible development of his own powers and resources and to the control of his own justly acquired property, so far as those are compatible with the rights of others, shall not be interfered with or destroyed. The social and political structure of the United States rests upon the civil liberty of the individual; and for the protection of that liberty the people have wisely, in the National and State institutions, put definite limitations upon themselves and upon their governmental officers and agencies. To enforce these limitations, to secure the orderly and coherent exercise of governmental powers, and to protect the rights of even the humblest and least favored individual are the function of independent courts of justice.

To Uphold Courts—The Republican party reaffirms its intention to uphold at all times the authority and integrity of the courts, both State and Federal, and it will ever insist that their powers to enforce their process and to protect life, liberty and property shall be preserved inviolate. An orderly method is provided under our system of government by which the people may, when they choose, alter or amend the constitutional provisions which underlie that government. Until these constitutional provisions are so altered or amended, in orderly fashion, it is the duty of the courts to see to it that when challenged they are enforced.

That the courts, both Federal and State, may bear the heavy burden laid upon them to the complete satisfaction of public opinion, we favor legislation to prevent long delays and the tedious and costly appeals which have so often amounted to a denial of justice in civil cases and to a failure to protect the public at large in criminal cases.

Since the responsibility of the judiciary is so great the standards of judicial action must be always and everywhere above suspicion and reproach. While we regard the recall of judges as unnecessary and unwise, we favor such action as may be necessary to simplify the process by which any Judge who is found to be derelict in his duty may be removed from office.

Together with peaceful and orderly development at home, the Republican party earnestly favors all measures for the establishment and protection of the peace of the world and for the development of closer relations between the various nations of the earth. It believes most earnestly in the peaceful settlement of international disputes and in the reference of all justiciable controversies between nations to an international court of justice.

Monopoly and Privilege—The Republican party is opposed to special privilege and to monopoly. It placed upon the statute book the Interstate Commerce act of 1887, and the important amendments thereto, and the Anti-Trust act of 1890, and it has consistently and successfully enforced the provisions of these laws. It will take no backward step to permit the re-establishment in any degree of conditions which were intolerable.

Experience makes it plain that the business of the country may be carried on without fear or without disturbance and at the same time without resort to practices which are abhorrent to the common sense of justice. The Republican party favors the enactment of legislation supplementary to the existing Anti-Trust act, which will define as criminal offences those specific acts that uniformly mark attempts to restrain and to monopolize trade, to the end that those who honestly intend to obey the law may have a guide for their action and that those who aim to violate the law may the more surely be punished.

The same certainty should be given to the law prohibiting combinations and monopolies that characterizes other provisions of commercial law, in order that no part of the field of business opportunity may be restricted by monopoly or combination, that business success honorably achieved may not be converted into crime, and that the right of every man to acquire commodities, and particularly the necessaries of life, in an open market, uninfluenced by the manipulation of trust or combination, may be preserved.

Federal Trade Commission—In the enforcement and administration of Federal laws governing interstate commerce and enterprises impressed with a public use engaged therein, there is much that may be committed to a Federal Trade Commission, thus placing in the hands of an administrative board many of the functions now necessarily exercised by the courts. This will promote promptness in the administration of the law and avoid delays and technicalities incident to court procedure.

The Tariff—We reaffirm our belief in a protective tariff. The Republican tariff policy has been of the greatest benefit to the country, developing our resources, diversifying our industries, and protecting our workmen against competition with cheaper labor abroad, thus establishing for our wage-earners the American standard of living. The protective tariff is so woven into the fabric of our industrial and agricultural life that to substitute for it a tariff for revenue only would destroy many industries and throw millions of our people out of employment. The products of the farm and of the mine should receive the same measure of protection as other products of American labor.

We hold that the import duties should be high enough, while yielding a sufficient revenue, to protect adequately American industries and wages. Some of the existing import duties are too high and should be reduced. Readjustment should be made from time to time to conform to changing conditions and to reduce excessive rates, but without injury to any American industry. To accomplish this correct information is indispensable. This information can best be obtained by an expert commission, as the large volume of useful facts contained in the recent reports of the Tariff Board has demonstrated. The pronounced feature of modern industrial life is its enormous diversification. To apply tariff rates justly to these changing conditions requires closer study and more scientific methods than ever before. The Republican party has shown by its creation of a Tariff Board its recognition of this situation and its determination to be equal to it. We condemn the Democratic party for its failure either to provide funds for the continuance of this board or to make some other provision for securing the information requisite for intelligent tariff legislation.

We protest against the Democratic method of legislating on these vitally important subjects without careful investigation.

We condemn the Democratic tariff bills passed by the House of Representatives of the Sixty-second Congress as sectional, as injurious to the public credit, and as destructive of business enterprise.

Cost of Living—The steadily increasing cost of living has become a matter not only of National but of world-wide concern. The fact that it is not due to the protective tariff system is evidenced by the existence of similar conditions in countries which have a tariff policy different from our own, as well as by the fact that the cost of living has increased while rates of duty have remained stationary or been reduced. The Republican party will support a prompt scientific inquiry into the causes which are operative, both in the United States and elsewhere, to increase the cost of living. When the exact facts are known, it will take the necessary steps to remove any abuses that may be found to exist in order that the cost of the food, clothing, and shelter of the people may in no way be unduly or artificially increased.

Banking and Currency—The Republican party has always stood for a sound currency and for safe banking methods. It is responsible for the resumption of specie payments, and for the establishment of the gold standard. It is committed to the progressive development of our banking and currency systems. Our banking arrangements to-day need further revision to meet the requirements of current conditions. We need measures which will prevent the recurrence of money panics and financial disturbances and which will promote the prosperity of business and the welfare of labor by producing constant employment. We need better currency facilities for the movement of crops in the West and South. We need banking arrangements under American auspices for the encouragement and better conduct of our foreign trade. In attaining these ends, the independence of individual banks, whether organized under National or State charters, must be carefully protected and our banking and currency system must be safeguarded from any possibility of domination by sectional, financial or political interests.

It is of great importance to the social and economic welfare of this country that its farmers have facilities for borrowing easily and cheaply the money they need to increase the productivity of their land. It is as important that financial machinery be provided to supply the demand of farmers for credit as it is that the banking and currency systems be reformed in the interests of general business. Therefore, we recommend and urge an authoritative investigation of agricultural credit societies and corporations in other countries, and the passage of State and Federal laws for the establishment and capable supervision of organizations having for their purpose the loaning of funds to farmers.

The Civil Service—We reaffirm our adherence to the principle of appointment to public office based on proved fitness, and tenure during good behavior and efficiency. The Republican party stands committed to the maintenance, extension, and enforcement of the Civil Service law, and it favors the passage of legislation empowering the President to extend the competitive service as far as possible, the equitable retirement of disabled and superannuated members of the civil service, in order that a higher order of efficiency may be maintained.

Employers' Liability—We favor the amendment of the Federal Employers' Liability law so as to extend its provisions to all Government employés, as well as to provide a more liberal scale of compensation for injury and death.

Campaign Contributions—We favor such additional legislation as may be necessary more effectually to prohibit corporations from contributing funds, directly or indirectly, to campaigns for the nomination or election of the President, the Vice-President, Senators and Representatives in Congress. We heartily approve the recent act of Congress requiring the fullest publicity in regard to all campaign contributions, whether made in connection with primaries, conventions or elections.

Conservation of Natural Resources—We rejoice in the success of the distinctive Republican policy of the conservation of our natural resources, for their use by the people without waste and without monopoly. We pledge ourselves to a continuance of such a policy.

Acquisition of Public Lands—We favor such fair and reasonable rules and regulations as will not discourage or interfere with actual bona fide homeseekers, prospectors, and miners in the acquisition of public lands under existing laws.

Parcel Post—In the interest of the general public, and particularly of the agricultural or rural communities, we favor legislation looking to the establishment, under proper regulations, of a parcel post, the postal rates to be graduated under a zone system in proportion to the length of carriage.

Protection of American Citizens—We approve the action taken by the President and the Congress to secure with Russia, as with other countries, a treaty that will recognize the absolute right of expatriation, and that will prevent all discrimination of whatever kind between American citizens, whether native born or alien, and regardless of race, religion, or previous political allegiance. The right of asylum is a precious possession of the people of the United States, and it is to be neither surrendered nor restricted.

The Navy—We believe in the maintenance of an adequate navy for the National defence, and we condemn the action of the Democratic House of Representatives in refusing to authorize the construction of additional ships.

Merchant Marine—We believe that one of the country's most urgent needs is a revived merchant marine. There should be American ships, and plenty of them, to make use of the great American interoceanic canal now nearing completion.

Flood Prevention in the Mississippi Valley—The Mississippi River is the Nation's drainage ditch. Its flood-waters, gathered from thirty-one States and the Dominion of Canada, constitute an overpowering force which breaks the levees and pours its torrents over many million acres of the richest land in the Union, stopping mails, impeding commerce, and causing great loss of life and property. These floods are National in scope, and the disasters they produce seriously affect the general welfare. The States unaided cannot cope with this giant problem; hence, we believe the Federal Government should assume a fair proportion of the burden of its control so as to prevent the disasters from recurring floods.

Reclamation of Arid Lands—We favor the continuance of the policy of the Government with regard to the reclamation of arid lands, and for the encouragement of the speedy settlement and improvement of such lands; we favor an amendment to the law that will reasonably extend the time within which the cost of any reclamation project may be repaid by the landowners under it.

Rivers and Harbors—We favor a liberal and systematic policy for the improvement of our rivers and harbors. Such improvements should be made upon expert information and after a careful comparison of cost and prospective benefits.

Alaska—We favor a liberal policy toward Alaska, to promote the development of the great resources of that district, with such safeguards as will prevent waste and monopoly. We favor the opening of the coal lands to development through a law leasing the lands on such terms as will invite development and provide fuel for the navy and the commerce of the Pacific Ocean, while retaining title in the United States to prevent monopoly.

Porto Rico—We ratify in all its particulars the platform of 1908 respecting citizenship for the people of Porto Rico.

Philippine Policy—The Philippine policy of the Republican party has been and is inspired by the belief that our duty toward the Filipino people is a National obligation which should remain entirely free from partisan politics.

Immigration—We pledge the Republican party to the enactment of appropriate laws to give relief from the constantly growing evil of induced or undesirable immigration, which is inimical to the progress and welfare of the people of the United States.

Safety at Sea—We favor the speedy enactment of laws to provide that seamen shall not be compelled to endure involuntary servitude and that life and property at sea shall be safeguarded by the ample equipment of vessels with life-saving appliances and with full complements of skilled, able-bodied seamen to operate them.

Republican Accomplishment—The approaching completion of the Panama Canal, the establishment of a Bureau of Mines, the institution of postal savings banks, the ncreased provision made in 1912 for the aged and infirm soldiers and sailors of the Republic and for their widows, and the vigorous administration of the laws relating to pure food and drugs all mark the successful progress of Republican administration and are additional evidence of its effectiveness.

Economy and Efficiency—We commend the earnest effort of the Republican Administration to secure greater economy and increased efficiency in the conduct of Government business; extravagant appropriations and the creation of unnecessary offices are an injustice to the taxpayer, and a bad example to the citizen.

Civic Duty—We call upon the people to quicken their interest in public affairs, to condemn and punish lynchings and other forms of lawlessness, and to strengthen in all possible ways a respect for law and the observance of it. Indifferent citizenship is an evil from which the law affords no adequate protection and for which legislation can provide no remedy.

Arizona and New Mexico—We congratulate the people of Arizona and New Mexico upon the admission of those States, thus merging in the Union in final and enduring form the last remaining portion of our continental territory.

Republican Administration—We challenge successful criticism of the sixteen years of Republican administration under Presidents McKinley, Roosevelt and Taft. We heartily reaffirm the indorsement of President McKinley contained in the platform of 1900 and of 1904 and that of President Roosevelt contained in the platform of 1904 and 1908.

We invite the intelligent judgment of the American people upon the Administration of William H. Taft. The country has prospered and been at peace under his Presidency. During the years in which he had the co-operation of a Republican Congress an unexampled amount of constructive legislation was framed and passed in the interest of the people and in obedience to their wish. That legislation is a record on which any Administration might appeal with confidence to the favorable judgment of history.

We appeal to the American electorate upon the record of the Republican party and upon this declaration of its principles and purposes. We are confident that under the leadership of the candidates here to be nominated our appeal will not be in vain; that the Republican party will meet every just expectation of the people whose servant it is; that under its administration and its laws our Nation will continue to advance; that peace and prosperity will abide with the people and that new glory will be added to the great Republic.

NATIONAL PLATFORM OF THE PROGRESSIVE PARTY ADOPTED AT CHICAGO, ILL., AUGUST 7, 1912.

Declaration of Principles—The conscience of the people in a time of grave national problems has called into being a new party, born of the Nation's awakened sense of injustice.

We of the Progressive party here dedicate ourselves to the fulfilment of the duty laid upon us by our fathers to maintain that government of the people, by the people and for the people whose foundations they laid.

We hold with Thomas Jefferson and Abraham Lincoln that the people are the masters of their Constitution to fulfil its purposes and to safeguard it from those who by perversion of its intent would convert it into an instrument of injustice. In accordance with the needs of each generation the people must use their sovereign powers to establish and maintain equal opportunity and industrial justice, to secure which this Government was founded and without which no republic can endure.

This country belongs to the people who inhabit it. Its resources, its business, its institutions and its laws should be utilized, maintained or altered in whatever manner will best promote the general interest. It is time to set the public welfare in the first place.

The Old Parties—Political parties exist to secure responsible government and to execute the will of the people. From these great tasks both the old parties have turned aside. Instead of instruments to promote the general welfare they have become the tools of corrupt interests, which use them impartially to serve their selfish purposes. Behind the ostensible government sits enthroned an invisible government, owing no allegiance and acknowledging no responsibility to the people. To destroy this invisible government, to dissolve the unholy alliance between corrupt business and corrupt politics is the first task of the statesmanship of the day.

The deliberate betrayal of its trust by the Republican party, the fatal incapacity of the Democratic party to deal with the new issues of the new time, have compelled the people to forge a new instrument of government through which to give effect to their will in laws and institutions.

Unhampered by tradition, uncorrupted by power, undismayed by the magnitude of the task, the new party offers itself as the instrument of the people to sweep away old abuses, to build a new and nobler commonwealth.

Covenant With the People—This declaration is our covenant with the people, and we hereby bind the party and its candidates in State and Nation to the pledges made herein.

Rule of the People—The Progressive party, committed to the principle of government by a self-controlled democracy expressing its will through representatives of the people, pledges itself to secure such alterations in the fundamental law of the several States and of the United States as shall insure the representative character of the Government. In particular the party declares for direct primaries for the nomination of State and National officers, for nation-wide preferential primaries for candidates for the Presidency, for the direct election of United States Senators by the people; and we urge on the States the policy of the short ballot, with responsibility to the people secured by the initiative, referendum and recall.

Constitution Should Be Easily Amended—The Progressive party, believing that a free people should have the power from time to time to amend their fundamental law so as to adapt it progressively to the changing needs of the people pledges itself to provide a more easy and expeditious method of amending the Federal Constitution.

Nation and State—Up to the limit of the Constitution, and later by amendment of the Constitution if found necessary, we advocate bringing under effective national jurisdiction those problems which have expanded beyond reach of the individual States.

It is as grotesque as it is intolerable that the several States should by unequal laws in matter of common concern become competing commercial agencies, barter the lives of their children, the health of their women and the safety and wellbeing of their working people for the benefit of their financial interests.

The extreme insistence on States' rights by the Democratic party in the Baltimore platform demonstrates anew its inability to understand the world into which it has survived or to administer the affairs of a union of States which have in all essential respects become one people.

Social and Industrial Reform—The supreme duty of the Nation is the conservation of human resources through an enlightened measure of social and industrial justice. We pledge ourselves to work unceasingly in State and Nation for:

Effective legislation looking to the prevention of industrial accidents, occupational diseases, overwork, involuntary unemployment, and other injurious effects incident to modern industry.

The fixing of minimum safety and health standards for the various occupations and the exercise of the public authority of State and Nation, including the Federal control over interstate commerce and the taxing power to maintain such standards.

The prohibition of child labor.

Minimum wage standards for working women to provide a "living scale" in all industrial occupations.

The prohibition of night work for women and the establishment of an eight-hour day for women and young persons.

One day's rest in seven for all wage-workers.

The eight-hour day in continuous twenty-four-hour industries.

The abolition of the convict contract labor system; substituting a system of prison production for governmental consumption only and the application of prisoners' earnings to the support of their dependent families.

Publicity as to wages, hours and conditions of labor; full reports upon industrial accidents and diseases and the opening to public inspection of all tallies, weights, measures and check systems on labor products.

Standards of compensation for death by industrial accident and injury and trade diseases, which will transfer the burden of lost earnings from the families of working people to the industry, and thus to the community.

The protection of home life against the hazards of sickness, irregular employment and old age through the adoption of a system of social insurance adapted to American use.

The development of the creative labor power of America, by lifting the last load of illiteracy from American youth and establishing continuation schools for industrial education under public control and encouraging agricultural education and demonstration in rural schools.

The establishment of industrial research laboratories to put the methods and discoveries of science at the service of American producers.

We favor the organization of the workers, men and women, as a means of protecting their interests and of promoting their progress.

Regulation of Interstate Corporations—We believe that true popular government, justice and prosperity go hand in hand, and so believing, it is our purpose to secure that large measure of general prosperity which is the fruit of legitimate and honest business, fostered by equal justice and by sound progressive laws.

We demand that the test of true prosperity shall be the benefits conferred thereby on all the citizens, not confined to individuals or classes, and that the test of corporate efficiency shall be the ability better to serve the public; that those who profit by control of business affairs shall justify that profit and that control by sharing with the public the fruits thereof.

We therefore demand a strong National regulation of interstate corporations. The corporation is an essential part of modern business. The concentration of modern business, in some degree, is both inevitable and necessary for National and international business efficiency. But the existing concentration of vast wealth under a corporate system, unguarded and uncontrolled by the Nation, has placed in the hands of a few men enormous secret, irresponsible power over the daily life of the citizen—a power unsufferable in a free government and certain of abuse.

This power has been abused in monopoly of National resources, in stock watering, in unfair competition and unfair privileges, and, finally, in sinister influences on the public agencies of State and Nation. We do not fear commercial power, but we insist that it shall be exercised openly, under publicity, supervision and regulation of the most efficient sort, which will preserve its good while eradicating and preventing its evils.

To that end we urge the establishment of a strong Federal Administrative Commission of high standing, which shall maintain permanent active supervision over industrial corporations engaged in interstate commerce, or such of them as are of public importance, doing for them what the Government now does for the National banks, and what is now done for the railroads by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Such a commission must enforce the complete publicity of those corporate transactions which are of public interest; must attack unfair competition, false capitalization and special privilege, and by continuous, trained watchfulness guard and keep open equally to all the highways of American commerce. Thus the business man will have certain knowledge of the law and will be able to conduct his business easily in conformity therewith, the investor will find security for his capital, dividends will be rendered more certain and the savings of the people will be drawn naturally and safely into the channels of trade.

Under such a system of constructive regulation, legitimate business, freed from confusion, uncertainty and fruitless litigation, will develop normally in response to the energy and enterprise of the American business man.

Commercial Development—The time has come when the Federal Government should co-operate with manufacturers and producers in extending our foreign commerce. To this end we demand adequate appropriations by Congress and the appointment of diplomatic and consular officers solely with a view to their special fitness and worth, and not in consideration of political expediency.

It is imperative to the welfare of our people that we enlarge and extend our foreign commerce. We are pre-eminently fitted to do this because as a people we have developed high skill in the art of manufacturing; our business men are strong executives, strong organizers. In every way possible our Federal Government should co-operate in this important matter.

Any one who has had opportunity to study and observe first hand Germany's course in this respect must realize that their policy of co-operation between Government and business has in comparatively few years made them a leading competitor for the commerce of the world. It should be remembered that they are doing this on a National scale and with large units of business, while the Democrats would have us believe that we should do it with small units of business, which would be controlled, not by the National Government, but by forty-nine conflicting sovereignties. Such a policy is utterly out of keeping with the progress of the times and gives our great commercial rivals in Europe—hungry for international markets—golden opportunities of which they are rapidly taking advantage.

The Tariff—We believe in a protective tariff which shall equalize conditions of competition between the United States and foreign countries, both for the farmer and the manufacturer, and which will maintain for labor an adequate standard of living. Primarily the benefit of any tariff should be disclosed in the pay envelope of the laborer. We declare that no industry deserves protection which is unfair to labor or which is operating in violation of Federal law. We believe that the presumption is always in favor of the consuming public.

We demand tariff revision because the present tariff is unjust to the people of the United States. Fair dealing toward the people requires an immediate downward revision of those schedules wherein duties are shown to be unjust and excessive.

We pledge ourselves to the establishment of a non-partisan scientific Tariff Commission, reporting both to the President and to either branch of Congress, which shall report first, as to the costs of production, efficiency of labor, capitalization, industrial organization and efficiency, and the general competitive position in this country and abroad of industries seeking protection from Congress. Second, as to the revenue-producing power of the tariff and its relation to the resources of government; and, thirdly, as to the effect of the tariff on prices, operations of middlemen, and on the purchasing power of the consumer.

We believe that this commission should have plenary power to elicit information, and for this purpose to prescribe a uniform system of accounting for the great protected industries. The work of the commission should not prevent the immediate adoption of acts reducing those schedules generally recognized as excessive.

We condemn the Payne-Aldrich bill as unjust to the people. The Republican organization is in the hands of those who have broken and cannot again be trusted to keep the promise of necessary downward revision. The Democratic party is committed to the destruction of the protective system through a tariff for revenue only—a policy which would inevitably produce widespread industrial and commercial disaster.

Reciprocity With Canada—We demand the immediate repeal of the Canadian reciprocity act.

High Cost of Living—The high cost of living is due partly to world-wide and partly to local causes; partly to natural and partly to artificial causes. The measures proposed in this platform on various subjects, such as the tariff, the trusts and conservation, will of themselves remove the artificial causes. There will remain other elements such as the tendency to leave the country for the city, waste, extravagance, bad system of taxation, poor methods of raising crops and bad business methods in marketing crops. To remedy these conditions requires the fullest information and, based on this information, effective Government supervision and control to remove all the artificial causes. We pledge ourselves to such full and immediate inquiry and to immediate action to deal with every need such inquiry discloses.

Improvement of the Currency—We believe there exists imperative need for prompt legislation for the improvement of our national currency system. We believe the present method of issuing notes through private agencies is harmful and unscientific. The issue of currency is fundamentally a Government function and the system should have as basic principles soundness and elasticity. The control should be lodged with the Government and should be protected from domination or manipulation by Wall Street or any special interests.

We are opposed to the so-called Aldrich currency bill because its provisions would place our currency and credit system in private hands not subject to effective public control.

Conservation of Natural Resources—The natural resources of the Nation must be promptly developed and generously used to supply the people's needs, but we cannot safely allow them to be wasted, exploited, monopolized or controlled against the general good. We heartily favor the policy of conservation and we pledge our party to protect the National forests without hindering their legitimate use for the benefit of all the people. Agricultural lands in the National forests are, and should remain, open to the genuine settler. Conservation will not retard legitimate development. The honest settler must receive his patent promptly without hindrance, rules or delays.

We believe that the remaining forests, coal and oil lands, water powers and other natural resources still in State or National control (except agricultural lands) are more likely to be wisely conserved and utilized for the general welfare if held in the public hands.

In order that consumers and producers, managers and workmen, now and hereafter, need not pay toll to private monopolies of power and raw material, we demand that such resources shall be retained by the State or Nation and opened to immediate use under laws which will encourage development and make to the people a moderate return for benefits conferred.

In particular we pledge our party to require reasonable compensation to the public for water power rights hereafter granted by the public. We pledge legislation to lease the public grazing lands under equitable provisions now pending which will increase the production of food for the people and thoroughly safeguard the rights of the actual homemakers. Natural resources whose conservation is necessary for the National welfare should be owned and controlled by the Nation.

Waterways—The rivers of the United States are the natural arteries of this continent. We demand that they shall be opened to traffic as indispensable parts of a great nation-wide system of transportation in which the Panama Canal will be the central link, thus enabling the whole interior of the United States to share with the Atlantic and Pacific seaboards in the benefit derived from the canal.

It is a national obligation to develop our rivers and especially the Mississippi and its tributaries, without delay, under a comprehensive general plan covering each river system, from its source to its mouth, designed to secure its highest usefulness for navigation, irrigation, domestic supply, water power and the prevention of floods. We pledge our party to the immediate preparation of such a plan, which should be made and carried out in close and friendly co-operation between the Nation, the State, and the cities affected.

Under such a plan the destructive floods of the Mississippi and other streams, which represent a vast and needless loss to the Nation, would be controlled by forest conservation and water storage at the headwaters, and by levees below, land sufficient to support millions of people would be reclaimed from the deserts and swamps, water power enough to transform the industrial standing of whole States would be developed, adequate water terminals would be provided, transportation would revive, and the railroads would be compelled to co-operate as freely with the boat lines as with each other.

The equipment, organization and experience acquired in constructing the Panama Canal soon will be available for the lakes-to-the-gulf deep waterway and other portions of this great work, and should be utilized by the Nation in co-operation with the various States at the lowest net cost to the people.

Panama Canal—The Panama Canal, built and paid for by the American people, must be used primarily for their benefit. We demand that the canal shall be so operated as to break the transportation monopoly now held and misused by the transcontinental railroads by maintaining sea competition with them; that ships directly or indirectly owned or controlled by American railroad corporations shall not be permitted to use the canal, and that American ships engaged in coastwise trade shall pay no tolls.

The Progressive party will favor legislation having for its aim the development of friendship and commerce between the United States and Latin-American nations.

Alaska—The coal and other natural resources of Alaska should be opened to development at once. They are owned by the people of the United States and are safe from monopoly, waste or destruction only while so owned. We demand that they shall neither be sold nor given away except under the homestead law, but while held in Government ownership shall be open to use promptly upon liberal terms requiring immediate development.

Thus the benefit of cheap fuel will accrue to the Government of the United States and to the people of Alaska and the Pacific coast; the settlement of extensive agricultural lands will be hastened; the extermination of the salmon will be prevented, and the just and wise development of Alaskan resources will take the place of private extortion or monopoly.

We demand also that extortion or monopoly in transportation shall be prevented by the prompt acquisition, construction or improvement by the Government of such railroads, harbor, and other facilities for transportation as the welfare of the people may demand.

We promise the people of the Territory of Alaska the same measure of local self-government that was given to other American Territories, and that Federal officials appointed there shall be qualified by previous bona fide residence in the Territory.

Woman Suffrage—The Progressive party, believing that no people can justly claim to be a true democracy which denies political rights on account of sex, pledges itself to the task of securing equal suffrage to men and women alike.

Corrupt Election Practices—We pledge our party to legislation that will compel strict limitation of all campaign contributions and expenditures, and detailed publicity of both before as well as after primaries and elections.

Publicity and Public Service—We pledge our party to legislation compelling the registration of lobbyists; publicity of committee hearings, except on foreign affairs, and recording of all votes in committee; and forbidding Federal appointees from holding office in State or National political organizations or taking part as officers or delegates in political conventions for the nomination of elective State or National officials.

Popular Review of Judicial Decisions—The Progressive party demands such restriction of the power of the courts as shall leave to the people the ultimate authority to determine fundamental questions of social welfare and public policy. To secure this end, it pledges itself to provide:

First—That when an act passed under the police power of the State is held unconstitutional under the State Constitution by the courts, the people, after an ample interval for deliberation, shall have an opportunity to vote on the question whether they desire the act to become law, notwithstanding such decision.

Second—That every decision of the highest Appellate Court of a State declaring an act of the Legislature unconstitutional on the ground of its violation of the Federal Constitution shall be subject to the same review by the Supreme Court of the United States as is now accorded to decisions sustaining such legislation.

Administration of Justice—The Progressive party, in order to secure to the people a better administration of justice, and by that means to bring about a more general respect for the law and the courts, pledges itself to work unceasingly for the reform of legal procedure and judicial methods.

We believe that the issuance of injunctions in cases arising out of labor disputes should be prohibited when such injunctions would not apply when no labor disputes existed.

We also believe that a person cited for contempt in labor disputes, except when such contempt was committed in the actual presence of the court or so near thereto as to interfere with the proper administration of justice, should have a right to trial by jury.

A Department of Labor—We pledge our party to establish a department of labor, with a seat in the Cabinet, and with wide juridsiction over matters affecting the conditions of labor and living.

Country Life—The development and prosperity of country life are as important to the people who live in the cities as they are to the farmers. Increase of prosperity on the farm will favorably affect the cost of living and promote the interests of all who dwell in the country and all who depend upon its products for clothing, shelter and food.

We pledge our party to foster the development of agricultural credit and co-operation, the teaching of agriculture in schools, agricultural college extension, the use of mechanical power on the farm and to re-establish the Country Life Commission, thus directly promoting the welfare of the farmers and bringing the benefits of better farming, better business and better living within their reach.

National Health Service—We favor the union of all the existing agencies of the Federal Government dealing with the public health into a single National Health Service, without discrimination against or for any one set of therapeutic methods, school of medicine or school of healing, with such additional powers as may be necessary to enable it to perform efficiently such duties in the protection of the public from preventable disease as may be properly undertaken by the Federal authorities, including the executing of existing laws regarding pure food; quarantine and cognate subjects; the promotion of appropriate action for the improvement of vital statistics and the extension of the registration area of such statistics, and co-operation with the health activities of the various States and cities of the Nation.

Patents—We pledge ourselves to the enactment of a patent law which w ll make it impossible for patents to be suppressed or used against the public welfare in the interest of injurious monopolies.

Interstate Commerce Commission—We pledge our party to secure to the Interstate Commerce Commission the power to value the physical property of railroads. In order that the power of the commission to protect the people may not be impaired or destroyed, we demand the abolition of the Commerce Court.

Good Roads—We recognize the vital importance of good roads, and we pledge our party to foster their extension in every proper way, and we favor the early construction of National highways. We also favor the extension of the rural free delivery service.

Inheritance and Income Tax—We believe in a graduated inheritance tax as a National means of equalizing the obligations of holders of property to Government, and we hereby pledge our party to enact such a Federal law as will tax large inheritances, returning to the States an equitable percentage of all amounts collected. We favor the ratification of the pending amendment to the Constitution giving the Government power to levy an income tax.

Peace and National Defence—The Progressive party deplores the survival in our civilization of the barbaric system of warfare among nations, with its enormous waste of resources even in time of peace, and the consequent impoverishment of the life of the toiling masses. We pledge the party to use its best endeavors to substitute judicial and other peaceful means of settling international differences.

We favor an international agreement for the limitation of naval forces. Pending such an agreement, and as the best means of preserving peace, we pledge ourselves to maintain for the present the policy of building two battleships a year.

Protection of American Citizens Abroad—We pledge our party to protect the rights of American citizenship at home and abroad. No treaty should receive the sanction of our Government which discriminates between American citizens because of birthplace, race or religion, or that does not recognize the absolute right of expatriation.

Immigration—Through the establishment of industrial standards we propose to secure to the able-bodied immigrant and to his native fellow workers a larger share of American opportunity.

We denounce the fatal policy of indifference and neglect which has left our enormous immigrant population to become the prey of chance and cupidity. We favor Governmental action to encourage the distribution of immigrants away from the congested cities, to rigidly supervise all private agencies dealing with them and to promote their assimilation, education and advancement.

Pensions—We pledge ourselves to a wise and just policy of pensioning American soldiers and sailors and their widows and children by the Federal Government.

And we approve the policy of the Southern States in granting pensions to the ex-Confederate soldiers and sailors and their widows and children.

Parcel Post—We pledge our party to the immediate creation of a parcels post, with rates proportionate to distance and service.

The Civil Service Law—We condemn the violations of the Civil Service law under the present Administration, including the coercion and assessment of subordinate employés, and the President's refusal to punish such violation after a finding of guilty by his own commission; his distribution of patronage among subservient Congressmen, while withholding it from those who refuse support of administration measures; his withdrawal of nominations from the Senate until political support for himself was secured, and his open use of the offices to reward those who voted for his renomination.

To eradicate these abuses we demand not only the enforcement of the Civil Service act in letter and spirit, but also legislation which will bring under the competitive system postmasters, collectors, marshals and all other non-political officers, as well as the enactment of an equitable retirement law, and we also insist on continuous service during good behavior and efficiency.

Government Business Organization—We pledge our party to readjustment of the business methods of the National Government and a proper co-ordination of the Federal bureaus which will increase the economy and efficiency of the Government service, prevent duplications and secure better results to the taxpayers for every dollar expended.

Supervision Over Investments—The people of the United States are swindled out of many millions of dollars every year through worthless investments. The plain people, the wage-earners and the men and women with small savings have no way of knowing the merit of concerns sending out highly colored prospectuses offering stock for sale, prospectuses that make big returns seem certain and fortunes easily within grasp.

We hold it to be the duty of the Government to protect its people from this kind of piracy. We therefore demand wise, carefully thought-out legislation that will give us such Governmental supervision over this matter as will furnish to the people of the United States this much needed protection, and we pledge ourselves thereto.

Conclusion—On these principles and on the recognized desirability of uniting the progressive forces of the Nation into an organization which shall unequivocally represent the progressive spirit and policy, we appeal for the support of all American citizens, without regard to previous political affiliations.

NATIONAL PLATFORM OF THE PROHIBITION PARTY ADOPTED AT ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., JULY 11, 1912.

The Prohibition party of the United States of America in convention at Atlantic City, N. J., July 11, 1912, recognizing God as the source of all governmental authority, makes the following declaration of principles:

The alcoholic drink traffic is wrong, the most serious drain upon the Nation's wealth and resources, detrimental to the general welfare, destructive of the inalienable rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and, therefore, all laws taxing or licensing a traffic that produces crime, poverty and political corruption and spreads disease and death should be repealed. To destroy such a traffic there must be elected to power a political party which will administer the government from the standpoint that the alcoholic drink traffic is a crime and not a business, and we pledge that the manufacture, importation, exportation, transportation and sale of alcoholic beverages shall be prohibited.

We favor:

The election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people.

Presidential terms of six years, and one term only.

Uniform marriage and divorce laws.

The extermination of polygamy and the complete suppression of the traffic in girls.

Suffrage for women upon the same terms as to men.

Court review as to post-office and other departmental decisions and orders; the establishment of postal savings banks, the extension of the rural delivery and the establishment of an efficient parcels post, and add the following planks:

The protection of one day in seven as a day of rest.

The absolute protection of the rights of labor without impairment of the rights of capital.

The settlement of all international disputes by arbitration.

The initiative, referendum and recall.

The tariff is a commercial question and should be fixed on the basis of accurate knowledge secured by a permanent omnipartisan Tariff Commission with ample powers.

The abolition of child labor in the mines, workshops and factories, with the rigid enforcement of laws now flagrantly violated.

Equitable graduated income and inheritance taxes.

Conservation of our mineral and forest reserves, reclamation of arid and waste lands and we urge that all mineral and timber lands and water powers now owned by the Government to be held perpetually and leased for revenue purposes.

Clearly defined laws for the regulation and control of corporations transacting an interstate business.

Greater efficiency and economy in Government service.

To the fundamental principles the National Prohibition party renews its long allegiance and on these issues invite the co-operation of all citizens to the end that the true object of popular government may be attained; i. e., equal and exact justice to all.

NATIONAL PLATFORM OF THE SOCIALIST PARTY ADOPTED AT INDIANAPOLIS, IND., MAY 16, 1912.

The representatives of the Socialist party in National Convention at Indianapolis declare that the capitalist system has outgrown its historical function, and has become utterly incapable of meeting the problems now confronting society. We denounce this outgrown system as incompetent and corrupt and the source of unspeakable misery and suffering to the whole working class.

Under this system the industrial equipment of the Nation has passed into the absolute control of a plutocracy which exacts an annual tribute of millions of dollars from the producers. Unafraid of any organized resistance, it stretches out its greedy hands over the still undeveloped resources of the Nation—the land, the mines, the forests and the water powers of every State in the Union.

In spite of the multiplication of labor-saving machines and improved methods in industry which cheapen the cost of production, the share of the producers grows ever less, and the prices of all the necessities of life steadily increase. The boasted prosperity of this Nation is for the owning class alone. To the rest it means only greater hardship and misery. The high cost of living is felt in every home. Millions of wage-workers have seen the purchasing power of their wages decrease until life has become a desperate battle for mere existence.

Multitudes of unemployed walk the streets of our cities or trudge from State to State awaiting the will of the masters to move the wheels of industry.

The farmers in every State are plundered by the increasing prices exacted for tools and machinery and by extortionate freight rates and storage charges.

Capitalism Denounced—Capitalist concentration is mercilessly crushing the class of small business men and driving its members into the ranks of propertyless wage-workers. The overwhelming majority of the people of America are being forced under a yoke of bondage by this soulless industrial despotism.

It is this capitalist system that is responsible for the increasing burden of armaments, poverty, slums, child labor, most of the insanity, crime and prostitution, and much of the disease that afflicts mankind.

Under this system the working class is exposed to poisonous conditions, to frightful and needless perils to life and limb, is walled around with court decisions, injunctions and unjust laws, and is preyed upon incessantly for the benefit of the controlling oligarchy of wealth. Under it also, the children of the working class are doomed to ignorance, drudging toil and darkened lives.

In the face of these evils, so manifest that all thoughtful observers are appalled at them, the legislative representatives of the Republican and Democratic parties remain the faithful servants of the oppressors. Measures designed to secure to the wage-earners of this Nation as humane and just treatment as is already enjoyed by the wage-earners of all other civilized nations have been smothered in committee without debate, and laws ostensibly designed to bring relief to the farmers and general consumers are juggled and transformed into instruments for the exaction of further tribute. The growing unrest under oppression has driven these two old parties to the enactment of a variety of regulative measures, none of which has limited in any appreciable degree the power of the plutocracy, and some of which have been perverted into means for increasing that power. Anti-trust laws, railroad restrictions and regulations, with the prosecutions, indictments and investigations based upon such legislation, have proved to be utterly futile and ridiculous.

Nor has this plutocracy been seriously restrained or even threatened by any Republican or Democratic Executive. It has continued to grow in power and insolence alike under the administrations of Cleveland, McKinley, Roosevelt and Taft.

In addition to this legislative juggling and this executive connivance, the courts of America have sanctioned and strengthened the hold of this plutocracy as the Dred Scott and other decisions strengthened the slave power before the civil war.

We declare, therefore, that the longer sufferance of these conditions is impossible, and we purpose to end them all. We declare them to be the product of the present system in which industry is carried on for private greed, instead of for the welfare of society. We declare, furthermore, that for these evils there will be and can be no remedy and no substantial relief except through socialism, under which industry will be carried on for the common good and every worker receive the full social value of the wealth he creates.

Society is divided into warring groups and classes, based upon material interests. Fundamentally, this struggle is a conflict between the two main classes, one of which, the capitalist class, owns the means of production, and the other, the working class, must use these means of production on terms dictated by the owners.

The capitalist class, though few in numbers, absolutely controls the Government—legislative, executive and judicial. This class owns the machinery of gathering and disseminating news through its organized press. It subsidizes seats of learning—the colleges and schools—and even religious and moral agencies. It has also the added prestige which established customs give to any order of society, right or wrong.

The working class, which includes all those who are forced to work for a living, whether by hand or brain, in shop, mine or on the soil, vastly outnumbers the capitalist class. Lacking effective organization and class solidarity, this class is unable to enforce its will. Given such class solidarity and effective organization, the workers will have the power to make all laws and control all industry in their own interest.

All political parties are the expression of economic class interests. All other parties than the Socialist party represent one or another group of the ruling capitalist class. Their political conflicts reflect merely superficial rivalries between competing capitalist groups. However they result, these conflicts have no issue of real value to the workers. Whether the Democrats or Republicans win politically, it is the capitalist class that is victorious economically.

Socialism the Expression of the Workers—The Socialist party is the political expression of the economic interests of the workers. Its defeats have been their defeats and its victories their victories. It is a party founded on the science and laws of social development. It proposes that, since all social necessities to-day are socially produced, the means of their production and distribution shall be socially owned and democratically controlled.

In the face of the economic and political aggressions of the capitalist class the only reliance left the workers is that of their economic organizations and their political power. By the intelligent and class-conscious use of these, they may resist successfully the capitalist class, break the fetters of wage slavery, and fit themselves for the future society, which is to displace the capitalist system. The Socialist party appreciates the full significance of class organization and urges the wage-earners, the working farmers and all other useful workers everywhere to organize for economic and political action, and we pledge ourselves to support the toilers of the fields as well as those in the shops, factories and mines of the Nation in their struggles for economic justice.

In the defeat or victory of the working class party in this new struggle for freedom lies the defeat or triumph of the common people of all economic groups, as well as the failure or the triumph of popular government. Thus the Socialist party is the party of the present-day revolution, which marks the transition from economic individualism to socialism, from wage slavery to free co-operation, from capitalist oligarchy to industrial democracy.

Working Programme—As measures calculated to strengthen the working class in its fight for the realization of its ultimate aim, the Co-operative Commonwealth, and to increase its power of resistance against capitalist oppression, we advocate and pledge ourselves and our elected officers to the following programme:

Collective Ownership—First: The collective ownership and democratic management of railroads, wire and wireless telegraphs and telephones, express service, steamboat lines and all other social means of transportation and communication and of all large-scale industries.

Second: The immediate acquirement by the municipalities, the States or the Federal Government of all grain elevators, stock yards, storage warehouses, and other distributing agencies, in order to reduce the present extortionate cost of living.

Third: The extension of the public domain to include mines, quarries, oil wells, forests and water power.

Fourth: The further conservation and development of natural resources for the use and benefit of all the people:

(a) By scientific forestation and timber protection.
(b) By the reclamation of arid and swamp tracts.
(c) By the storage of flood waters and the utilization of water power.
(d) By the stoppage of the present extravagant waste of the soil and of the products of mines and oil wells.
(e) By the development of highway and waterway systems.

Fifth: The collective ownership of land wherever practicable, and in cases where such ownership is impracticable, the appropriation by taxation of the annual rental value of all land held for speculation or exploitation.

Sixth: The collective ownership and democratic management of the banking and currency system.

Unemployment—The immediate Government relief of the unemployed by the extension of all useful public works. All persons employed on such works to be engaged directly by the Government under a work day of not more than eight hours and at not less than the prevailing union wages. The Government also to establish employment bureaus; to lend money to States and municipalities, without interest, for the purpose of carrying on public works, and to take such other measures within its power as will lessen the widespread misery of the workers caused by the misrule of the capitalist class.

Industrial Demands—The conservation of human resources, particularly of the lives and well-being of the workers and their families.

First: By shortening the work day in keeping with the increased productiveness of machinery.

Second: By securing to every worker a rest period of not less than a day and a half in each week.

Third: By securing a more effective inspection of workshops, factories and mines.

Fourth: By forbidding the employment of children under sixteen years of age.

Fifth: By abolishing the brutal exploitation of convicts under the contract system and prohibiting the sale of goods so produced in competition with other labor.

Sixth: By forbidding the interstate transportation of the products of child labor, of convict labor and of all uninspected factories and mines.

Seventh: By abolishing the profit system in Government work, and substituting either the direct hire of labor or the awarding of contracts to co-operative groups of workers.

Eighth: By establishing minimum wage scales.

Ninth: By abolishing official charity and substituting a non-contributory system of old-age pensions, a general system of insurance by the State of all its members against unemployment and invalidism and a system of compulsory insurance by employers of their workers, without cost to the latter, against industrial diseases, accidents and death.

Political Demands—First: The absolute freedom of press, speech and assemblage.

Second: The adoption of a graduated income tax, the increase of the rates of the present corporation tax and the extension of inheritance taxes, graduated in proportion to the value of the estate and to nearness of kin—the proceeds of these taxes to be employed in the socialization of industry.

Third: The gradual reduction of all tariff duties, particularly those on the necessities of life. The Government to guarantee the re-employment of wage-earners who may be disemployed by reason of changes in tariff schedules.

Fourth: The abolition of the monopoly ownership of patents and the substitution of collective ownership, with direct rewards to inventors by premiums or royalties.

Fifth: Unrestricted and equal suffrage for men and women.

Sixth: The adoption of the initiative, referendum and recall and of proportional representation, nationally as well as locally.

Seventh: The abolition of the Senate and of the veto power of the President.

Eighth: The election of the President and Vice-President by direct vote of the people.

Ninth: The abolition of the power usurped by the Supreme Court of the United States to pass upon the constitutionality of the legislation enacted by Congress. National laws to be repealed only by act of Congress or by a referendum vote of the whole people.

Tenth: The abolition of the present restrictions upon the amendment of the Constitution, so that that instrument may be made amendable by a majority of the voters in a majority of the States.

Eleventh: The granting of the right of suffrage in the District of Columbia with representation in Congress and a democratic form of municipal government for purely local affairs.

Twelfth: The extension of democratic government to all United States territory.

Thirteenth: The enactment of further measures for general education and particularly for vocational education in useful pursuits. The Bureau of Education to be made a department.

Fourteenth: The enactment of further measures for the conservation of health. The creation of an independent Bureau of Health, with such restrictions as will secure full liberty to all schools of practice.

Fifteenth: The separation of the present Bureau of Labor from the Department of Commerce and Labor and its elevation to the rank of a department.

Sixteenth: Abolition of all Federal District Courts and the United States Circuit Courts of Appeals. State courts to have jurisdiction in all cases arising between citizens of the several States and foreign corporations. The election of all Judges for short terms.

Seventeenth: The immediate curbing of the power of the courts to issue injunctions.

Eighteenth: The free administration of justice.

Nineteenth: The calling of a convention for the revision of the Constitution of the United States.

Such measures of relief as we may be able to force from capitalism are but a preparation of the workers to seize the whole powers of government, in order that they may thereby lay hold of the whole system of socialized industry and thus come to their rightful inheritance.

BOROUGH PRESIDENTS AND COMMISSIONERS OF PUBLIC WORKS IN NEW YORK CITY.

The Presidents of the five boroughs are elected at the same time as the Mayor, for a period of four years, their present terms expiring December 31, 1917. The Borough Presidents, within their respective boroughs, have charge of highway, sewer, and topographical work; of the care of public buildings and offices, and of the enforcement of the building code; the Presidents of the Boroughs of Queens and Richmond also have charge of street cleaning. Each Borough President is a member of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, which controls the city's finances, and in which board their votes have the following value: Manhattan, 2; Brooklyn, 2; Bronx, Queens, and Richmond, each 1, totalling 7. The total vote of the board is 16; the remaining 9 votes are divided equally among the Mayor, Comptroller, and the President of the Board of Aldermen. The President of each borough is also a member of the Board of Aldermen, and is Chairman of the several local improvement boards, composed of the Aldermen in his borough. The Secretary of the borough is Secretary of the local boards.

The Borough President has power to appoint a Commissioner of Public Works for his borough, who acts as his deputy, and has supervision over all bureaus except the Building Bureau. The President of the borough has cognizance and control over all matters relating to the improvement and repair of public buildings in his borough, except buildings of the Departments of Police, Fire, Charities, Correction, Education, and Bellevue and allied hospitals, and is responsible for the maintenance of those public offices which the city leases. He is also empowered to exercise the supervision vested in the city over the construction and erection of new buildings, and the alteration of existing buildings in his borough, except such powers as are directly vested in the Tenement House Department and for this purpose he is authorized to appoint a Superintendent of Buildings.

Among the miscellaneous powers of the Borough President are the following:

Licensing of sub-surface vault spaces.

Removal of encumbrances upon the sidewalks and highways.

Control over projecting signs.

Granting permission to use and open streets for any purpose.

Construction and maintenance of all bridges and tunnels, except those crossing navigable streams.

AMUSEMENT PLACES IN MANHATTAN AND BRONX.

SEATING capacity is given from information furnished by the owners or managers of the theatres, but as some houses are able to add extra seats during important engagements the figures, in a few cases, are likely to vary slightly. On December 12, 1911, the Board of Aldermen adopted a charter amendment permitting standees in theatres. The amendment provides that "any number of persons or rows of persons" may stand in the aisles back of the seats on the orchestra floor, provided that a space six feet wide be kept clear when the aisles are sixteen feet wide or under, and that ten feet shall be kept clear when the aisles are more than sixteen feet in width. Only one row of standees is permitted in the galleries.

* Vaudeville and moving pictures. † Moving pictures.

The hour for beginning theatrical performances in New York varies, being dictated by the length of the plays. Curtains rise between 8 and 8.30 P. M.; doors at all theatres open at 7.30 P. M. Saturday matinees are given at all theatres; mid-week matinees are given on Tuesdays, Wednesdays or Thursdays, the days varying at different theatres and attractions. A few popular-price theatres and all-vaudeville houses give daily matinees. Such afternoon performances begin about 2 P. M.

The standard price for the best seats in New York theatres of the first class is $2, and in some houses $2.50, the scale grading down to fifty cents, according to location.

The standard price for the best seats at the so-called popular-price theatres is $1, the scale grading down to twenty-five cents, according to location. At these theatres matinee seats are usually sold at reduced rates. A number of large theatres in New York are being used as mixed moving-picture and vaudeville houses. Among such theatres are the Savoy, Lincoln Square, Third Avenue, New Star, Grand Street Theatre, Proctor's 23d and 58th Street Theatres, Circle, Herald Square, American Roof, Bijou, Broadway, Miner's Eighth Ave., The Nemo, the Greeley Square at 6th Ave. and 30th St; Delancey Street, Delancey and Suffolk Sts.; Avenue B, 5th St. and Ave. B; 86th Street Theatre, 86th St., near 3d Ave.; National, Bergen and Westchester Aves.; Boulevard, So. Boulevard, near Westchester Ave.; Eighty-first Street, 81st St. and Broadway; Gotham, 125th St. and 3d Ave.; Miner's Bowery (Royal), Bowery, near Delancey St; Stanley, 586 7th Ave.; Peoples, 199 Bowery. The prices of admission vary at these houses when used for moving-picture entertainments, some as low as ten cents.

The standard price for the best seats at the Metropolitan Opera House is $6, the scale grading down to $1, according to location. At this house seats and boxes are sold by annual subscription also. Some of the boxes are leased or owned outright; such boxes are valued as high as $100,000.

In the number, beauty and convenience of its theatres New York now leads all other cities of the world. Architecturally and in art treasures, however, some of the municipal and State endowed theatres of Continental Europe still excel. The New York Hippodrome, seating 5,200 people, is the largest and finest place of amusement of its kind in the world.

BANKS IN MANHATTAN AND BRONX.

THE Clearing-House is at 77 Cedar Street, Manhattan Borough. Wm. Sherer is Manager, Wm. J. Gilpin, Assistant Manager. Forty-five banks and fifteen trust companies are associated for the purpose of exchanging the checks and bills they hold against one another. The Federal Reserve Bank of New York and the Ass't Treasurer of the United States at New York also clear. Other banks, not members of the association, clear through members. The representatives of the members appear at the Clearing-House at 10 o'clock every business day, with the checks and bills to be exchanged. The resulting balances are ascertained in about an hour, and before 1.30 o'clock those indebted pay their balances, and after that hour the other banks receive the amounts due them. The Clearing-House has been in operation since 1853.

Following are extracts from the Manager's annual report for year ended September 30, 1915: The Clearing-House transactions for the year have been as follows: Exchanges, $90,842,707,723; balances, $5,340,846,740; total transactions, $96,183,554,464. The average daily transactions: Exchanges, $299,810,916; balances, $17,626,556; total, $317,437,473. Total transactions since organization of Clearing-House (62 years): Exchanges, $2,599,876,748,777; balances, $123,137,986,997; total, $2,723,014,735,775.

Banks are open from 10 A. M. to 3 P. M., and on Saturdays from 10 A. M. to 12 noon. Commercial paper, except sight or demand bills, falling due on Saturday is payable on the following business day.

HEALTH LAWS REGULATION IN NEW YORK CITY.

(From a pamphlet entitled "Your Rights and Duties Under the Health Laws of New York City," issued by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company and indorsed by the Department of Health.)

THE health laws of your city have been made to protect you from disease and from early death. They are to make you live long. They are the result of long experience.

The city officials are your representatives. When they direct you to do certain things and not to do certain other things, it means that you and the people who live next door and the people who live on the next street have made certain rules and regulations through them. Your representatives have made these in order to protect you; they have made them because such rules are necessary. Naturally you will want to live up to them.

If health laws are really to make more healthful conditions you should do your share. You should do what the law says. You should urge your friends to do so as well.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES.

Contagious diseases are diseases that are "catching." They may spread quickly from the person who is sick to other people. Then these people also get sick from the disease. You should send to the Health Department the names and addresses of all persons either in your own family or in any other who may have any of the following illnesses:

Diphtheria (croup)	Infantile paralysis	Tuberculosis	Smallpox
Chicken-pox	Measles	Rubella (German measles)	Typhoid fever
Epidemic cerebro-spinal meningitis	Mumps	Scarlet fever	Whooping-cough

If you do this the Department of Health may be able to prevent the disease from spreading to other people. In addition to this, the Department of Health offers to help your family doctor recognize and treat the disease.

SIGNS—In a few of the common "catching" diseases the Department of Health puts a warning sign on the front door of the home in which the disease occurs. This is a sign that says that there is a contagious disease in the house. It may seem unpleasant to have a sign on the front door, but this is only to protect you. If your neighbor does not have such a sign on his door when there is a contagious disease in his home, you may not know that the disease is there, and you will not be able to keep your children from playing with those who have it. It is very dangerous to allow children to play with those who have a contagious disease.

BOOKLETS—The company issues many circulars on these contagious diseases. You can get these free of charge from your agent.

VACCINATION—This is a slight scratching on the arm by a physician. Vaccine is then rubbed in and allowed to dry. You should be vaccinated. By doing this you will probably avoid having smallpox. This horrible disease often leaves pock marks on the face and body. In those who have not been vaccinated it often causes death. You can also protect yourself against typhoid fever by another kind of vaccination. This disease, as you know, is very common in this country. Get vaccinated, have your family vaccinated, encourage your neighbors to be vaccinated. If you do this you will be protected, and smallpox and typhoid fever will be stamped out.

FOOD.

The law says: You are entitled to clean, fresh, and wholesome food.

Be sure that your food dealer keeps his shop clean. If he does not keep the store clean do not hesitate to speak to him about it. If he does not even then clean up his store, notify the Department of Health.

DIRTY FOOD—The law says: You are entitled to have the food that is offered you in stores and on stands protected from dust, dirt, and flies. This does not, however, apply to food that is peeled and cooked before it is eaten. Be sure that the food that you buy is not soiled by dirt of flies. You will in this way avoid much disease.

MILK—The law says: You are entitled to clean milk which has not been changed in any way by having water or any other substance added to it. Milk, in order to be good, must be kept in a cool place. Be sure that the milk you buy has been cooled and that it has been carefully protected from dirt, flies, or anything else that would make it dangerous. The law says: Your milk dealer must have a permit issued by the Board of Health allowing him to sell milk. If he does not have one, call up or write to the Department of Health.

If your baby cannot be nursed at the breast, do not feed it any milk that is not marked "GRADE A."

Wash all your milk bottles when they are empty. Do not send back dirty milk bottles that may bring disease or even death to some one else's baby.

LABELS—The law says: You are entitled to receive just the foods for which you pay. It requires all foods to be truthfully labelled. Be sure, therefore, to read the labels carefully. Do not overlook the fine print!

COLD STORAGE—The law says: Every store that sells food that has been kept in cold storage must hang up a sign telling you that such is the case. If a dealer is selling food that has been in cold storage and does not tell you that it has been so kept, he is violating the law. Write to the Department of Health or call up 6280 Franklin about it.

ANIMALS.

KEEPING ANIMALS—You are not allowed to keep chickens, geese, ducks, pigeons, or other fowl within the city limits unless you have a permit from the Board of Health. You are not allowed to keep any animals in a tenement house.

No dogs, cats, or birds may be sold or kept for sale without a permit from the Board of Health.

MUZZLING DOGS—All dogs at large in New York City must wear muzzles. This is the only sure way to stamp out rabies (hydrophobia), a disease which is very common among animals in this city, and one that is very dangerous to persons who catch it by being bitten by rabid (mad) dogs. Such persons almost always die.

NOISY ANIMALS—You must not disturb your neighbors by keeping any birds, dogs, or other animals which, by making noises, annoy any person who lives near you. If your neighbors are keeping animals that disturb your rest, complain to the Department of Health. You and your family need wholesome refreshing sleep every night. Your neighbors have no right to disturb your rest.

DEAD ANIMALS—Report dead or dying animals that you see in the street, or in any other public place to the Department of Health or to a police officer, who will see that the animals are promptly taken away.

DRAINAGE AND GARBAGE.

It is unhealthful to allow stagnant (standing) water to remain in the streets or in vacant lots. Mosquitoes breed in it. Vile odors come from it. Allow no water from a building to run across the sidewalk. By so doing you may cause some one, especially a child, to walk in the street where he may be run over. In the Winter the water may freeze and be the cause of a broken leg. This does not mean, however, that the janitor shall not wash the pavement during the hours prescribed by law.

GARBAGE CANS—The law says: The owner of a tenement must provide a can in which the people who live in the house can put their garbage, and a separate can in which to put ashes. Keep your garbage and ashes separate. You must not fill garbage and ash cans within four inches of the top. If you do so they may overflow.

Keep your garbage can covered. This is especially necessary if it is placed outside the building for collection. If you do not do this flies will come, and flies bring disease. In order that garbage may not be spilled or thrown around, the law says that no person except the proper city collectors shall touch it. If your ashes and garbage are not regularly collected, notify the Department of Street Cleaning.

PAPERS—The Street Cleaning Department will give the janitor a bag for paper. This should hang in the basement. Before you place out, for the collector, papers and other articles that may be blown around, tie them in bundles.

SMOKE, CINDERS, OFFENSIVE ODORS.

The law says: You have the right to have pure, fresh air to breathe. If there is much dense smoke in your neighborhood, or if there are offensive or disagreeable odors, telephone 6280 Franklin, or write to the Department of Health.

REPORTING OF BIRTHS.

You should have your baby's birth registered at the Department of Health. The record will be very helpful in later years. It will admit the child to school, enable the child to obtain working papers, and later to vote. Birth certificates are necessary for many different purposes. Be sure that your baby's birth is recorded. A record of each birth must be sent to the Department of Health not more than ten days after the child is born. Ask your physician or midwife to do it for you. See that it is filled out and mailed.

MIDWIVES—The law says: Your midwife must be registered and licensed. Be sure that your midwife is registered. If a midwife is not registered and licensed by the Board of Health, she does not know her business and is not allowed to practise in this city. Protect yourself by having only such persons as have obeyed the law. A licensed midwife has the certificate of the Board of Health in her office.

POISONS.

The law says: Distinct poison labels must be on all boxes or bottles that contain a deadly substance. Be sure that such a label is on boxes or bottles, so that neither you nor your family will take poison by mistake. Many deaths occur each year because bottles of poison have not been labelled. If you keep any poisons in your home, put them on a high shelf so that the children cannot get at them.

Certain poisons can only be sold if ordered by a physician. Do not ask your druggist to sell you these without a prescription; he is not allowed to do so.

Wood alcohol is a very dangerous poison, and must never be used either for rubbing or for medicine. It often causes blindness. Be sure to keep wood alcohol away from the children.

SPITTING.

Do not spit. A single drop of sputum may contain thousands of deadly germs. Spitting is a filthy habit. Do not encourage it. Keep your children from starting it. If you must spit, use a handkerchief. You may be arrested and fined if you spit on a sidewalk or in a public place. If you see persons spitting in a car, on a ferry boat, or in a public place, speak to the conductor or public officer about it.

DRINKING CUPS.

Do not use a common drinking cup. You do not know the kind of person who used it last. It may contain dangerous disease germs. If you see a common cup in a public place, notify the Department of Health. The use of a common drinking cup in public places is forbidden by law. Be careful in your home. Do not use a cup or glass that has been used by some one else without washing it.

TOWELS.

Do not use a towel that has been used by some one else. It is dangerous to use such towels. You do not know what disease you may get. The law says: Public washrooms must not supply common roller towels. If they do so they are disobeying the law. Insist on individual towels. Paper towels are cheap and sanitary.

PAPERING OF ROOMS IN APARTMENT HOUSES.

No paper shall be placed upon a wall or ceiling of any tenement house unless all wall paper shall be first removed therefrom and said wall and ceiling thoroughly cleaned.

CONCLUSION.

Follow these suggestions and you will avoid much illness. You will be healthier and your life will be pleasanter. Encourage your neighbors to follow these rules for their own sake and for yours. Speak to them about it. If any of these regulations are not followed, mention the fact to the person who is violating the law. If he does not follow it after you have told him, wait a little while and then notify your policeman or the Department of Health.

CLINICS, HOSPITALS, AND INFANTS' HEALTH STATIONS.

The Department of Health is maintained for your benefit. It is ready to help you if you will call on it. There are many clinics where you may be examined free of charge by experts to see if you have tuberculosis. If you think that you may have tuberculosis go to the nearest clinic and get a thorough examination. If you do not know where the clinics are, call up the Department of Health.

At many health stations in different parts of the city you can obtain expert medical advice in the care of your baby. If you have any trouble at all in bringing up your baby, go at once to your doctor, or, if you cannot afford a private physician, go to one of the infants' health stations. The Board of Health will be glad to tell you which is the nearest.

The Department of Health has eleven clinics for the treatment of school children. If the school doctor sends word that the child's eyes are weak or diseased, or that the child's tonsils and adenoids need removal, or if the child's teeth need attention, be sure to follow the school doctor's advice and have the matter promptly attended to. If you cannot afford a private physician or dentist, you can get free treatment by experts at the clinics of the Department of Health. Or you can ask the school nurse, who will direct you.

HOSPITALS—If you cannot afford a physician, call up and ask the Department of Health as to the nearest hospital where you may receive free treatment.

THE HEALTH OF NEW YORK CITY DURING 1914.

(From Department of Health Bulletin.)

THE year 1914 marked the lowest death rate ever attained in the city of New York, and definitely placed this city among the most healthful of the large cities of the world. The number of deaths reported during the year was 74,803, with a rate of 13.40 per 1,000 of the population, as against 73,902 deaths and a rate of 13.76 for the year 1913. Thus there has been a decrease in the death rate of .36 of a point, which is equivalent to saying that if the death rate of 1913 had prevailed during 1914 2,010 more deaths would have been recorded than actually took place.

The most noteworthy feature of the decreased mortality was the splendid record in infant mortality, only 95 infants dying out of every 1,000 born. This is the lowest infant death rate attained in the city of New York, the infant death rate in 1913 having been 102 per 1,000 births.

The following causes of death showed a considerable decrease in mortality: Typhoid fever, measles, scarlet fever, all forms of acute respiratory diseases and diarrhœal diseases under five years of age. There were 10,286 deaths reported from all forms of tuberculosis, as against 10,031 deaths in 1913, an increase in the absolute figures of 255 deaths, the rate per 1,000 of the population being 1.84 during 1914, as against 1.87 in 1913, a slight decrease in the rate. There were 16,804 deaths reported from the combined causes of organic heart, kidney and brain diseases, as against 16,194 in 1913, an increase of 610 deaths; the number of deaths reported from cancer was 4,463, an increase of 240 over the figure of 1813; 4,516 infants died from congenital causes, such as malformations, marasmus, prematurity, etc., and 4,982 met with violent deaths. The death rate from purely accidental deaths decreased somewhat, while that from suicides increased considerably, there having been 915 deaths reported from this cause; 13,312 children died before the completion of the first year of life, 19,518 children died under the age of five years. There were 41,235 deaths reported of males as against 33,568 deaths of females; 30,825 deaths were reported from institutions; 29,561 from tenements; 11,819 from dwellings; 726 persons died in hotels, and 1,852 died in rivers, streets, etc.

The year 1914 also witnessed the greatest number of births that ever occurred in the history of the city of New York, there having been 149,647 children born during that year, an increase of 5,513 births over 1913. The number of marriages reported during the year was 53,052, as against 51,268 in 1913, an increase of 1,784.

THE ANCIENT AND MYSTICAL ORDER ROSAE CRUCIS.

The American Order of the Rosæ Crucis was established in New York City in February of 1915 after nine years' preparation. The American Supreme Council operates under a duly signed and sealed charter with the Ancient Constitution as its law. The order was originally established in Egypt in 1350 B. C., and is the oldest secret and fraternal order in the world to-day, with many millions of members in every country. Its teachings embrace all that is mystical, occult, scientific, philosophical, and helpful to one's health, happiness, and success. Branch lodges are being established in all the principal cities of the United States. Membership limited to men and women of good morals, over 21 professing a belief in a Supreme Being. The order is non-sectarian. Officers for America: Most Worshipful Grand Master and Imperator—H. Spencer Lewis, Commandant of the American Commandery, Knights of the Rosæ Crucis. Secretary-General—Hon. Thor. Kiimalehto, 80 Fifth Avenue, New York City. Meetings twice monthly in all temples.

SOCIALIST PARTY NATIONAL COMMITTEE.

WALTER LANFERSER, Executive Secretary, 803 West Madison Street, Chicago, Ill. This organization known nationally as the Socialist Party, is officially known as the Public Ownership Party in Minnesota, to conform to the election laws in that State. The National Executive Committee is composed of five members, elected by the referendum of the membership. The Executive Secretary is elected in like manner. The term of office is two years. The following are the Executive Committee: Emil Seidel, Milwaukee, Wis.; Arthur Le Sueur, Minot, N. Dak.; James H. Maurer, Reading, Pa.; Adolph Germer, Springfield, Ill.; George H. Goebel, Newark, N. J. The National Committee is composed of representatives from each organized State or Territory, of which there are 65. Representation is as follows: The National Committee consists of the State Secretaries of all organized States and Territories, or such other persons as the members of the party in the State elect by referendum vote, with one additional member from each State or Territory for every three thousand members in good standing in such State or Territory. For the purpose of determining the representation to which each State or Territory may be entitled, the National Secretary computes the beginning of each calendar year the average dues-paying membership of such State or Territory for the preceding year. Three years' consecutive membership in the party is necessary to qualify for membership in the National Committee.

PUBLIC MARKETS IN NEW YORK CITY.

THE present public markets of the city are West Washington, Gansevoort, Washington, Jefferson, and Delancey in Manhattan, and Wallabout in Brooklyn.

Washington Market—Located at Fulton and West Streets. It covers an area of about 175 x 203 feet, and was established in 1812. It is a jobbing and retail market. Meat, fish and game, butter, eggs, cheese, fruits, and vegetables are sold there. The city charges for space in this market by the square foot.

Jefferson Market—Located at the corner of Greenwich Avenue and Sixth Avenue, and occupies about 36,000 square feet. This is a retail market. Space is rented by the city to dealers by the square foot.

West Washington Market—Established in 1889 at Gansevoort and West Streets. It covers an area of about 369 x 400 feet. There are ten buildings—two-story structures built in blocks of twenty stands each, with marketing space on the first floor and offices on the second. It is strictly a wholesale market in which meat, garden produce, and live poultry are sold. The stalls in this market are leased by the square foot.

Gansevoort Market—An open market square bounded by West, Little West Twelfth, Washington and Gansevoort Streets. It has no buildings of any kind. It is by legislation restricted to the use of farmers and gardeners for the sale of products they themselves have grown. Each farmer is charged a fee of 25 cents daily for space occupied by his wagon. It is mostly a wholesale market for dealers to purchase from farmers.

Delancey Street Market—A pushcart market located under the approach to Williamsburg Bridge at Pitt and Willett Streets, where fish, vegetables and fruits, and miscellaneous dry goods are sold. It occupies a space 400 x 100 feet. In the fish market places rent for from $1.00 to $2.00 a week, according to location. In the rest of the market a fee of 25 cents a day is charged for each cart.

Wallabout Market—Located in Brooklyn, and has an area of about thirty-six acres of irregular shape. It extends from Clinton Avenue to East Avenue, to Wallabout Basin. In this market the city owns the land and the ground is leased out to individuals on ten-year leases, with a renewal of ten years at the expiration of that time after appraisal. A great many farmers use this market to sell their produce to dealers, and pay 25 cents a day for each wagon space in the market. Mostly all the purchases are wholesale in this market.

The city of New York also has four open markets, which were opened on September 1, 1914, under the direction and supervision of Borough President Marcus M. Marks of Manhattan, as follows:

Manhattan Bridge Open Market—Located under the Manhattan Bridge at East Broadway and Market Street. Wholesale and retail business may be carried on in this market. All kinds of foodstuffs are on sale at very low prices. It is estimated that 10,000 purchasers use this market daily.

Queensboro Bridge Open Market—Located under the Queensboro Bridge at Fifty-ninth Street and First Avenue. Wholesale and retail business is carried on at this market. All kinds of foodstuffs are on sale at very low prices. Fresh farm produce may be obtained by the consumer direct from the farmer at considerable saving to the purchaser. Delivery service may be had at this market at very reasonable rates. It is estimated that 10,000 purchasers use this market daily.

Harlem Bridge Open Market—Located under the Harlem Bridge at 129th Street and Third Avenue. Wholesale and retail business is carried on at this market. All kinds of food supply are on sale at very low prices. Fresh farm produce may be obtained by the consumer direct from the farmer at a considerable saving to the purchaser. Delivery service may be had at this market at very reasonable rates. It is estimated that 15,000 purchasers use this market daily.

BRIDGES IN AND ABOUT THE CITY OF NEW YORK.

BROOKLYN BRIDGE.

THE bridge connecting Manhattan and Brooklyn over the East River from Park Row, Manhattan, to Sands and Washington Streets, Brooklyn, was begun January 3, 1870, and opened to traffic May 24, 1883. Total cost of the bridge to date about $23,200,000.

The tolls are: For foot passengers, free; railway fare, 3 cents, or 2 tickets for 5 cents. Roadway tolls for vehicles abolished July 18, 1911. On August 23, 1897, the bridge railway was leased to the elevated railroad companies (now operated by the Brooklyn Rapid Transit), paying therefor 10 cents per car; trolley cars, 5 cents per round trip. About 125,000 surface cars cross the bridge each month.

The following are the statistics of the structure: Width of bridge, 86 feet. Length of river span, 1,595 feet 6 inches. Length of each land span, 930 feet. Length of Brooklyn approach, 998 feet. Length of New York approach, 1,562 feet 6 inches. Total length of carriageway, 6,016 feet. Total length of the bridge, with extensions, 7,580 feet.

Size of Manhattan caisson, 172 x 102 feet. Size of Brooklyn caisson, 168 x 102 feet. Timber and iron in caisson, 5,253 cubic yards. Concrete in well holes, chambers, etc., 5,669 cubic feet. Weight of Manhattan caisson, about 7,000 tons. Weight of concrete filling, about 8,000 tons.

Manhattan tower contains 46,945 cubic yards masonry. Brooklyn tower contains 38,214 cubic yards masonry. Depth of tower foundation below high water, Brooklyn, 45 feet. Depth of tower foundation below high water, Manhattan, 78 feet. Size of towers at high water line, 140 x 59 feet. Size of towers at roof course, 136 x 53 feet. Total height of towers above high water, 272 feet.

Clear height of bridge in centre of river span above high water at 90° F., 135 feet. Height of floor at towers above high water, 119 feet 3 inches.

Grade of roadway, 3¼ feet in 100 feet. Height of towers above roadway, 153 feet. Size of anchorage at base, 129 x 119 feet. Size of anchorage at top, 117 x 104 feet. Height of anchorages, 89 feet front, 85 feet rear. Weight of each anchor plate, 23 tons.

Number of cables, 4. Diameter of each cable, 15¾ inches. Length of each single wire in cables, 3,578 feet 6 inches. Ultimate strength of each cable, 12,000 tons. Weight of wire, 11 feet per pound. Each cable contains 5,296 parallel (not twisted) galvanized steel, oil-coated wires, closely wrapped to a solid cylinder, 15¾ inches in diameter. Permanent weight suspended from cables, 14,680 tons.

MANHATTAN BRIDGE.

Manhattan terminal, Bowery and Canal St.; Brooklyn terminal, Nassau, near Bridge St. Estimated cost, $29,900,000; of which $15,660,000 is for structure and $14,240,000 for land.

Width of bridge, 122 ft. 6 in. Length of river span, 1,470 ft. Length of each land span, 725 ft. Length of Manhattan approach 2,067 ft. Length of Brooklyn approach, 1,868 ft. Total length of roadway, 6,855 ft. Bridge is of double-deck design, first deck to have one 35-foot roadway in centre and two subway tracks on each side and one 11-foot footwalk on each side, top deck to have four trolley tracks. Approximately 40,000 cubic yards excavation for each anchor pier; approximately 115,000 cubic yards masonry and concrete in each anchor pier.

Height of cables at top of tower above mean high water mark, 322 ft. 6 in. Height of roadway at centre of bridge above mean high water mark, 149 ft. Grade of roadway 3⅛ ft. in 100 ft. Number of cables four, 37 strands in each cable; 256 wires in each strand; 9,472 wires in each cable; 37,888 wires in four cables. Size of wire 0.192 inches in diameter. Size of cable completed 21¼ inches in diameter. Length of each wire 3,223 ft. 6 in. (anchor to anchor). Ultimate strength of each cable, 30,000 tons.

Weight of steel cables and suspenders, 8,000 tons. Weight of each tower, 6,300 tons. Weight of main span, 9,000 tons Weight of each side span, 5,000 tons. Weight of steel in each anchorage, 1,300 tons. Weight of Manhattan approach, 8,500 tons. Weight of Brooklyn approach, 8,000 tons.

Work of construction of tower foundation in Brooklyn commenced October 1, 1901. Roadway opened for traffic December 31, 1909. East footwalk opened to pedestrians July 18, 1910. West footwalk opened May 11, 1911.

WILLIAMSBURG BRIDGE.

The tower foundations for the bridge in Manhattan are at the foot of Delancey Street, and in Brooklyn at a point between South Fifth and South Sixth Streets. The bridge ends at Clinton Street in Manhattan, and at Havemeyer Street in Brooklyn. Construction commenced November 7, 1896. Size of Manhattan caissons (2), 76 x 60 feet; Brooklyn caissons (2), 79 x 63 feet. Depth of tower foundations in Manhattan, north caisson 55 feet, south caisson 66 feet below mean high water; in Brooklyn, north caisson 107 feet 5 inches, south caisson 91 feet 9 inches below mean high water. Height of masonry in Manhattan and Brooklyn towers, 23 feet above mean high water. Total height of towers above mean high water, 332 feet 9 inches. Size of both anchorages at top, 149 feet x 127 feet 5 inches. Length of main span, 1,600 feet; each side span, 596 feet 6 inches; Manhattan approach, 2,650 feet; Brooklyn approach, 1,865 feet. Total length from Clinton Street, Manhattan, to New Street, Brooklyn, 7,308 feet. Width over all, 118 feet. Two roadways, each 20 feet wide, two footwalks, each 17 feet 8 inches wide. Height of roadways at towers, 125 feet 8 inches above mean high water. Height of roadways at centre of bridge, 145 feet 6 inches above mean high water. Clear height of bridge for channel width of 400 feet, 135 feet above mean high water. Number of supporting cables, 4. Diameter of each cable, 18⅝ inches. Length of each single wire in cables, 2,985 feet. Total length of wire in four cables, 17,404 miles. Weight of four cables, including suspenders, 4,900 tons. Weight of structural steel and iron in main bridge, 23,800 tons; in approaches, 16,600 tons; total, 45,300 tons. Bridge opened for pedestrians and vehicles December 19, 1903. Surface railway for Brooklyn lines began operation November 3, 1904. Surface railway for Manhattan lines began operation February 9, 1905. Elevated railway began operation September 16, 1908 Cost of construction, including station in Manhattan, $14,200,000. Cost of land, $9,100,000.

QUEENSBORO BRIDGE.

Plans approved by the War Department, February 23, 1901. Main bridge is a continuous cantilever. Bridge, with approaches, extends from Second Avenue, between Fifty-ninth and Sixtieth Streets, Manhattan, to Crescent Street, Queens. Construction commenced June, 1901. Height of highest masonry piers, 124 feet above mean high water. Length of Manhattan approach, 1,052 feet; west channel span, 1,182 feet; island span, 630 feet; east channel span, 984 feet; length of Queens approach, 2,672 feet 6 inches. Total length from Second Avenue to Crescent Street, 7,449 feet. In addition, the Queens plaza has a length of 1,152 feet, extending from Crescent Street to Jackson Avenue. Width over all, 89 feet 6 inches. Width of roadway, 53 feet. Two sidewalks, each 16 feet wide. Height of roadway in central portion of bridge, 143 feet above mean high water. Height of footwalks in central portion of bridge, 165 feet above mean high water. Height of lower balconies on towers on Blackwell's Island, 202 feet 6 inches above mean high water. Height of upper balconies on towers on Blackwell's Island, 333 feet above mean high water. Clear height of bridge for channel width of 400 feet for both east and west channels, 135 feet above mean high water. Weight of steel and iron in main bridge, 54,200 tons; in approaches, 20,300 tons. Total, 74,500 tons. Bridge opened for pedestrians and vehicles, March 30, 1909. Surface railway began operation, September 19, 1909. Cost of bridge construction, $13,500,000; cost of land, $4,700,000; total, $18,200,000.

HELL GATE ARCH BRIDGE.

The bridge spans the East River at Hell Gate, between Ward's Island and Astoria, Long Island. Designed and built by Gustav Lindenthal for the New York Connecting Railroad to connect the Pennsylvania and New York, New Haven systems, at a cost, including approaches, of $25,000,000. It is the longest arch in the world. The span is 1,016 feet 10 inches between tower faces. The upper chord of the arch is 300 feet above mean high water at the centre and 180 feet at the ends of the span; the lower chord is 260 feet above mean high water at the centre and 40 feet at the ends; the roadway is 140 feet above mean high water.

The arch carries four railway tracks (two passenger and two freight) on a solid concrete deck. It is the heaviest bridge in the world, weighing 52,000 pounds per lineal foot and carrying a loading of 24,000 pounds per lineal foot, making a total carrying capacity of 76,000 pounds per lineal foot. The steel work weighs 19,000 tons and the flooring and track weigh 7,000 tons. The heaviest single member weighs 185 tons and has a cross section of 1,384 square inches. The width of the bridge is 93 feet between railings and 60 feet between centres of trusses.

The Long Island tower is 104 by 140 feet at the base and is founded on rock in open cut at 20 feet depth. The Ward's Island tower is 119 by 140 feet at the base and rests on 21 pneumatic concrete caissons, founded on rock varying from 58 to 120 feet below the ground surface. Height of towers, 240 feet. Total concrete in towers, 110,000 cubic yards. Total concrete in bridge towers and approaches, 500,000 cubic yards.

Construction of arch commenced November, 1914. Arch was erected by cantilevering out from the towers, each half being held by connection to temporary backstays built behind the towers. The two halves were joined October 1, 1915. Entire steel work completed January, 1916. Will be opened to traffic about January, 1917.

THE SAFETY FIRST FEDERATION OF AMERICA.

Organized February 26, 1915. This society has for its objects uniform laws for control of automobile traffic and improvement of street traffic conditions throughout the country by a standard system of supervision. President—Darwin P. HACK AND CAB FARES IN MANHATTAN BOROUGH.

THE legal rate of fare, of which an official copy shall be furnished by the Bureau of Licenses, and carried by every licensed hackman, shall be as follows:

Maximum rates of fare shall be as follows:

Motor Vehicles (Except Sight-Seeing Cars)—For not more than two passengers: For the first half-mile, or any fraction thereof, 30 cents; for each succeeding one-quarter mile, or any fraction thereof, 10 cents. For three or more passengers: For the first half-mile, or any fraction thereof, 40 cents; for each succeeding one-sixth mile, or any fraction thereof, 10 cents.

Sight-Seeing Cars—No rates are hereby established for sight-seeing cars, but a schedule of the rates charged for each trip shall, before the trip, be prominently displayed upon the car, and a charge greater, or attempt to charge any passenger a sum greater than that set forth in said schedule shall be deemed a violation of this ordinance.

Horse-Drawn Vehicles—For cabs: For the first mile, or any fraction thereof, 50 cents; for each succeeding one-half mile, or any fraction thereof, 20 cents. For coaches: For the first mile, or any fraction thereof, 70 cents; for each succeeding one-half mile, or any fraction thereof, 30 cents. Hourly rates (applying only to horse-drawn vehicles when shopping or calling, and not including park or road driving, nor driving more than five miles from starting point): For the first hour, or any part thereof, $1.50; for each additional one-half hour, 50 cents. In case of public hacks on which taximeters are not affixed, when driving on the numbered streets or numbered and lettered avenues in the Borough of Manhattan, twenty blocks north and south, and seven blocks between the numbered and lettered avenues constitute a mile for the purpose of this ordinance. The rate card, as provided for hereafter, shall state the number of blocks constituting a mile in the Borough of Manhattan.

Applying Both to Motor-Driven and Horse-Drawn Vehicles: For waiting time at the rate of $1.50 per hour. For each piece of luggage carried outside, 20 cents. No charge shall, however, be made for hand bags and suit cases. Ferriage and tolls in all cases to be paid by the party using the vehicle.

Any violation of the provisions of this article, or any charge or any attempt to charge any passenger a greater rate of fare than that to which the public hack is entitled under the provisions of this article, shall render the offender liable, upon conviction thereof before any City Magistrate, to a fine of not exceeding $10, or in default of payment thereof to imprisonment in the City Prison for a period not exceeding ten days.

Every driver of a public hack, immediately after the termination of any hiring or employment, must carefully search such hack for any property lost or left therein, and any such property, unless sooner claimed or delivered to the owner, must be taken to the nearest police station and deposited with the officer in charge within twenty-four hours after the finding thereof, and the Captain of the precinct to which such report shall be made shall forward a written notice to the Bureau of Licenses with brief particulars and description of the property.

Every driver of a public hack shall have the right to demand payment of the legal fare in advance, and may refuse employment unless so prepaid, but no driver of a public hack shall otherwise refuse or neglect to convey any orderly person or persons upon request anywhere in the city, unless previously engaged or unable to do so. No driver of a licensed hack shall carry any other person than the passenger first employing a hack without the consent of said passenger.

All disputes as to the lawful rate of fare shall be determined by the police officer in charge of the police station nearest to the place where such dispute is had; failure to comply with such determination shall subject the offending party to a charge of disorderly conduct, punishable by a fine of not exceeding $10, or in default thereof, imprisonment for not more than ten days.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS OF NEW YORK CITY.

PUBLIC education in New York City began with the founding of the Free School Society (after 1826 the Public School Society) in 1805. The society started in a small way, depending upon private subscriptions, but soon received aid from the city. It gradually expanded, and until 1842 had control of the moneys supplied for educational purposes by the city and the common school fund of the State. This condition of affairs was unique. The society, being under the direction of high-minded citizens, enjoyed a large degree of public confidence. So anomalous a system could not last, however, and by an act of the Legislature, passed in 1842, the Board of Education was established. The Public School Society continued to conduct its schools until 1853, when, by mutual consent, they were all taken over by the board. The society at that time had more than a hundred schools; the value of the property it transferred to the city was estimated at $450,000, and during its existence it educated some 600,000 children. The Board of Education was an elective body from 1842 to 1871, the members being chosen first by wards, and from 1863 by school districts; since 1871 they have been appointed by the Mayor. In Brooklyn a Board of Education was created in 1843; the members were chosen by the Common Council until 1862, in which year the appointing power was vested in the Mayor. When consolidation took effect, in 1898, separate school boards were provided for the several boroughs (Manhattan and the Bronx being united), with a central Board of Education (composed of delegates from the four school boards, 19 in all) having charge of the finances, the erection and repair of buildings, the acquiring of sites, the purchase and distribution of supplies, etc. This system was dropped on the revision of the Charter in 1901, and since 1902 there has been one Board of Education for the city. It consists of forty-six members—twenty-two for Manhattan, fourteen for Brooklyn, four each for the Bronx and Queens, and two for Richmond. Their term of office is five years.

The Board of Superintendents, consisting of the city superintendent of schools and eight associate superintendents, has large powers in the nomination, promotion, and transfer of teachers, the recommendation of text-books and scholastic supplies, the determination of courses of study, the fixing of qualifications for teachers' licenses, etc. Its important acts require the approval of the Board of Education. There are twenty-six district superintendents, whose duties are to visit schools and observe the work of teachers. The Board of Examiners (consisting of the city superintendent and four examiners) conducts all examinations for would-be teachers, and prepares eligible lists. The school superintendents and examiners, as well as the supervisor of free lectures, the superintendent of school buildings, the superintendent of school supplies, and the director of attendance (whose duties are indicated by their titles), have terms of six years each. The Board of Education appoints all these officials and also a secretary, an auditor, and a director of reference and research, having no fixed term. Principals and teachers are appointed by the Board of Education on the nomination of the Board of Superintendents. The merit system is in full operation, and teachers are appointed in order of standing. Beginners are on probation for three years, their licenses being renewable from year to year; when permanently licensed, their tenure is assured, and they cannot be removed except on charges. New teachers are appointed only after pursuing a training school course.

The regular school day is five hours in length, but in September, 1913, it was decided that four hours should be considered full time for classes of the first-year grades; the kindergarten session is three hours in length.

The budget appropriation of the Department of Education for 1915 was $39,840,349.90, of which $32,609,695.92 constituted the general school fund (for teachers' salaries). For 1916 the appropriation is $35,865,981, the general school fund being $33,555,641. Under the so-called Equal Pay law (Chapter 902, laws of 1911) teachers (men and women) in elementary schools serve three years at $720; they then advance, with yearly increments of $60, to $1,500. This applies to the great majority. In the upper grades the maximum salaries are $1,820 and $2,260. Assistants to principals (heads of departments) receive $2,400, and principals $3,500. In high schools salaries range from $900 to $3,150; in training schools, from $1,000 to $3,250. Principals of high schools and training schools are paid $5,000, and $5,000 is the salary of district superintendents. Examiners and the director of attendance receive $6,000. Associate superintendents and the director of reference and research receive $6,500. The salary of the city superintendent is $10,000. The number of elementary schools and annexes is 610—210 in Manhattan, 200 in Brooklyn, 72 in the Bronx, 92 in Queens, and 36 in Richmond. The number of high schools is 24. There are also three training schools for teachers, four vocational schools and three truant schools. In the elementary schools there are 1,370 men and 16,654 women teachers; in the high schools 1,068 men and 1,131 women. In the evening schools (high and elementary) there are 2,685 teachers One hundred and fifty-five attendance officers enforce the Compulsory Education law. The latest available figures show the average attendance as follows:

The increase in capacity since September, 1913, has been 20,329, and the increase in the number of part-time pupils has been 3,797.

Teachers incapacitated after thirty years' service are retired on pensions (half pay); the number of retired teachers November 1, 1915, was 1,495.

School buildings and sites are paid for with the proceeds of city bonds (corporate stock); the amount issued since consolidation has been $110,356,098, computed to July 1, 1915.

THE SURROGATE'S COURT IN NEW YORK COUNTY.

To one court tribunal, it has been said, every one in New York comes sooner or later—the Surrogate's or Widows and Orphans' Court. Some come to it as heirs, next of kin; some as creditors or debtors; some as witnesses; some as representatives of institutions of education or charity benefited by bequests, and some, not very many, as contestants of wills which they seek to alter or to overthrow.

In the Surrogate's Court in New York County (it is a county court) there are approximately 6,000 cases requiring decisions in a year, there being about 2,500 wills offered for probate and about 2,000 cases of those dying intestate in which letters of administration are granted on application of relatives. The number of contested wills is about 600, and of the oaths administered to executors, administrators or witnesses about 10,000. Approximately 3,000 "accountings" have to be examined, about 2,000 guardians for those under age appointed, and about 5,000 bonds approved.

Two Surrogates are almost continuously at work, alternating at "Chambers," where the routine is transacted, and "in Court," where motions or contests are heard. The amount of routine work done is extensive; the value of the funds accounted for and distributed is incalculable. Every will when offered must be copied fully and exactly, and this part of the work is voluminous, amounting to 275,000 folios in a year. The Surrogates must sign about 29,000 "orders" in a year, and the number of bundles handled in the record room of the court is about 80,000 a year.

The Surrogate's Court is one of the oldest tribunals in New York State. Under the first Constitution Surrogates were chosen for an unlimited period by the Council of Appointment, and an appeal from their decisions was to the Judge of the Court of Probate. Under the second Constitution, they were appointed by the Governor and Senate for four years; appeals lay to the Chancellor. The Constitution of 1846, except in counties where the population exceeded 40,000, abolished the office of Surrogate and devolved its duties on a county Judge. The first New York Surrogate took office in 1787. Of the present Surrogates, the older in years, in service at the bar and in extent of term is Robert Ludlow Fowler, to whom fell last year decisions in cases involving over $100,000,000.

Nearly 7,000 witnesses appear at the Surrogate's office in a year to make deposition as to wills they have seen signed, and there are about 5,000 applications for appointment as administrators. Seven thousand reports of guardians are received in a year and 6,750 motions of various kinds are heard by the Surrogates. The office is open from 9 A. M. until 4 P. M., except Saturdays, when it closes at noon.

PAWNBROKERS' REGULATIONS IN THE CITY OF NEW YORK.

Pawnbrokers in New York City are regulated by statute. The rate of interest fixed by law is 3 per cent. a month or any fraction of a month for the first six months, and 2 per cent. per month for each succeeding month upon any loan not exceeding $100, and 2 per cent. a month for the first six months and 1 per cent. a month for each succeeding month on any loan exceeding $100. Pledges cannot be sold until after they have been kept one year, and then at public auction by a licensed auctioneer, after publication of at least six days in two daily newspapers designated by the Mayor. Pawnbrokers pay a yearly license fee of $500 to the city and are under the control of the Mayor. The license is issued through the Department of Licenses, and their books must be kept open to the Mayor, Criminal Courts, Magistrates, Police and Department of Licenses.

PROVIDENT LOAN SOCIETY.

(Executive office, 346 Fourth Ave., cor. 25th St.) Loaning offices: 346 Fourth Ave., 186 Eldridge St., 180 E. 72d St., cor. E. Houston and Essex Sts., 736 Seventh Ave., 124th St. and Lexington Ave., 409 Grand St.; Bronx, Courtlandt Ave. at 148th St.; Brooklyn, 24 Graham Ave., Pitkin and Rockaway Aves., Smith and Livingston Sts.

Office hours: 9 A. M. to 5 P. M.; Saturday to 6 P. M. Ticket good for one year only. Loans may be paid by instalments, in sums not less than $1. Ra es of interest: One per cent. per month, or any fraction thereof. Only one-half month interest charged on all loans redeemed within two weeks after date of pledge. Condition of loan agreed to by the holder of the ticket in consideration of interest being charged at less than the rate allowed by law. The Provident Loan Society of New York shall not be liable for loss or damage by fire, breakage, dampness, theft, or moths; nor shall it be liable in any event for more than 25 per cent. in addition to the amount loaned. James Speyer, President; Frank Tucker, Vice-President; Otto T. Bannard, Treasurer; Mortimer L. Schiff, Secretary.

When making payment by instalment, the full amount of interest due on the sum loaned must be included, and the ticket must be returned. The interest due on the loan cannot be paid by instalment. The society has thus far limited the classes of personal property on which it has made loans to clothing and so-called "jewelry," including under that designation all articles of gold or silver, precious stones, opera-glasses, eye-glasses, also men's clothing in good condition, and ladies' and men's furs.

NEW YORK CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

Organized April 5, 1768. Incorporated by George III. March 13, 1770. Reincorporated by the State of New York April 13, 1784. Its object is indicated in the following words of the original charter: "Sensible that numberless inestimable benefits have accrued to mankind from commerce; that they are, in proportion to their greater or lesser application to it, more or less opulent and potent in all countries; and that the enlargement of trade will vastly increase the value of real estates as well as the general opulence of our said colony," and "to carry into execution, encourage, and promote, by just and lawful ways and means, such measures as will tend to promote and extend just and lawful commerce."

During the decade 1760-1770, according to Lord Sheffield's Observations, the average yearly value of American Colonial imports from Great Britain was £1,763,409, and of exports to the same country £1,014,591. Up to the evacuation of the city by the British and its occupation by the Americans, on the 25th of November, 1783, the New York Chamber of Commerce had had seven Presidents, thirteen Vice-Presidents, eight Treasurers, one Secretary, and 135 members. In May, 1763, the Sandy Hook Lighthouse was lighted up for the first time. In 1786 the Chamber of Commerce first suggested the construction of the Erie Canal, and in 1784 petitioned the New York Legislature (which so ordered) that duties should be levied under a specific instead of an ad valorem tariff.

As a society the Chamber of Commerce is limited to fifteen hundred resident and two hundred and fifty non-resident members. Initiation fee, $50. Annual dues, $50 per annum. Non-resident members, $25 per annum.

The building of the Chamber is at 65 Liberty Street, New York. Officers: President—Seth Low; Secretary—————; Assistant Secretary—Chas. T. Gwynne; Treasurer—William H. Porter.

SUBWAY SYSTEMS IN NEW YORK CITY.

For Tunnels in and about New York City, see Index.

EXISTING SUBWAYS.

THE subway operated by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company comprises:

A four-track trunk line from City Hall Park through Lafayette Street, Fourth Avenue, Forty-second Street and Broadway to Ninety-sixth Street.

A two-track southern extension from City Hall, down Broadway to the Battery, there connected by the Rapid Transit Tunnel under the East River to the Brooklyn subway, which extends along Joralemon and Fulton Streets to Atlantic Avenue.

Two northern branches from Ninety-sixth Street, viz. (a) the Broadway and (b) the Lenox Avenue.

(a) The Broadway or West Side branch extends along Broadway, St. Nicholas and Amsterdam Avenues, and Broadway to 242d Street (Van Cortlandt Park). It has three tracks from Ninety-sixth Street to 137th Street and two beyond. Part of it is an elevated structure.

(b) The Lenox Avenue branch has two tracks (portions of which are carried on an elevated structure) with a terminal at Bronx Park. The Lenox Avenue branch leaves the trunk line at about 103d Street, runs eastwardly to and under the northwest corner of Central Park, thence north through Lenox Avenue to about 141st Street, where it branches off to the eastward and runs through various streets to Westchester Avenue, through Westchester Avenue to Southern Boulevard, and through Southern Boulevard to the terminus of the line at Bronx Park, or 180th Street.

Total length of all the above routes, 26.3 miles, having 85.2 miles of track. Standard four-track cross section (two for express trains and two for local) 54 feet 8½ inches wide over all and 16 feet 7 inches high, with roof supported by steel columns. 97,500 tons of structural steel and 725,000 cubic yards of concrete used. The contract for the subway in New York north of City Hall was awarded January 15, 1900, to John B. McDonald and completed by him October 27, 1904, as far as 145th Street. The Bronx extensions were not completed until some time later. The contract for subways south of City Hall and in Brooklyn were awarded after the one in New York to the Rapid Transit Subway Construction Company, and were completed in 1908. Total cost about $75,000,000, of which $50,000,000 was expended on the construction of the subway, and $25,000,000 on the equipment, viz., power house, rolling stock, signals, etc.

The Hudson and Manhattan Railroad operates a system of subways popularly known as the McAdoo Tunnels. These tunnels connect the business section of New York with the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Lehigh Valley Railroad, the New York, Susquehanna and Western Railroad, the Erie Railroad, and the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad terminals on the New Jersey side, and in addition operate to a station at Summit Avenue, Jersey City, and thence over the tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad to Manhattan Transfer and to Park Place, Newark. There are two sets of tunnels under the Hudson River. On the New York side the downtown tunnel terminates in the Hudson Terminal Building at Church and Fulton Streets. The uptown tunnel terminates at Sixth Avenue and Thirty-third Street. It is planned to extend this line to the Grand Central Station at Forty-second Street. The total length of the system is 7.91 miles, of which 3.16 miles are in New York and 4.75 miles in New Jersey.

SUBWAYS UNDER CONSTRUCTION.

The Public Service Commission for the First District, the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of the city of New York, the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, and the New York Municipal Railway Corporation (Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company) concluded their negotiations for the construction and operation of new rapid transit lines in New York City. These lines comprise what is known as the Dual System, so called because two companies already engaged in city transportation, viz., the Interborough Rapid Transit Company and the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, obtained leases for the operation of the new system. The contracts were signed March 19, 1913.

The new contracts call for the construction of 44.55 miles of new subway, 53.19 miles of new elevated road, and 19.8 miles of third track and other additional tracks on the existing elevated railroads. A portion of the work is under contract, and some of it is already completed. The completed portions embrace the Fourth Avenue subway in Brooklyn, comprising four miles of four-track road running from the Manhattan Bridge to Fourth Avenue and Forty-third Street, Brooklyn; the Centre Street Loop, a four-track subway a mile and a half long, running from Park Row and Chambers Street to Manhattan and Williamsburg Bridges; and the Belmont Tunnel (Steinway Tunnel) under the East River from Forty-second Street, Manhattan, to Long Island City.

Other work under contract consists principally of the construction of the Lexington Avenue subway, contracts having been let from Forty-second Street north through Lexington Avenue, under the Harlem River and out Jerome Avenue as far as Woodlawn Road, the terminus of that branch; also in 138th Street and Southern Boulevard from Alexander Avenue to Whitlock Avenue. The contract for the elevated section of this latter branch from Whitlock Avenue out Westchester Avenue to Pelham Bay Park has not yet been awarded. Work is also in progress on two sections of the Southern Boulevard extension of the Lexington Avenue subway in 138th Street and Southern Boulevard between Alexander Avenue and Whitlock Avenue. These two subways are a part of the lines to be operated by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company.

On the lines to be operated by the New York Municipal Railway Corporation (Brooklyn Rapid Transit), work is going on for the entire length of the Broadway subway from Whitehall Street to Fifty-ninth Street, Manhattan. Contracts have been let for 10 miles of elevated railroads in the Borough of Queens. These lines will be operated jointly by the Interborough and Brooklyn companies. All extensions of the subway system, whether underground or elevated, will be owned by the city of New York, although both companies contribute toward the cost of their construction.

The Dual System plans call for the extension of the existing subway from Forty-second Street up Lexington Avenue, with branches in the Bronx, and an extension down Seventh Avenue to the lower part of Manhattan, with a tunnel to Brooklyn and an extension out Eastern Parkway, Brooklyn, for operation by the Interborough Company; and the tying in of existing elevated railroads in Brooklyn, owned by the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, with the Fourth Avenue subway in Brooklyn and the Centre Street Loop in Manhattan, both owned by the city, the extension of the Fourth Avenue subway down Fourth Avenue from Forty-third Street to Eighty-ninth Street, and the third tracking and extension of the principal Brooklyn elevated railroads.

Contracts have been awarded for the construction of the East River tunnels and other parts of the Dual System. The proposed tunnel from Brooklyn to Staten Island, while provided for in the Dual System, is left for future construction. The Centre Street Loop subway has been in operation for more than two years. The two westerly tracks in that subway were placed in operation by the New York Consolidated Railway Company August 4, 1913. The other two tracks have also been placed in operation. The Fourth Avenue subway in Brooklyn, from the Manhattan Bridge to Thirty-sixth Street and Fourth Avenue, was placed in operation in June, 1915, in connection with the Sea Beach Line, with through trains running to Coney Island Avenue.

The Dual System will be completed, it is expected, by January 1, 1917. When in full operation, the Brooklyn Rapid Transit trains will be able to enter Manhattan by means of four bridges across and two tunnels under the East River, and can be operated northward through Broadway and Seventh Avenue to Fifty-ninth Street, and eastward through Fifty-ninth Street and over the Queensboro Bridge to Astoria and Corona in Queens. On the Brooklyn side the system will include the lines to Coney Island and other remote parts of the borough. Over the whole Brooklyn part of the system the fare will be five cents and transfers will be freely given, so that it will be possible for a passenger to take a train at Corona, near Flushing, ride through to Manhattan at Fifty-ninth Street, south to Canal Street, and then across the Manhattan Bridge and through the Fourth Avenue subway and its connections to Coney Island for a single fare. As soon as the South Brooklyn elevated railroads are rebuilt and it is possible for the Brooklyn company to operate continuous trains from Manhattan to Coney Island, the five-cent fare to Coney Island will be an assured fact.

On that part of the system to be operated by the Interborough Company, the length of the five-cent fare will be greatly extended. A passenger will be able to ride from Pelham Bay Park, through the Bronx into Manhattan, down the whole length of Manhattan, under the East River to Brooklyn and out Eastern Parkway and Livonia Avenue to New Lots Road for a single five-cent fare. Transfers will be given upon all parts of the Interborough system, except that there will be no further transfers than are at present allowed between the elevated railroads and the subway.

In the Dual System the rapid transit lines now operated by both the Interborough and Brooklyn companies will be linked with the new lines built and to be built by the city and by the companies, so that old and new in each company's territory may be operated as one system. Toward the new system allotted to the Interborough Company, the city contributes the existing subway, and the company the existing elevated lines in Manhattan and the Bronx. Toward the new system for the Brooklyn lines the city contributes the Broadway, the Fourth Avenue, Fourteenth Street and Centre Street Loop subways, with 110 miles of track, and the company contributes the existing elevated railroads in Brooklyn, with 105 miles of single track. The elevated railroads in each case are owned by private companies, but the existing subway is owned by the city of New York, although under lease to the Interborough Rapid Transit Company.

The city is to furnish most of the money for the building of the new lines under the operating contracts, but each company is to contribute toward the cost of construction and is to bear the entire cost of the equipment. The equipment is to become the property of the city of New York when placed in operation, and the cost of it is to be amortized out of earnings. The cost of construction and equipment of the entire system will be about $330,000,000, of which the city of New York will pay about $164,000,000, the Interborough Rapid Transit Company $105,000,000, and the New York Municipal Railway Corporation $61,000,000. Of the amounts to be paid by the companies, $58,000,000 of the Interborough's total and $13,500,000 of the New York Municipal Railway's total will be expended upon the construction of lines to be owned by the city of New York. The balance of the money will be spent for equipment, which, at the end of the lease, will also become the property of the city.

NEW YORK WATER SUPPLY.

New York City has grown so rapidly in the past ten years that the water system, which when 3rst planned was considered ample for many years, has been taxed to its limit, and there is at present an urgent need for the new system, which is being built, for bringing the water from the Catskill Mountains. The city consumes every day about 550,000,000 gallons of water, and, assuming a population of 5,800,000, then every man, woman and child uses nearly 100 gallons a day. The new Catskill Aqueduct will have a capacity of 500,000,000 gallons a day, and the largest reservoir in the system (the Ashokan), once filled, could supply the city for eight months at the present rate of consumption, without any water flowing into it.

THE PRESENT SYSTEM.

The water supply of the city of New York is divided by boroughs, those of Manhattan and Bronx being taken together, as they are practically supplied from the same sources. In the boroughs of Manhattan and Bronx the supply is by means of gravity, the water being pumped to the higher parts of the boroughs. In the lower part of Manhattan and certain business districts of Brooklyn an independent system, known as the high pressure fire service, is used exclusively for fire protection purposes. The high pressure fire service system is connected up with the regular distribution mains; in case of emergency provision has been made so that salt water can be used.

DISTRIBUTION SYSTEM.

The Boroughs of Manhattan and Bronx are supplied from both the Croton and the Bronx and Byram watersheds. The Croton covers an area of 360 square miles, and from various reservoirs water is brought through more than 30 miles of masonry conduit to distributing reservoirs in the boroughs. The Bronx and Byram watershed covers about 22 square miles.

In Manhattan, Croton water is used entirely, but in the Bronx about three-quarters of the population is supplied with Croton water, the other quarter being supplied from the Bronx and Byram Rivers. Approximately 350,000,000 gallons are used every day in Manhattan and the Bronx.

In Brooklyn about 80 per cent. of the water comes from wells, and the remainder from small streams, the watersheds having an area of nearly 170 square miles. All the water is pumped and about 150,000,000 gallons are consumed daily from municipal and private sources. Flatbush and Borough Park are supplied by private companies from wells.

The city supplies only the first and third wards in the Borough of Queens, while the other wards are supplied by private companies. The water is taken from wells and the consumption averages about 36,000,000 gallons daily.

In Richmond, the city owns the wells which furnish about 11 500.000 gallons daily.

HIGH PRESSURE FIRE SERVICE SYSTEM.

The high pressure fire service system in Manhattan is bounded by Thirty-fourth Street, Madison Avenue, Twenty-fourth Street, Lexington Avenue, Fourteenth Street, Third Avenue, Bowery, Houston Street, East River, Battery, North River, and covers an area of 5.8 square miles.

There are two pumping stations, one located at Gansevoort and West Streets, and the other at Oliver and South Streets. Each station has six electrically driven centrifugal pumps that are connected to the Croton Supply (see above), the Gansevoort and West Street station being also connected to the North River, and the Oliver and South Street station to the East River. Thus, either fresh or salt water may be used, the latter, however, only being used in emergencies. Each pump can deliver 3,000 gallons a minute against a head of 300 pounds at the station. The combined capacity of the two stations is equal to about 50 fire engines delivering two good sized streams. The pumping stations respond to every alarm with a pressure of 125 pounds per square inch.

The distributing system consists of 128 miles of mains, 8 to 24 inches in diameter, and about 1,750 four-nozzle hydrants and the necessary valves.

The pressure at any point can be increased or decreased by telephoning to the pumping stations. For this purpose there are approximately 696 telephone boxes, besides telephones communicating with the Fire Headquarters and with the main and subsidiary stations of the New York Edison Company.

The present system cost about $6,762,000 for stations, land, mains, and appurtenances.

In Brooklyn there are two high pressure fire service systems, one protecting the business and manufacturing districts, and the other the amusement section of Coney Island.

The one for the business and manufacturing districts is bounded by the upper New York Bay, Hudson Avenue, Tillary Street, St. Edward's Street, St. Felix Street, Fort Greene Place, Fifth Avenue, Twenty-fourth Street, Thirty-ninth Street to the water front, and covers an area of 4.8 square miles.

The supply is furnished by two stations, the main one being located at the foot of Joralemon Street, and the reserve one at Willoughby and St. Edward's Streets. Both draw their supply from the Ridgewood mains, the main station being also connected to the East River.

The pumps are electrically operated in both stations, and have a combined rated capacity of 4,000 gallons per minute against a pressure of 300 pounds per square inch.

The distributing system consists of about 34 miles of mains, 8 to 20 inches in diameter, with the usual hydrants.

The Coney Island high pressure system protects an area of 470 acres. The pumping station located at West Twelfth Street and Coney Island Creek. Gas engines driving pumps are installed, the total capacity being 4,500 gallons per minute pumping against a pressure of 150 pounds per square inch. The water is distributed through 6 miles of mains, 8 to 16 inches in diameter, having hydrants where necessary.

THE CATSKILL MOUNTAIN SYSTEM.

The new water supply system, which is nearing completion, consists of the following reservoirs, viz.: Ashokan for impounding the water, Kensico for storage, Hill View for equalizing and distributing, and Silver Lake for distributing and serving as a terminal reservoir, and besides these reservoirs the Catskill Aqueduct for conveying the water. In New York City the system will be inter-connected with existing works after some changes have been made in the present pipe lines. However, the city pumping plants in Manhattan and the Bronx, Brooklyn, Queens, and Richmond, which pumped during the year 1914 over 140,000,000 gallons daily, and the various private plants, which during the year 1914 supplied about 37,-000,000 gallons daily, may in part be dispensed with as the water brought by the new Catskill system will have in general sufficient pressure to reach the twentieth floor of a building situated at tide level.

ASHOKAN RESERVOIR.

The main supply will be impounded or collected in the Ashokan Reservoir, which is 13 miles west of Kingston, N. Y., from its tributary watersheds, the Esopus, now being developed, 255 square miles in extent, with the Schoharie, 228 square miles, and the Catskill Creek, 163 square miles, available for development in the future. The reservoir, formed by the building of the Olive Bridge dam and a number of dikes, is approximately 12 miles long by one mile wide, with a maximum depth of 190 feet. When full, the surface of the water is 590 feet above sea level. Although in a series of dry years the Esopus watershed cannot be depended upon to supply more than 250,000,000 gallons each day, the Catskill Aqueduct has, for economic reasons, been constructed for 500,000,000 gallons daily capacity.

Investigations by borings are being made in the vicinity of Prattsville of proposed dam sites across Schoharie Creek, the watershed of which is to be developed next in the plan of utilizing the full capacity of the Catskill Aqueduct.

CATSKILL AQUEDUCT.

Leading from the Ashokan Reservoir is the Catskill Aqueduct, into which, through future development, may also empty the Lackawack Reservoir (supplied by the Rondout watershed, having an area of 131 square miles), the aqueduct bringing the water to Storm King, four miles above West Point, then under the Hudson River in a tunnel to Breakneck Mountain, from Breakneck Mountain to Kensico Reservoir and from the latter to Hill View Reservoir in Yonkers, just north of the city line.

The type of construction depends entirely on the nature of the country the aqueduct crosses. Wherever possible it is built in the open—that is, in cut and cover—but in many cases tunnels and siphons are required. The cut and cover portion is of concrete, having a horseshoe shaped cross section 17 feet high and 17 feet 6 inches wide, with the flat part resting on the ground. The dimensions of the tunnels range from approximately those just given to a circular section 14 feet 6 inches in diameter. The entire waterway is concrete lined.

The most difficult tunnel to bore was the one under the Hudson River between Storm King and Breakneck Mountains. Here it was necessary to cut through solid rock at a distance 1,100 feet below the surface of the river. From Breakneck Mountain to Kensico Reservoir (east of Tarrytown, N. Y.) cut and cover construction, with an occasional tunnel or siphon, is followed; similarly the Kensico Reservoir is connected to the Hill View Reservoir, and from the latter is the tunnel for supplying New York. The Catskill Aqueduct from the Ashokan Reservoir to the city line at Yonkers is about 92 miles long, 55 miles being cut and cover, 31 miles tunnels and 6 miles of steel pipes.

CITY TUNNEL OF CATSKILL AQUEDUCT.

The tunnel from Hill View Reservoir passes under the Borough of Bronx, the Harlem River, the Borough of Manhattan, the East River, and terminates in Brooklyn, a distance of 18 miles. At the Brooklyn terminal pipes extend to Queens and to Richmond, the pipes to the latter being of cast iron, crossing the Narrows and discharging into an equalizing reservoir at Silver Lake, 225 feet above sea level.

The tunnel is circular in section, reducing from 15 feet to 11 feet in diameter, lined with concrete, and varying from 200 to 750 feet deep in solid rock. It thus passes far below all subways and building foundations. About every 4,000 feet connections will be made to the present distributing system, through controlling valves set to furnish the water at any lower pressure than that in the tunnel, which existing conditions may require.

The tunnel is capable of delivering 500,000,000 gallons daily, the water rising at the Brooklyn end to nearly 240 feet above tide water, a height sufficient to supply without pumping the highest sections of the borough. The estimated cost of the tunnel and pipes within the city and the reservoir on Staten Island is $25,000,000.

The total cost of the entire system as projected, including the development of the Catskill Mountain watersheds as needed by the growth of the city of New York, the necessary reservoirs, Catskill Aqueduct and all appurtenances, will be about $177,000,000. It is estimated that the work now under contract will be almost wholly completed in 1916.

Construction operations have been in progress about eight years, and nearly $100,000,000 worth of contracts have been awarded. The development of the Esopus watershed is completed, from which a daily yield of 250,000,000 gallons is obtainable. The aqueduct to deliver this water to the five boroughs of the city is finished with the exception of contract tests of the city tunnel, a few minor items of construction and equipment, operating tests of the entire work and final preparations for service. Ashokan impounding reservoir was, in September, 1915, storing 80,000,000,000 gallons of water, over 60 per cent. of its capacity. Its appurtenant structures are nearing completion. Kensico storage reservoir, through record-breaking progress in the construction of Kensico dam, is so nearly completed as to permit beginning the storage of water. Hill View equalizing reservoir is finished, while Silver Lake terminal reservoir, commenced in August, 1913, is over three-quarters done. None of the three last-mentioned reservoirs is immediately essential to the temporary operation of the aqueduct.

* Includes Eleventh Avenue, New York City. The above figures comprise a list of fatalities, 50 per cent. of which are preventable.

The table of homicides indicates that pistols are the cause of the majority of murders. The law in the State of New York regulating the sale and carrying of pistols is beginning to show its efficaciousness, as the figures for 1914 show a marked decrease of homicides and suicides by shooting. The law is now in its third year of operation. A uniform law in every State restricting and regulating the sale of pistols would probably decrease murders and suicides in the United States 50 per cent. Better regulations governing the sale of poisons would show a decrease in deaths from this cause, as shown in Tables B and C. Deaths caused by elevators could be reduced to a minimum if a law was passed compelling the installation of a device that would prevent the car from moving while the door leading to the elevator car is open. Eighty per cent. of the fatalities, as shown in Table D, happen at the door entrance. The number of deaths of young children, as shown in Table H, would be decreased if parents were more careful in seeing that matches were not left lying around the house where young children can handle them.

Deaths by vehicular accidents, as shown in Table I, particularly by automobiles, could be decreased if the proper preventive measures were taken by the authorities, namely, the rigid enforcement of the traffic ordinances, licensing of all operators and revocation of license for cause and suitable punishment of reckless drivers. In comparison with the trolley cars it is worthy of note that deaths caused by the latter have decreased over 50 per cent. since 1907, showing what can be done to prevent these street fatalities.

Guaranteed Low Cost Life Insurance

Our Guaranteed Low Cost Life Insurance Policies guarantee every figure and eliminate all uncertainties. They provide from 15% to 25% more life insurance from the beginning in place of so-called dividend policies.

They contain a disability clause by which in event of permanent total disability before age sixty the policy immediately matures for the full value by the payment of a guaranteed income to the disabled insured.

That the merits of this form of life insurance appeal to business men is evidenced by the fact that in the percentage of increase during the last five years The Travelers stood second among all the leading life insurance companies in the country.

Accident Insurance

The Travelers accident policies are the standard of what such policies should be, insuring against temporary disability as well as against loss of life, limb and sight. Business men will be interested particularly in The Travelers Maximum Policy, which covers all accidents but pays a maximum of $40,000 for accidents of travel at a cost of $35.

Our Compensation and Liability Contracts provide the most complete coverage and the most efficient service for the prevention of accidents. In 1914 it made over 162,000 inspections for the improvement of working conditions. In this line as well as in accident insurance The Travelers is the leading company of the world.

The Company also issues automobile, elevator, teams and public liability policies.

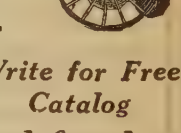
Eureka Potato Planter

Send for Catalog—FREE

Profitable for the large or small grower. Plants potatoes at lowest possible cost. One man operates it. Opens the furrow—drops the seed any distance or depth required—puts on fertilizer (if wanted)—covers up—marks the next row. Accurate, automatic and dependable. Sold with or without Fertilizer Attachment.

Here's why you should select the Eureka Potato Planter: Furrow Opening Plow is directly under the axle—that means uniform depth at all times. The seed drops in sight of driver. Steel and malleable construction makes long life and few repairs. Made in three sizes—for one or two rows.



Eureka Mulcher and Seeder

Write for Free Catalog

A mulcher, smoothing harrow, cultivator, weeder and seeder—all in one. Forms dust mulch—a blanket of loose soil—preventing soil hardening and moisture escaping. Increases yield of corn, potatoes, oats, wheat, etc. Kills weeds. Has flat teeth, especially adapted to form mulch. Lever and pressure spring control depth of teeth. Sold with or without seeding boxes for grass seed, alfalfa, oats, etc. Teeth cover the seed. Adapted for a large variety of work. Three sizes, 8, 10 and 12 feet. Shipment from branch near you.

Eureka Mower

Write for Free Catalog

This machine has the one right cutting principle—centre draft. Cutter bar is directly in front of wheels—mows back and forth on one side of field in any direction. No side draft. Cut crop is left in standing position and cures rapidly. One-third saving in time and labor. The Eureka Mower abolishes tedding and tramping of cut crop. It's the ideal mower for orchard and working between rows. Will cut weeds in pastures and brush that no other mower will handle. 5 sizes for one or two horses. 46 years on the market. Machines bought 30 years ago, and used every year, still in use.

Prompt shipments.

SHORTHAND IN 30 DAYS

You can learn in spare time in your own home, no matter where you live. No need to spend months in study, as was formerly necessary. The Boyd Syllabic System is easy to learn—easy to write—easy to read. Simple, Practical, Speedy, Sure. No ruled lines—no positions—no shading, as in other systems. No long list of word signs to confuse. Only nine characters to learn and you have the entire English language at your absolute command. This system is now widely used by stenographers, private secretaries, newspaper reporters. Lawyers, ministers, teachers, physicians, literary folk and business men and women may now learn shorthand for their own use through home study. A perfect shorthand system for any purpose—and does not require continual daily practice. Our graduates hold high-grade positions in all sections of the country. Send to-day for free booklet, testimonials, offer, etc.

I don't care what business or profession you're in, you've got to get up and fight for everything you get in this life; not with your hands, but with your brains, and speech is your weapon.

Don't Stand Still—Move On!

If you can speak convincingly—if you have the ability to express your ideas, your chance of success is doubled. For it is not only what you say that counts—it's how you say it. The best ideas on earth haven't a chance if you can't "put them over" in speech—if you can't make others see them as you do.

Let Me Teach You

Give me fifteen minutes a day and I will teach you how to address board meetings, make political speeches, propose and respond to toasts, make after-dinner speeches, tell stories, sell more goods, develop power and personality, improve your memory, increase your vocabulary, speak and write English correctly, earn more—achieve more.

Send for Facts Free

Let me send you complete information—let me explain how easy it is—show you letters from hundreds of enthusiastic graduates—tell you how my course will help you individually. I'll send this by mail. No salesman will call. Write to-day—a postal will do.

Stop Forgetting!

Prof. Henry Dickson, Principal Dickson School of Memory.

Don't Be Chained to a Poor Memory

Forgetfulness is the chief cause of inefficiency. A perfect memory is the key to success. Your most valuable possession is a perfectly trained memory. In business or social life it is absolutely essential, if you are ambitious to rise above the ranks of the merely mediocre. Ability to concentrate at will—to think quickly, accurately—to speak readily and confidently—to recall instantly and naturally names, faces, facts, figures, etc.—are stepping stones to preferment. And you can easily acquire these invaluable possessions if you will. Good memory is not a special gift peculiar to a select few. It is a result of training. It is for any one who will accept.

The Dickson Method of Memory Training Makes You "FORGET-PROOF!"

Ten minutes a day of your spare time will give you this training and will not interfere with your work in any way whatever.

My course is not a theory, but a purely and absolutely scientific method of easy practical home lessons which any one can readily understand and master. It is the result of many years of personal contact with thousands of students as their instructor in leading schools and colleges, searching their developing minds for means of strengthening their memories. My method of memory training enables you to classify impressions, ideas, names, facts and arguments without effort—trains you to think on your feet—to overcome self-consciousness and bashfulness. My system of memory training has transformed thousands of failures into successes—it will make you "forget-proof."

Smith's Non-Skid Canvas Tread Tire improvement over former way of building the tread is shown in this illustration. Notice the two strips of rubberized canvas extending from the interior of the tread to the surface, which binds the tread to the air carcass, preventing the tread from splitting, peeling off, also prevents skidding and stone bruising the air carcass, which is the ruination of all tires. BLOWOUTS are impossible. Free booklet telling many other advantages and Agent's proposition.

HYPNOTISM

Be a Hypnotist and Make Fun and Money!

It takes but a few hours to learn. The study is both easy and fascinating. Hypnotism is an endless source of fun and wonder. If you know how to hypnotize you can perform some of the most marvellous things imaginable. You can do a hundred amazing things that other people cannot do. You can surprise your friends and make yourself popular. You can place others under this strange and mystic spell. You can compel them to think, act and feel just as you wish. If you want to make money you can do so by giving entertainments, treating diseases or teaching the art to others. Why work for others when you may master this money-making profession so easily? Investigate now! You may learn at your own home. I will send you my free treatise for the asking. It tells you about Hypnotism and how you may easily learn it. It is profusely illustrated and is written in a simple style easily understood by all. Anybody may learn from it of how the hypnotic spell sways the will of its subjects, heals the sick, reforms the degraded, overcomes bashfulness, helps to trade or position, amuses an audience for profit, and gains for the operator himself courage, will-power and a means to health, wealth and happiness. It also treats fully on Personal Magnetism and kindred subjects. Remember, this treatise is absolutely free. Simply write for it, and it will be sent by next mail, all charges paid. "GAINS 22 POUNDS IN 23 DAYS"

Remarkable Experience Told by F. Gagnon—A Simple Way by Which Thin Men and Women Have Put on Healthy Flesh.

"I was all run down to the very bottom," writes F. Gagnon. "I had to quit work, I was so weak. Now, thanks to Sargol, I look like a new man. I gained 22 pounds in 23 days." And N. D. Sanderson adds, "When I started Sargol I weighed 147 lbs. and now I weigh 160 lbs. Everybody is telling me how fat you have got in the last month."

When hundreds of men and women—and there are hundreds, with more coming every day—living in every nook and corner of this broad land, have voluntarily reported to weight increases ranging all the way from 10 to 35 pounds, given them by Sargol, you must admit, Mr. and Mrs. and Miss Thin Reader, that there must be something in this Sargol method of flesh building after all.

Sargol has put pounds of healthy "stay there" flesh on hundreds who doubted, and in spite of their doubts. You don't have to believe in Sargol to grow plump from its use. You just try it and see if your weight don't pile up, hollows vanish and your figure round out to pleasing and normal proportions. You weigh yourself when you begin and again when you finish and you let the scales tell the story.

Sargol is just a tiny concentrated tablet. You take one with every meal. It mixes with the food you eat for the purpose of separating all of its flesh producing ingredients. It prepares these fat making elements in an easily assimilated form, which the blood can readily absorb and carry all over your body. Plump, well-developed persons don't need Sargol to produce this result. Their assimilative machinery performs its functions without aid. But thin folks' assimilative organs usually do not. This fatty portion of their food now goes to waste through their bodies like unburned coal through an open grate. A few days' test of Sargol in your case should surely prove whether or not this is true of you. Isn't it worth trying?

50c BOX FREE

To enable any thin reader to easily make this test we will give a 50c box of Sargol absolutely free. Send for this Free Test Package to-day, enclosing 10c in silver or stamps to help pay distribution expense, etc., and a full size 50c package will be sent by return mail free of charge. Mail this coupon with your letter to the Sargol Co., 300-N Herald Building, Binghamton, N. Y.

This picture intends only to represent a plump, well-developed man and woman who would attract attention anywhere.

Your Bunion Can Be Cured
Instant Relief
Prove It At My Expense

Don't send me one cent—just let me prove it to you as I have done for 57,532 others in the last six months. I claim to have the only successful cure for bunions ever made and I want you to let me send you a treatment FREE, entirely at my expense. I don't care how many so-called cures, or shields or pads you ever tried without success—I don't care how disgusted you feel with them all—you have not tried my cure and I have such absolute confidence in it that I am going to send you a treatment absolutely FREE. It is a wonderful yet simple home treatment which relieves you almost instantly of all pain; it removes the cause of the bunion and thus the ugly deformity disappears—all this while you are wearing tighter shoes than ever. I know it will do all this and I want you to send for a treatment FREE, at my expense, because I know you will then tell all your friends about it as those 57,532 others are doing now. Write now, as this announcement may not appear in this paper again. Just send your name and address and treatment will be sent you promptly in plain sealed envelope.

DRINK HABIT

For the good of those who are victims, directly or indirectly, of the drink habit, I have written and published a very interesting illustrated book which describes how I was freed completely from the craving, and for several years I have not had any desire to touch a drop of anything alcoholic. My book contains information, by following which thousands of drinkers have admittedly been saved.

Many men who do not want to be freed of drink curse have been secretly saved by wives, mothers or sisters. They did not realize what was happening until they found all desire had left them—they couldn't drink any more whisky or beer—then they rejoiced at having been saved. My book has been proven many times worth its weight in gold to a multitude of families. Praised by physicians, judges, editors, clergymen and legions of others. Simply write Edward J. Woods, 657-L, Station E, New York, N. Y., and you will soon receive the FREE book of valuable information in plain wrapper, and happiness may soon be yours. Correspondence confidential.

A Thousand Deaf People

A thousand people become deaf each year we are informed, because of neglecting to overcome catarrh of the nostril passages and throat. Always when one is getting over a cold in the head, Pretzinger's Catarrh Balm should be used. It costs but fifty cents of any good druggist, and may save many dollars and your hearing sense too. Perhaps the reader's hearing is not so acute, perhaps the ears itch and thump away inside where one cannot see—well, its catarrhal deafness coming on and the way to absolutely stop it is by using this wonderful healing curative balm—Pretzinger's Catarrh Balm. It is guaranteed satisfactory by dealers and a Free sample may be had by addressing, enclosing 2c stamp to cover cost of mailing, Pretzinger's Catarrh Balm Co., 50 Patterson Bldg., Dayton, Ohio.

Sleep All Night, Don't Get Up Once!

Bladder Weakness Quickly Corrected by Recent Scientific Discovery In Old and Young.

Send for FREE 50c Package.

You who have to get up at least once, and maybe six or eight times every night because of bladder weakness, and who have almost forgotten what the restfulness and luxury of an unbroken night of untroubled sleep is like, should surely welcome the wonderful, scientific discovery incorporated in Kellogg's Brown Tablets.

"Oh-hi-hum! It's Tough to Have to Get Up This Way Every Night!"

Of this agent, a noted physician and scientist of Washington, D. C., said, in an address before the American Therapeutic Society: "That the aged sufferer passes his nights like in the days of his prime * * * is the reason of the claim for a symptomatic cure."

You Are a Dope Fiend!

If this accusation were made against you, the probabilities are that you would wax indignant, and either lay violent hands on the accuser, or seek legal redress. Yet the fact remains that too many of us daily "dope" ourselves with pills and fake medicines, whose habit-forming ingredients too often result in the victim's finally becoming the slave of an insidious drug that is deadly in its effects.

YOU CAN'T GET HEALTH AND STRENGTH FROM A SPOON!

When you make a clearing house of your stomach for pills, physics, patent "dope," &c., you are merely exchanging one undesirable condition for another that is equally, if not more, undesirable.

When your watch runs down, do you pour acid on the spring, or do you wind it up? Your body is worth more than your watch. Yet you "eat up" your vitality with drugs more deadly in their effect on the human system than would be nitric acid on the spring of your watch.

LIONEL STRONGFORT

The world's strongest and most perfect athlete, whose unaccepted challenge of competition to the greatest living "strong men" still stands.

Do away with the fancied necessity for drugs. Nature intended the body to be a thing of beauty, not a pitiable framework over which to stretch a covering that would hold harmful drugs.

If your body was built by Strongfort there would be no necessity for the use of drugs. The temporary stimulation that is afforded by the use of pills, &c., is called for only by the weak, ill-nourished physique. A strong, healthy body is its own stimulant, and a stimulant that is Nature's perpetual gift.

You can become as strong and healthy as you wish, and you can enjoy the vitality and energy that go hand in hand with success in any walk of life. It is not the weak, scraggy, scare-crow sort of man that is the leader in any sphere. It is the strong, virile, health-exuding MAN who carries off the prizes that are worth winning.

WOULD YOU PUT YOUR HEAD IN A LION'S MOUTH?

No! But you daily place yourself in a far more precarious position by trying to "swallow" health and energy.

Look at the picture to the left of this page. Do you suppose for a minute that the wonderful development shown there was attained by the use of drugs? Do you think that a pill could build that chest, or a spoonful of "dope" those legs or arms? You know they couldn't: so that if you are looking for strength and health such as I possess, make use of the methods by which I obtained them. In that way only can it be acquired. YOU CAN GET the results achieved by me. STRONGFORT pupils throughout the world are a living, happy, enthusiastic testimonial to the efficacy of my methods. I do not recognize the word FAILURE!

I don't care what your ailment, or of how long standing it is. Whether it is simple indigestion, or whether you are now reaping the fruits of the seeds sown by Youthful Folly. Put a cross opposite your ailment or ailments in the coupon attached; mail it to me, and it will bring you a MESSAGE OF RELIEF. You can tell me things you would hesitate to tell a physician, and I will respect your confidence and earn your eternal gratitude.

My book, "Intelligence in Physical and Health Culture" will open your eyes to many things, and bring to your hands a method whereby the HEALTH, STRENGTH, ENERGY and HAPPINESS that are rightfully yours may be attained. Send that coupon to-day. The sooner you learn more of STRONGFORTISM the sooner will you be on the high-road to HEALTH AND HAPPINESS.

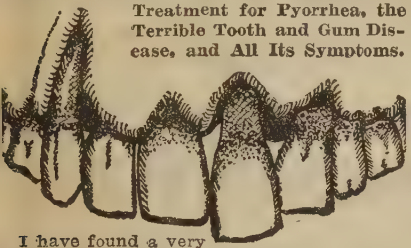
Loose Teeth Sore Gums

(PYORRHEA)

I am a Dentist of 25 Years' Experience. I Have Perfected a Most Successful Home Treatment for Pyorrhea, the Terrible Tooth and Gum Disease, and All Its Symptoms.



I have found a very successful home treatment for that terrible disease called Pyorrhea or Riggs Disease of the gums. Most dentists tell their patients there is no cure for it, that there is no cure for loose teeth, bleeding, spongy, shrinking gums and dropping out of teeth; but many who have used my home treatment say there is, AND PROVE IT.

Don't have those teeth pulled. You may save every one of them—make them good, firm, healthy, sound teeth again.

Hundreds of patients say Dr. Willard's home treatment stops the teeth from being loose or wobbly and that it has done so in cases where the patient could almost pull his teeth out with his fingers, where the gums were soft and spongy, bleeding and shrinking away from the teeth. You may make these conditions positively and absolutely disappear and end your Pyorrhea. There is no pain, no fussing, no waste of time.

The letters I will send you from people in all parts of the country will tell you that the torture and expense of dentist's work—all its grinding, whirring, jamming and nerve-touching agony are gone forever. No more plates and bridges. They enjoy good teeth, good chewing and a good stomach once more. If you have any of the symptoms mentioned, then Pyorrhea, sometimes called Riggs Disease, is on the way—you are bound to lose your teeth, and have to wear those awful false teeth, if you don't find a cure for it now. Simply send your name and address on coupon below and I will tell you all about this dreadful disease and why my simple home treatment may save your teeth without pain or expense of the dental chair.

Will you help celebrate? "How would you advise me to observe my 25th anniversary as an Ear Specialist?" was the question Specialist Sproule asked some of his friends. Their answer was unanimously: "Give away a certain number of your treatments for Head Noises, Free."

After careful consideration, the Specialist has decided to do this, and now he wants every sufferer from Head Noises to help him celebrate by sending for a Free Treatment.

Just 25 years ago he began curing this trouble and he has kept right on doing it for a quarter of a century. Hundreds and hundreds of people who never thought to be free from those incessant, terrible noises have secured a blessed quietness by the use of his treatment.

Moreover, every Head Noises sufferer's heart confirms the medical truth that his trouble is only too surely a red lantern of warning to tell of coming Deafness. Whether the ear-sounds are constant or occasional—whether the hearing is still acute or impaired to a greater or lesser extent, Deafness will come. What more pitiful affliction? To be starving for love, yet unable to hear a word of sympathy, shut out from friends and companionship—to be only a burden and annoyance to others!

FREE
HEAD NOISES TREATMENT

To celebrate his Silver Jubilee, Specialist Sproule offers Free Treatment for a short time to every Head Noises sufferer who reads these lines.

He does this in response to the requests of people just like you, who suffered from Head Noises and approaching Deafness, and who have been entirely cured by his treatment.

Don't miss this Silver opportunity. Just sit down and write a note to Specialist Sproule asking for a "Jubilee Free Treatment," or write "Jubilee Free Treatment" on a post card, sign your full name and address, and the treatment will come to you as quickly as the mails can bring it.

You can then see this Method for yourself. It won't cost you a cent. Don't delay and don't hesitate. Get in line to have a Jubilee yourself by getting rid of those terrible noises. Think how happy you would be to be free from them!

Write right NOW. Send for a Jubilee Free Head Noises Treatment and share in the Jubilee.

Can Be CURED!

No old-style Truss, Steel Springs, Elastic Bands or Leg Straps; No Knife, No Operation, No Discomfort, No Loss of Time, Enjoy Grand, Glorious Comfort while your Rupture heals.

This Book Tells How. I Will Send It to You FREE!

Here's a book that EVERY ruptured person ought to read. It contains valuable information about rupture. Describes and pictures various kinds of rupture and rupture supports. Tells how to hold and control rupture and how to avoid serious consequences, such as strangulation, etc. It has shown hundreds the way to better health and happiness. Send for it.

You Can Be Free from Truss Slavery and Rupture Misery

Are you going about harnessed like an over-burdened truck horse with an ill-fitting truss or makeshift contraption gouging into your flesh or slipping out of place, causing you endless misery?

I've proved to a multitude of rupture sufferers that PERFECT support and COMFORT are possible. Let me show YOU Free how YOUR rupture can be held and held with PERFECT, GLORIOUS comfort.

Here Is Proof!

Mr. John T. Custard, Lamar, Mo., says:—"It has really cured me." Mr. Broadus Willoughby, Crosby, Ala., says:—"The Schuiling Rupture Lock is the best I ever used. It has cured me." Mr. Louis Fitting, Kooskia, Idaho, says:—"I wore the Schuiling Lock five months and can say I am cured."

These are samples of scores of letters we have on file. I will send copies of dozens like them.

I offer STILL STRONGER PROOF. I will send you a SCHUILING RUPTURE LOCK if you wish and let you

Test It at Our Risk

Our Trial Offer plan enables you to put on a SCHUILING RUPTURE LOCK and run, jump, pull, tug, twist, squirm, strain, cough, sneeze and do anything else you like to prove to yourself that IT HOLDS and holds COMFORTABLY under ALL conditions. Once one of these Locks is adjusted to fit you, we are willing for you to give it the severest test that you or anybody else can think of. Write today for our book and particulars of trial offer Free.

The Schuiling Rupture Lock

Is a very different kind of support. It conforms perfectly with the shape of the body. It has no steel springs, no rubber or elastic bands, no plasters or leg straps. Yet, when once adjusted to your needs you simply CANNOT displace it by any action of the body. You can put it on or take it off as easy as snapping your finger. This wonderful rupture support will really LOCK your rupture so it CAN'T come down.

It holds the rupture with wonderful firmness, yet with all the comfort that could be obtained by gentle pressure of the hand.

If you wear a properly fitted SCHUILING RUPTURE LOCK your rupture can't come down; bear that in mind—your rupture CAN'T come down no matter what position you get into. Think of it, a rupture support that holds your rupture so it CAN'T come down and at the same time holds with REAL COMFORT.

Isn't such a rupture support worth spending a penny or two to find out about? Isn't it worth INVESTIGATING? Doesn't your own good judgment tell you as you read these lines that there MUST be something remarkable about a rupture support that will do this?

Fill out the following coupon and send it to me right to-day—right off, right now, while you are thinking of it and have address before you. Or write a postcard or letter if you prefer, but write it and send it AT ONCE.

Would You Like to Quit Tobacco Quickly and Easily and Enjoy Yourself a Thousand Times Better While in Robust Health?

STOP RUINING YOUR LIFE

Why continue to commit slow suicide when you can live a really contented life, if you only get your body and nerves right? It is unsafe and torturing to attempt to rid oneself of tobacco by suddenly stopping with "will-power"—don't do it. The correct way is to eliminate nicotine poison from the system, and genuinely overcome the craving.

Tobacco is poisonous and seriously injures health in several ways, causing such disorders as nervous dyspepsia, sleeplessness, gas belching, gnawing, or other uncomfortable sensation in stomach; constipation, headache, weak eyes, loss of vigor, red spots on skin, throat irritation, catarrh, asthma, bronchitis, heart failure, melancholy, lung trouble, impure (poisoned) blood, heartburn, torpid liver, loss of appetite, bad teeth, foul breath, lassitude, lack of ambition, weakening and falling out of hair and many other disorders.

Overcome that peculiar nervousness and craving for cigarettes, cigars, pipe, chewing tobacco, or snuff.

Here is an opportunity to receive FREE a carefully compiled treatise on the subject, containing interesting and valuable information that you should be glad to learn about. This book tells all about the renowned THREE DAYS' METHOD by which thousands and thousands saved themselves from the life-wrecking tobacco habit. Full particulars, including the book on tobacco and snuff habit, will be mailed FREE TO YOU, in plain wrapper, postpaid. All you need do is merely REQUEST IT. A postcard will do. Address:

NOTE—To those who are injuring their health, making themselves nervous, dyspeptic, etc., by excessive use of cigarettes, cigars, pipe, snuff or chewing tobacco, here is your opportunity to become your own master quickly and easily.

MAKE YOUR OWN LIQUOR

Just send your name and address. We are expert distillers, and we will show you how to make your own Whiskies, Liquors, and Cordials in the privacy of your own home and save over 50 per cent. of the Liquor Dealers' prices with "Zanol" Concentrated Extracts. It's very simple and easy. A few minutes does the work. No distilling, no boiling, no trouble. "Zanol" is a pure concentration of the same ingredients as is used by all liquor dealers.

LET US SHOW YOU HOW.

Save the Liquor Dealer's heavy expenses, high licenses and enormous profits, as thousands of others are doing. Any one can now have a pure, healthful, stimulating glass of any Whiskey, Liquor or Cordial, whenever and wherever they want it. Dry or wet, makes no difference.

STRICTLY LEGAL AND LEGITIMATE.

No license required. Investigated by the highest authorities. Complies with U. S. Government regulations and laws. Guaranteed by us under the U. S. Pure Food Laws. Thousands now making their own liquors at home by the "Zanol Method."

WHAT OTHERS SAY:—"Never drank finer whiskies in my life," writes P. H. Hawley, Colorado. "Could not get better for three times the money," A. Kumm, Minnesota. "Certainly is a cheap way of making," E. C. Doobs, Georgia. "Has cured my stomach trouble," C. L. Tudor, California. "Best I ever tried," T. S. Turner, Alabama. "Best Whiskey in the world," L. W. Wooden, Massachusetts. "Has a splendid, soothing, exhilarating taste," G. L. Wicklim. Thousands of other satisfied customers.

Stop Using a Truss

Yes, STOP IT, I say! You KNOW by your own experience that it is only a make-shift—a false prop against a collapsing wall and that it is undermining your health. Why, then, continue to wear it? Let me point out a better way.

FREE TO THE RUPTURED

I want to send to every RUPTURED SUFFERER, absolutely FREE TRIAL OF PLAPAO and my interesting, instructive 48-page book on Rupture—explains what rupture is and why trusses and similar MERE MECHANICAL supports cannot be relied upon. The PLAPAO-PADS are nature's way. This simple, inexpensive home treatment gives quick relief, strengthens weakened muscles. Does away with steel and rubber bands that chafe and pinch. Close the hernial opening as nature intended so the rupture CAN'T come down. Hundreds have testified under oath that the PLAPAO-PADS positively and permanently cured their rupture —some of them most aggravated cases and of long standing. Awarded Gold Medal and Grand Prix.

Softas Velvet—Easy to Apply—Inexpensive

There is no metal about the PLAPAO-PADS—no straps, buckles or springs attached—soft as velvet. Easy to wear. No delay from work. Easy to apply and require no readjusting. Process of recovery is natural, so afterward no use for trusses. Ask me to prove what I say by sending Trial PLAPAO and a most convincing mass of evidence FREE—no charge for it, now or ever—nothing to be returned. Don't wait. Write today—NOW.

MAN'S HEALTH FORTIFIED

By living a healthful, active life and assisting nature in obviating the strains due to severe physical exercises and with the assistance of a celebrated "SCHNOTER'S" Army and Navy Suspensory, which will give and keep you in better bodily vigor than all the patent medicines that were ever introduced to the public. Ask your physician about this.

Remember these words:

"A walk of a mile in the open air
Will save you more than your nickel fare.
For in God's out-doors the air is good,
It will clear your brain and redden your blood.
And bring you more vigor and health by far
Than you can possibly get in any old car."

The Genuine Schnoter's Suspensories are retailed at all Druggists'. Send for descriptive booklet. By the Pioneers in Suspensory making.

I Guarantee to Cure

ECZEMA

TO STAY CURED!

It is also called SALT RHEUM, SCALD HEAD, TETTER, ITCH, WEEPING SKIN, MILK CRUST, PRURITUS—these are different names, but all mean one thing—ECZEMA

DR. J. E. CANNADAY, THE DOCTOR WHO TREATS NOTHING BUT ECZEMA.

I prove every word that I have said—I give to every sufferer

A FREE TRIAL

Just to show you that you need my treatment. It is yours for the asking. If you have been to other doctors, if you have taken patent medicine and used lotions and salves till you are disgusted, write to me—I will send you ABSOLUTELY FREE OF CHARGE, A TRIAL TREATMENT. There are no strings to this statement. There is not one cent to pay—not a penny accepted. I know what my trial treatment will do; I know that it will convince you more than anything else on earth that you need my treatment.

Don't Miss This Chance for a Cure

If you are SUFFERING FROM ECZEMA you can only be cured one way—REMOVE THE CAUSE. What is the cause? ACID IN THE BLOOD. How do you remove it? By cleansing the blood of the ACID.

My treatment is soothing—relieves the dreadful itching at once and cures the disease quickly. You don't have to take treatment for months and months. ONLY ONE CASE IN TEN needs the second treatment—ONE IN FIFTY needs the third—Think of that!

What Eczema Is

Eczema is a disease of the blood and affects all parts of the body—the face, lips, ears, hands, feet, genital organ, etc.

SYMPTOMS.—Yellowish red eruption; the pimples or patches may swell and the itching is so great the person will scratch the top off; then they bleed and dark scales form; there is an oozing of matter. In some the skin cracks and bleeds. Itching is terrible; a person suffering will scratch till they bleed. Scales form on parts of the body where the clothing comes in contact.

Ten Years' Guarantee

I positively Guarantee that every case cured by me will stay cured 10 YEARS! IT MUST BE GOOD or it could not be sold this way.

Strong as Rock of Gibraltar

I am a graduate from two leading medical schools. I am the holder of a GOLD MEDAL taken in Competitive Examination. Does this not show that I am fully qualified? I will send you my book, showing endorsements of business men of all classes. Also testimonials and pictures from cured patients everywhere. Some of them may be YOUR NEIGHBORS.

MY BOOK

Is the most complete book ever sent out. I explain every form of the disease plainly and fully. I show pictures of many severe cases, which are extremely interesting. I send you names of thousands who have been cured and are grateful.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:-

Dr. Cannaday, of our city is a physician, making a specialty of ECZEMA.

We have handled his business exclusively for one year and eighty four days. His patients deposit their money with us, in their OWN NAME, to be paid to the doctor, if his treatment is satisfactory. If we remember correctly, we have been called upon by only FOUR of his patients for their money, and it seemed then, that the fault was more with the Express Companies than with the treatment failing.

Considering the number of cases he treats, we regard his success as remarkable. We consider him perfectly reliable, and assure those placing their money with us a fair, square, business deal.

Yours truly,

Relief for Catarrh Sufferers Now FREE

'ou Can Now Treat This Trouble in Your Own Home and Get Relief at Once.

By the new method the nose and throat are treated by an effective local remedy applied directly to the afflicted membranes.

The Elixir, taken into the stomach, has a direct influence upon the mucous membranes of the body and cures the disease by removing the cause.

How the Remedy for Catarrh Was Discovered

THIS terrible disease has raged unchecked for years simply because symptoms have been treated while the cause of the trouble has been left to circulate in the blood and bring the disease back as fast as local treatments cou.d relieve it.

C. E. Gauss, who experimented for years on a treatment for Catarrh, found that after perfecting a balm that relieved the nose and throat troubles quickly he could not prevent the trouble beginning all over again.

On test cases he could completely remove all signs of Catarrh from nose and throat, but in a few weeks they were back.

Careful experiments and investigations have shown hat as the troubles were expelled from the nose and hroat the real cause of the disease was overlooked, nd in a short time the Catarrh would return stronger han ever. Mr. Gauss has gone way ahead of the rdinary methods of treatment and has provided a emedy that

Removes the Cause

and Immediately Gives Relief to the Nose and Throat

Reese Jones, of Scranton, Penn., says that after trying any other treatments, he used this new method and—Ay nose is now entirely clear and free and I am not othered by the disease any more. The New Combined reatment is worth its weight in gold."

Temporary relief from catarrh may be obtained in her ways, but the New Combined Treatment must initably be accepted for permanent results.

Sarah J. Cape, Mount Pella, Tenn., says: suffered the pains and distress of catarrh r thirteen years and, needless to state, tried arly every method. But by your new methd I was completely cured, and you cannot hagine the joy that has come over me."

Trial Treatment FREE

This new method is so important to the elfare of humanity, so vital to every person ffering from any form of catarrh, that the pportunity to actually test it and prove its sults will be gladly extended without one nt of cost.

A large trial treatment, with complete, miute directions, will be sent free to any carrh sufferer.

Send no money, take no risks, make no romises. Simply clip, sign and mail the couon and the test package of the New Comned Treatment will be sent, fully prepaid, gether with the valuable book on Catarrh.

Tobacco Habit BANISHED in 48 to 72 Hours

Immediate Results

Trying to quit the tobacco habit unaided is a losing fight against heavy odds, and means a serious shock to your nervous system. So don't try it! Make the tobacco habit quit you. It will quit you if you will just take Tobacco Redeemer according to directions.

It doesn't make a particle of difference whether you have been a user of tobacco for a single month or for 50 years, or how much you use, or in what form you use it. Whether you smoke cigars, cigarettes, pipe, chew plug or fine cut or use snuff Tobacco Redeemer will positively remove all craving for tobacco in any form in from 48 to 72 hours. Your tobacco craving will begin to decrease after the very first dose—there's no waiting for results.

Tobacco Redeemer is absolutely harmless and contains no habit-forming drugs of any kind—the most marvelously quick, thoroughly reliable remedy for the tobacco habit the world has ever known.

Not a Substitute

Tobacco Redeemer is in no sense a substitute for tobacco, but is a radical, efficient treatment. After finishing the treatment you have absolutely no desire to use tobacco again or to continue the use of the remedy. It quiets the nerves, and will make you feel better in every way. If you really want to quit the tobacco habit—get rid of it so completely that when you see others using it, it will not awaken the slightest desire in you—you should at once begin a course of Tobacco Redeemer treatment for the habit.

Results Absolutely Guaranteed

A single trial will convince the most skeptical. Our legal, binding, money-back guarantee goes with each full treatment. If Tobacco Redeemer fails to banish the tobacco habit when taken according to the plain and easy directions, your money will be cheerfully refunded upon demand.

Let Us Send You Convincing Proof If you're a slave of the tobacco habit and want to find a sure, quick way of quitting "for keeps" you owe it to yourself and your family to mail the coupon below or send your name and address on a postal and receive our free booklet on the deadly effect of tobacco on the human system, and positive proof that Tobacco Redeemer will quickly free you from the habit.
